

WHAT ARE WE FIGHTING FOR?

It is a mystery yet to be solved as to what campaign powder the Oregonian expects the republican party to fire in 1896. It thoroughly endorses Cleveland's and Carlisle's financial policy. It insists that Wilson's tariff bill must not materially be interfered with, and, except for a few half-hearted criticisms of Gresham, it endorses all the acts of Cleveland's cabinet. If the democratic party is all so proper and the thing, why change at all? What reason can the republicans give why they should be restored to power? Of course the Republican party can point with pride to Lincoln, Grant, Blaine and Garfield and to its thirty years of prosperous reign, but the people want something more substantial than this "pointing with pride." However, it is probable that a majority of the republicans do not believe in Mr. Cleveland's financial policy. It is very evident that a great majority believe in a return to protective legislation. At least three-fifths of the delegates to the late convention of republican clubs were favorable to the free coinage of silver; but a great number of them were opposed to making that an issue in advance of the adoption of a state platform. Although no persons who favored committing the club to a present expression of free coinage of silver were elected as delegates to Cleveland, several of those who were chosen are known to be favorable to the white metal and none are pronounced anti-free silver men.

The party must be definite in all its expressions. It must let the people know exactly where it stands and what it believes. It must recognize the silver element of the party and declare unequivocally for protection. If the party does this, it will have principles to fight for, and cannot fail to sweep the country for its favorites in 1896.

WE HONOR OUR DEAD.

On May 30th, 1868, that beautiful and now historic order, designating that day for the purpose of strewing with flowers the graves of our nation's dead, was issued by that greatest of all volunteer soldiers, John A. Logan. And now each year on memorial day, in every cemetery, churchyard and God's acre throughout our country, wherever rise those little mounds that mark a hero's resting place, they meet to "bedeck the soldier's graves with flowers and bedew them with tears." What a glorious opportunity to testify to the God of battles and all the powers of earth that we have not forgotten as a people the memory of those who made their breasts a barricade between our country and its foes. They are our "immortals," and what more fitting way to render homage, than to perform this beautiful memorial service over the passionless mounds that cover them.

Brave, gallant, noble-hearted Logan loved the Boys in Blue, and he was wont to say of the inauguration of this custom: "It was the proudest act of my life." Today the six hundred and twenty-two thousand pensioners bless his memory; three hundred and fifty thousand veterans in the six thousands posts of the Grand Army of the Republic cherish and love the name of their dead commander, and two hundred and thirty thousand widows and orphans breathe a prayer for the peace of his soul.

Our people boast that our principal reliance is upon a citizen soldiery for the defense of the Republic. Such a grand lesson in gratitude and fraternity as we teach the thousands of school children throughout the land today, must bear a rich harvest of patriotism and devotion to the flag; for a volunteer army, called from the ordinary avocations of life, retains the hopes, fears and sentiments of the people at large, from which it is taken. And if it should ever again become necessary to fill a gap in the ranks of freedom, such beautiful examples will inspire the hearts of coming generations with patriotic ardor, and encourage them to emulate the example of Our Boys in Blue. The heritage of good deeds will create armies in the dread time of war; it will build empires and conquer the foes of freedom.

THE Oregonian takes great unctious to its soul in that none of "the thirty" were elected as delegates to the national convention of republican clubs. It gives a little song and dance, and then predicts the political annihilation of every anti-Dolphite. It sneeringly remarks that "the immortal thirty does not seem to be in it." A casual observer, however, would imagine, on viewing the convention, that the thirty were in it good and hard. Nearly every republican member of the legislature, who voted against Dolph, was elected as a delegate to the state convention. The only man that seemed to have been personally sat upon by the convention, was Joseph Nestor Dolph, who made himself very conspicuous from the beginning, but who finally discovered that he was very small potatoes, not many in a hill, the hills a good way apart, and a darn small patch.

THE CONVICTION OF LOTAN.

