WHEAT-FED PORK.

Recent market reports from Chicago quote corn and wheat at 2 to 55 cents with the latter a shade in advance. Corn is scarce and selling at an unusually high price, which is causing efforts to be made throughout the Middle West toward substituting wheat for corn as food for hogs.

In Oregon, particularly in the Willamette valley, where little or no corn is raised, the experiments will be watched with considerable interest. Pork raising, at present prices, is a very profitable industry in this state and it should be given more attention.

During the 70's the farmers of Illinois, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska were growing corn on such an extensive scale that the price fell in many instances below the cost of production. During that period a very large proportion of the crop was sold to Chicago grain buyers, as at that time comparatively little feeding was being done. This depressed condition of the corn market caused the farmers of that section to look into the matter with a view to discovering a remedy.

As a result an increased interest was soon shown in hog and cattle feeding. Many who had given up the subject of stock raising no consideration at all, soon had a few head of hogs or steers about him which he was feeding for the market from his corn crop.

At present quotations, wheat growing in Oregon is unprofitable. Our farmers should let foreigners feed Europe and turn their attention toward something that will furnish some adequate remuneration for the labor and capital they are now investing in an industry that makes them poorer each year.

With pork at present prices, wheat can be made to yield from 60 to 75 cents per bushel by feeding it to the hogs. The results of experiments made by Prof. French at the Agricultural College last winter on this line are such as to dispel all doubts from the minds of those who have thought that wheat could not be made to produce pork equal in quality to corned pork. The fat on these hogs was very thick and firm in texture while the lean meat was light in color and very juicy, which characteristics have marked all the results in feeding wheat to pigs thus far carried on at the station.

The Oregon farmer is now paying the English ship owner 26 cents per bushel for transporting his wheat to Liverpool, and then turns around and buys his meat in the East, to the price of which is added the cost of freight charges. This is a losing game as every wheat raiser in the Willamette valley can plainly see. Of course all the wheat grown in Oregon could not be turned into pork with a profit to the grower; but sufficient pork should be raised here for Pacific coast consumption. There is no need of buying our lard, bacon and hams in the East. These commodities should be produced at home.

HOW ABOUT IT?

Speaking of a 2000-ton ship that sailed recently from England to the Pacific coast to receive a cargo of grain for Liverpool, for which her owners are to be paid as transportation charges 26 cents per bushel, the Times has the following:

If she had been loaded on her west bound trip with a cargo of tin plate, she would have been able to carry back her cargo of wheat at half the price she is to receive, or 13 cents, in which amount the price of wheat would have been raised to the Oregon farmer.

Now Frank let's figure on this a little and see if your argument will bear investigation. Two thousand tons of wheat, or 66,667 bushels, at 38 cents per bushel, is worth $25,333. Two thousand tons of tin plate or 4,000,000 pounds at six cents per pound—which is a low price for that commodity—would be worth $240,000. According to your theory, the farmer would save at 13 cents per bushel for freight charges, $8,666. Now in order to save this amount to the Oregon wheat grower we must buy $240,000 worth of tin for which is paid $25,333 in wheat, leaving a trade balance of $214,667 which must be paid in cash while our own tin plate manufacturers are standing idle. Where is this $214,667 to come from?

THE Oregon City Courier says: Rev. Rhys Gwynn, a United Brethren minister, has written a letter dated at Wilhoit, to Governor Penney in reference to the pardon from the penitentiary of C. Barleigh, aged 72, for raping Glenna Mabel Irish, a little girl, in which he says: "The people of Lincoln county are highly pleased with your action, as far as I can learn. I have known Mr. Barleigh since 1838, and there is not a blemish on his character."

This meek and lowly sky-pilot; this disciple of the society for the encouragement of raping 13-year-old girls, stands up and runs off at the mouth to the effect, that there is not a blemish on Barleigh's character. Blemish, forsooth! The creed of the denomination to which Rhys belongs must evidently consider the raping of young girls as a joke; a sort of religious ecstasy, as it were. It might be well to keep an eye on "Rhysic."

Sunday's Excursion.