James Lotan, much to his surprise and the surprise of his friends, has been convicted by the federal jury in Judge Bellingher's court, of conspiring to defraud the government. The Oregonian takes his conviction very much to heart. Mr. Scott says he opposed Lotan's nomination as collector, editorially and personally, but declares that he believes the collector to be a man of the highest business probity, and that he conducted the affairs of his office faithfully and honestly. Why Mr. Scott should have opposed the appointment of such a fit and pure man, is past understanding.

The Oregonian makes a great ado over the fact that Lotan was convicted principally upon Blum's testimony, and it reads the jury a regular curtain lecture. People living at this distance from Oregon's metropolis, too far away to be influenced by personal contact with the virtue and honor of Mr. Lotan, fail to perceive why Blum should be called so devilish black, while Mr. Lotan is endowed with all possible goodness. It is true Blum confessed his misdeeds, while the ex-political boss, tremblingly maintains his innocence. But up here, where the sea breezes daily blow the cobwebs from our brains, Blum is regarded with more respect than his more silent and less remorseful associates in crime. At least he is not so thoroughly despised. There is probably no man in Corvallis who would desire a personal acquaintance with Blum, but at the same time, there is hardly a man in the city, who believes that every word of Blum's testimony is true. While some express surprise that the jury should convict on so little evidence, no one says he believes that the jury wronged an innocent man.

There is no question but that the custom house under Lotan's administration harbored and protected a despicable gang of hoodlums, and the Oregonian cuts a very poor figure in making their cause its own. THE GAZETTE does not mean to hint the Oregonian's position is due to legal tender persuasion, but how so much thievery could go on for so long undisturbed by a wide awake and influential newspaper, is somewhat incomprehensible.

A FAKE POLITICAL CIRCUS.

Could Barnum, the great showman, have lived to this day, he might have learned something in the way of advertising recently that would have filled his mammoth tents with deluded people, and his coffers with shining shekels.

The great Oregon political hippodrome, containing the greatest galaxy of political stars that ever graced an Oregon assemblage, heralded by the Portland papers as the coming wonder, upon whose acts the eyes of all the world would be fixed, came and has gone. It was a gorgeous parade and the banners were loud and gaudy; but the management contented itself with brass band advertising. It had only one animal to show, the noble lion, Joseph Nestor Dolph; and before the performance was half over, the skin of the lion slipped off, exposing the gigantic ears of the ass.

A majority of the Portland delegates had announced its determination to frown upon any expression of political principles. There was a great curiosity manifested among the other delegates, therefore, as to the real objects and aims of the convention. The real purpose soon manifested itself. It was to serve to introduce Mr. Dolph as an active candidate for the United States senatorship to succeed Mr. Mitchell. He was put forward and put himself forward as every opportunity. But his experience could not have been a pleasant one nor gratifying to his political managers. The convention for Mr. Dolph was a dismal failure.

Practically all that was accomplished was the election of fourteen delegates to the national convention. Questions pertaining to club organization and campaign work were altogether ignored. All this burrah, all this advertising, all these seven hundred actual delegates, resulted in nothing more than the selection of fourteen men to go to Cleveland and a few speeches. The mountain labored and brought forth a mouse.

THE INCOME TAX DECISION.

CORVALLIS, May 28, 1895.
ED. GAZETTE:—When the first opinions were delivered on the income tax law by the supreme court of the United States, it was plainly to be seen by plain men that the court was hunting for a pretext to decide against the law. For instance, they held that an income from rents was not taxable because it was the income of land and a tax on land was a direct tax and had to be apportioned among the states according to their population; according to the same theory grain can never become personal property because it is the direct proceeds of the land and must always remain real estate. This view of the question was taken in the interest of the wealthy real estate owners in New York and other cities where a front foot is worth more than a whole farm in Benton county. But what can be said in favor of such an illogical, unfair, inequitable and unjust construction of an act of congress? In the language of the dissenting opinion of Justice Jackson: "In the imposition of taxes the burdens should be imposed on those having the most ability to bear them. This decision works out a directly opposite result in relieving the citizens having the greater ability while the burdens of taxation are made to fall most heavily and oppressively upon those having the least ability." In other words, this decision is in favor of the rich and against everybody else. Justice Brewer, dissenting, says: "Respect for the constitution will not be impaired by a narrow and technical construction which shall limit the necessary powers of congress. The decision involves nothing less than THE SURRENDER OF THE TAX-