Two hundred and fifty residents of Albany and Corvallis escaped the intense heat of the valley last Sunday by taking advantage of the Oregon Pacific's $1.50 rate to Newport. And what a jolly crowd they were! It is seldom, indeed, that so congenial and pleasant a company of Corvallisites are gotten together on an occasion of this kind, and all who were fortunate enough to take the trip, enjoyed the going and coming, quite as well as they did the surf bathing or a stroll on the beach. To add to the pleasure of the party, the Marine band accompanied the excursion and discoursed several selections that seemed to put new life and animation into every passenger on board. At Newport, the boat was met by the 2nd regiment band, which has been stationed there during the season, and a thousand happy faces greeted the passengers as they alighted from the steamer and wended their way toward the dining room of some adjacent hotel, or toward the culinary department of some friendly camp or cottage, whose hospitable inmates were expected to extend a pressing invitation to the new comers to partake of their Sunday meal. As the train leaves the valley at 7:30 p. m. and necessitates early rising; breakfast is had before one's appetite has been whet up sufficiently to do the morning meal that justice due it and which it is usual to pay it, and in consequence, a ravenous desire for food has been engendered long before the destination is reached, that takes a wonderful amount of provender to appease. Peter Abbey, the general proprietor of the Bay View house, is authority for the statement that these Sunday excursionists have such ravenous appetites that he loses money on everyone of them that stops at his place and is thinking seriously of asking Receiver Clark to discontinue Sunday trains for the balance of the summer in order to play partially even. This, however, Mr. Clark has no notion of doing, and on next Sunday another opportunity will be given the heat-oppressed residents of Corvallis to hie away to the coast and thus escape, for a few hours, the mighty rays of old Sol, which, during the past week, he has sent down with a vengeance as to arouse us to a realization of his might. The season is just now at its height. Some few seashores have left for their homes, but each incoming train brings a goodly number of valley folk and thus the interest and activity about Newport has not begun to wane.

Carl is out announcing the marriage of Miss DeWitt Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Gellatly, to Lieut. Clarence E. Dentler, of the 11th U. S. Infantry, to take place Sept. 12th at the Gellatly residence. They will be at home in Corvallis after Sept. 20th.

The Southern Pacific company announce that they will issue, effective September 1, 1894, a special tariff on hops in carloads minimum weight of 12,000 pounds of $1.70 per 100 pounds from Oregon terminal and intermediate points to Missouri river, Mississippi river; Chicago and points common therewith; Cincinnati, Detroit and common points; Pittsburg, Buffalo and common points; and New York, Boston and Atlantic seaboard points. This is nearly 25 per cent. reduction and will be of great benefit to the hop growers of Oregon. The Southern Pacific company recognize the fact of the present low prices being offered for hops, and are willing to help the situation by reducing freight rates.

People seem to forget the fact that Benton county officials are now working under the salary law and that all instruments sent to the recorder for record must be accompanied by the cash. Owing to the leniency of the recorder while working under the fee system many seem of the opinion that that official can still be "stood off," but he can't. The law expressly provides that no instrument shall be deemed to be of record until the fees for recording same are fully paid. Recorder Waters informs the GAZETTE that it is a very common occurrence for persons to send in deeds and mortgages without the cash, and that the senders no doubt think they will be immediately filed and recorded. In this they are mistaken, and those who, since the 1st of July, have mailed any instrument to the recorder without also sending the cash, will find it to their welfare to liquidate without delay should they wish such instruments to be on record.

THE BARREN FOOT-HILLS

To be Made Excellent Grazing Lands by the Introduction of the Flat Pea.

While at the college this week, a GAZETTE reporter was shown a sample of the Flat Pea vine (Lathyrus Sylvesteris) that was recently imported to this country from Germany. In some respects the vine resembles the vetch used in many parts of the state for fodder; also the pea vine that grows with a great deal of vigor in the mountains of the Coast range. The vine in question, however, is a perennial, and in that respect differs from any plant which it resembles. It was propagated by Professor Wagner, of Germany, who experimented extensively with it on various kinds of soils, before anything was said of its merits. As the vine proved such a success in its mother country, some of the seed was taken to England where it was sown on the barren chalk hills of that country. The soil is very thin in these districts, but the pea made a luxuriant growth and promises to reclaim the entire section to the use and benefit of the agriculturist. Soon after its introduction into America, the state of Michigan established a branch experiment station on what is familiarly known as the Jack Pine plains—a vast section of that state upon which no vegetation suitable for grazing purposes has grown—for the purpose of determining whether or not the Flat Pea would grow there successfully, and their expectations, according to Prof. French, have been more than realized. Reports from the experiment station of that state show that from 12 to 15 tons have been grown to the acre. It is also proving a success in Kansas, as well as in several other states where it has been given a trial.