ING POWER TO THE MONEY CLASS." This decision, obtained by the influence of the millionaires of the country, will, like the Dred Scott decision in favor of the wealthy slave owners, "turn to ashes on their lips," and when the constitution is amended, the places of those who made this decision will be filled by men elected directly by the people. If the Dred Scott decision was spurned and spit on by one-half of the people of the union, this decision will meet with the merited contempt of the whole country.
JOHN BURNETT.

THE Roseburg Review evidently has little faith in America and in Americans. Its editor has the political jim-jams, and is prancing around in his stocking feet fighting imaginary money powers that seem to his distorted brain to be poisonously permeating all of Uncle Sam's domain. The Review says the supreme court's recent decision in declaring the income tax unconstitutional, was due to the substantial influence of moneyed men. The Review evidently believes in an income tax, and has a perfect right to its faith, but what littleness of mind it manifests, and what a woeful lack of proper pride in American institutions it betrays in its spiteful criticisms of the highest court of our land.

PUBLIC SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT.

School days are over for 28 boys and girls who received diplomas at the graduating exercises of the Corvallis public schools last Friday evening. The exercises were held in the opera house, and every available seat in the large building was filled with relatives of the graduates and patrons and friends of the school. No pains had been spared in the decorations. The class motto, "Thus ends the first lesson," was written above the platform upon which were seated the graduates, teachers, school board, the speaker of the evening, Dr. G. M. Irwin, and President Bloss. The audience was seated by accommodating ushers and the confusion noticed in the past was entirely avoided. Friends of the class came well provided with flowers to be presented to those who took part in the program.

Horace Scott was salutatorian and Nash Douglas Turney was valedictorian. Both were delivered with good effect and reflected credit, not only upon themselves but also upon their teachers. The class history was read by Miss Ester Avery, who depicted in an humorous vein many of the happy and interesting reminiscences of the eight years of school life which the class were just completing. Miss Cora Young and Miss Frankie Cuthorn each delivered recitations in a clear voice and with splendid taste. Miss Leona Smith contributed much toward the entertainment by the skillful and altogether pleasing manner in which she rendered "The Shepherd's Evening Song," on her violin. Miss Mamie Cartwright, of the class of '90, displayed rare musical taste and skill in her rendition of a very difficult piano solo. A male quartette consisting of John Fulton, J. Fred Yates, H. L. Holgate and B. W. Johnson, sang two numbers and were heartily encored. W. E. Yates, before presenting members of the class with diplomas, took occasion to speak of the progress made by the school during the past year and paid the teachers a glowing compliment for their zeal and energy and the splendid work which they had accomplished. A vocal solo by Miss Mabel Johnson was a feature of the entertainment deserving of especial mention. Her voice is exceedingly clear and strong and for one of her years to sing with so much confidence is indeed remarkable. Appreciation of her efforts was shown by a hearty encore.

The address to the class by Dr. Irwin was a masterly effort. It contained many words of wisdom and sound advice, and was attentively listened to by all. One of the leading thoughts was that attainments are reached by perseverance and were measured by the obstacles overcome. The graduates were told to judge of men by what they had accomplished. Trials of the eight years of school life were the stepping stones of the future. Before the class were years of possible attainment. Much time was required in getting ready for the battle of life; but that was man's doom—one third of his life was required in getting ready. The whole address was full of lofty, patriotic sentiments, and several times during its delivery the speaker was interrupted by hearty bursts of applause.

HORTICULTURAL QUARANTINE REGULATIONS.