Three years ago Professor French tried to import some of the seed, but it cost $10 per pound, and as a quantity less than three pounds would not be sold, the matter was given up for the time from point of economy. While on a visit to the experiment station at Berkeley, California, some two years ago, Mr. French found the vine growing there and made arrangements to have some of the roots sent to him at Corvallis during the following winter. They came by mail and were planted according to directions. This year the vine has made a growth of five feet and will yield about a quart of seed. It has a very strong root and makes a healthy, hardy growth. It is of very much the same composition as clover and all kinds of stock do well on it. A good sized bed of this rare plant is now growing on the college farm from a couple table-spoonfuls of seed which Prof. French received last winter. The plants at this time are very small, but in another season it is expected that they will attain large proportions and produce a quantity of seed. It is said that the vine attains a length of 20 feet in a single season and the plant will grow for a period of twenty-five years from one setting.

As this peculiar vine will thrive in shallow soils, it is expected to do well on the barren foot-hills of the Coast range, where at present nothing but poverty grass will grow at all, and that only during the rainy season. By this means thousands of acres of land, which at present is almost worthless, could be converted into paying property for hay and grazing purposes. By this means also, much of the land in Eastern Oregon, where the bunch grass has been trampled out and thus made practically valueless, would be reclaimed for the immense herds of stock now roaming the prairies of the vast inland Empire. Prof. French is of the opinion that he will be able to get the plant well introduced throughout the state within the next five years. Should it prove as much of a success as it is expected to, the benefits that will accrue to the state by its introduction will alone more than reimburse the government for its outlay in maintaining the experiment station during the past five years.

Roy Raber has returned from Arizona where he has been superintending the operation of twelve amalgamators at the Mammoth mine.

Cool atmosphere and ocean ozone can be enjoyed for several hours at a cost of only $1.50 by taking in the Oregon Pacific excursion to Newport next Sunday.

Farewell Party.

Society was awakened Wednesday night from the lethargy in which it has lain during the past two months. Will H. Bloss was to leave town on the morrow for Vancouver, Washington, where he had accepted a position, and an informal farewell party was tendered him by Mrs. Bloss, who was ably assisted in the entertainment by members of Benjamin Harrison Camp, Sons of Veterans, of which Will was captain. His final determination to leave Corvallis was not made until Tuesday, so that little time was afforded Mrs. Bloss to arrange for the affair, still, for all that, she has reason to congratulate herself upon her efforts, as it is seldom that so thoroughly enjoyable a social event is given in this city. On the lawn south of the residence was spread a canopy of bunting, from the four corners of which streamers of flapping were stretched. Under the canopy and along the streamers Chinese lanterns were hung whose soft light gave a pleasant effect. About the lawn, chairs, tables, and rustic seats had been arranged which added comfort to the hundreds or more friends who had accepted invitations for the evening. Games and conversation occupied the guests until 9:30 when the company were enjoying a march to the sweet strains of music furnished by an orchestra inside the house, Captain Bloss was called under the canopy by Mr. Bert Van Cleve and in a few words presented with a gold chain and charm in behalf of the members of Benj. Harrison Camp, Sons of Veterans. In a few well-chosen words Mr. Bloss accepted the gift, and cordially thanked the donors for their expression of fraternity and good will. At a late hour the company departed feeling deeply indebted to their charming hostess for an enjoyable evening. In the departure of Mr. Bloss from among us, Corvallis has lost a desirable citizen; the football team of the O. A. C. a coacher of exceptional ability, and the Sons of Veterans an earnest and able worker. In his new field of labor the GAZETTE wishes him unbounded success.

A Good Thing to Keep at Hand.

From the Troy (Kansas) Chief. Some years ago we were very much subject to severe spells of cholera morbus, and now when we feel any of the symptoms that usually precede that ailment, such as sickness at the stomach, diarrhoea, etc., we become scared. We have found Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy the very thing to straighten one out in such cases, and always keep it about. We are not writing this for a pay testimonial, but to let our readers know what is a good thing to keep handy in the house. For sale by Graham & Wells.

Yaquina Collectorship.

Yesterday's dispatches from Washington state that the senate adjourned without having confirmed the appointment of James Ball, as collector of customs at the port of Yaquina. This appointment was made by the president several months ago, but for some unaccountable reason has hung fire ever since and R. A. Bussell is still holding the fort against all comers.

Later.—The last official act of the president before leaving for Gray Gables was the consideration of the Yaquina collectorship, when he reappointed James Ball. The senate having previously adjourned, a confirmation of the appointment by that body will be unnecessary, and Mr. Ball will probably assume the duties of the office as soon as his official bond and oath of office can be filed and approved by the proper authorities. This was one of the Markley-Murphy selections, and naturally John is feeling jubilant over the result, even though the matter was a long time in being finally settled.

An Unpatented Sleep Disturber.

Some one down our way owns a cow, which, unfortunately for those living in the vicinity, is troubled with a serious attack of insomnia. She has a deep bass voice and evidently contemplates an early engagement with some comic opera troupe, and has gone into active training with an assiduity worthy of a better cause. These insomniac attacks usually come on between the hours of four and eight in the morning, which time seems to be set apart for dress rehearsal, although not infrequently the coarse, raspy tones of her deep, guttural voice may be heard as she bawls right in the middle of the night. Whenever the cow is troubled with insomnia the whole neighborhood cease their morning nap just out of sympathy, as it were, for the poor old brute. Unless her owner takes her to the country, where fresh air and mountain scenery are more plentiful than on the block just north of the court house, and where neighbors are extremely scarce, this cow may get insomnia in a malignant form. It would be a pity to have her young life cut off suddenly in the prime of cowhood, but it is almost impossible to save a cow from the ravages of insomnia if kept in a thickly populated community, especially when the disease affects its victim during those hours of the night when the neighbors are putting in their best efforts to sleep away the cares of the day in refreshing slumber.

A Racking Cough

Cured by Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Mrs. P. D. HALL, 217 Genesee St., Lockport, N. Y., says: "Over thirty years ago, I remember hearing my father describe the wonderful curative effects of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. During a recent attack of La Grippe, which assumed the form of a catarrh, soreness of the lungs, accompanied by an aggravating cough, I used various remedies and prescriptions. While some of these medicines partially alleviated the coughing during the day, none of them afforded me any relief from that spasmodic action of the lungs which would seize me the moment I attempted to lie down at night. After ten or twelve such nights, I was

Nearly in Despair,

and had almost decided to sit up all night in my easy chair, and procure what sleep I could in that way. It then occurred to me that I had a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I took a spoonful of this preparation in a little water, and was able to lie down without coughing. In a few moments I fell asleep, and awoke in the morning greatly refreshed and feeling much better. I took a teaspoonful of the Pectoral every night for a week, then gradually decreased the dose, and in two weeks my cough was cured."

MYSTERIES!

The Nervous System the Seat of Life and Mind. Recent Wonderful Discoveries.

No mystery has ever compared with that of human life. It has been the leading subject of professional research and study in all ages. But notwithstanding this fact it is not generally known that the seat of life and mind is located in the upper part of the spinal cord, and so sensitive is this portion of the nervous system that even the prick of a needle will cause instant death.

Recent discoveries have demonstrated that all the organs of the body are under the control of the nerve centers, located in or near the base of the brain, and that when these are deranged the organs which they supply with nerve fluid are also deranged. When it is remembered that a serious injury to the spinal cord will cause paralysis of the body below the injured point, because the nerve force is prevented by the injury from reaching the paralyzed portion, it will be understood how the derangement of the nerve centers will cause the derangement of the various organs which they supply with nerve force.

Two-thirds of chronic diseases are due to the imperfect action of the nerve centers at the base of the brain, not from a derangement primarily originating in the organ itself. The great mistake of physicians in treating these diseases is that they treat the organ rather than the nerve centers which are the cause of the trouble. Dr. FRANKLIN MILLS, the celebrated specialist, has profoundly studied this subject for over 20 years, and has made many important discoveries in connection with it, chief among them being the facts contained in the above statement, and that the ordinary methods of treatment are wrong. All headache, dizziness, dullness, confusion, nervousness, blues, mania, melancholy, insanity, epilepsy, St. Vitus' dance, etc., are nervous diseases no matter how caused. The wonderful success of Dr. MILLS' RESTORATIVE NERVINE is due to the fact that it is based on the foregoing principle. Dr. MILLS' RESTORATIVE NERVINE is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by Dr. MILLS MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It contains neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.