At a special meeting of the Oregon State Board of Horticulture, held in Portland, April 2, 1895, all members present, the following regulations were adopted, in accordance with the laws regulating such matters, and are, therefore, binding upon all persons. The regulations are to take effect and be in force from and after May 4, 1895:

Rule 1—All consignees, agents or other persons, shall, within 24 hours, notify the quarantine officer of the State Board of Horticulture, or a duly commissioned quarantine guardian, of the arrival of any trees, plants, buds or cions at the quarantine station, in the district of final destination.

Rule 2—All trees, plants, cuttings, grafts, buds or cions, imported or brought into the state from any foreign country, or from any of the United States or territories, are hereby required to be inspected upon arrival at the quarantine station in the district of final destination, and if any such nursery stock, trees, plants, cuttings, grafts, buds or cions are found to be free of insect pests and fungous diseases, the said quarantine officer or duly commissioned quarantine guardian shall issue a certificate to that effect. And furthermore, if any of said trees, plants, cuttings, grafts, buds or cions are found infested with insect pests, fungi, blight or other diseases injurious to fruit or to fruit trees, or other trees or plants, they shall be disinfected and remain in quarantine until the quarantine of the State Board of Horticulture or the duly commissioned quarantine guardian can determine whether the said trees, plants, cuttings, grafts, buds or cions are free from live injurious insect pests or their eggs, larvae or pupae, or fungous diseases before they can be offered for sale, gift, distribution or transportation. All persons or companies are hereby prohibited from carrying any trees, plants, cuttings, grafts, buds or cions from without the state to any point within the state beyond the nearest point on its line or course to the quarantine station in the district of ultimate destination; or from any point within the state to any other point therein, until such trees, plants, cuttings, grafts, buds or cions have been duly inspected, and if required disinfected as hereinbefore provided, and all such shipments must be accompanied by the proper certificate of the inspecting officer. Provided, however, that after such persons or company have given the proper officer four days' notice, he or they shall not be required to hold such shipments further, without directions from such officer.

Rule 3—All peach, nectarine, apricot, plum or almond trees, and all other trees budded or grafted upon peach stock or roots, all peach or other pits, and all peach, nectarine, apricot, plum or almond cuttings, buds or cions, raised or grown in a district where the "peach yellows" or the "peach rosette" are known to exist, are hereby prohibited from being imported into or planted or offered for sale, gift or distribution within the state of Oregon.

Rule 4—All trees, plants, cuttings, grafts, buds, cions, seeds or pits arriving from any foreign country found infested with insect pests or their eggs, larvae or pupae, or with fungi, or other disease or diseases hitherto unknown in this state, are hereby prohibited from landing.

Rule 5—Fruit of any kind grown in any foreign country, or in any of the United States or territories, found infested with any insect or insects, or with any fungi, blight or other disease or diseases injurious to fruit trees, or other trees or plants, is hereby prohibited from being offered for sale, gift or distribution within the state.

Rule 6—Any boxes, packages, packing material and the like infested by any insect or insects, or their eggs, larvae or pupae, or by any fungi, blight, or other disease or diseases known to be injurious to fruit or to fruit trees, or to other trees or plants, and liable to spread contagion, are hereby prohibited from being offered for sale, gift, distribution, or transportation until said material has been disinfected by dipping in boiling water and allowing it to remain in said boiling water not less than two minutes; such boiling water used as such disinfectant to contain in solution one pound of concentrated potash to each and every ten gallons of water.

Rule 11—Animals known as flying fox, Australian or English wild rabbit, or other animals or birds detrimental to fruit or fruit trees, plants, etc., are prohibited from being brought or landed in this state, and if landed shall be destroyed.

Rule 12—Quarantine stations: For the Second district, comprising the counties of Marion, Polk, Benton, Linn, Lincoln and Lane, shall be Salem. John Minto quarantine officer, or any member of the board, or the secretary thereof.

Rule 13—Importers or owners of nursery stock, trees, or cuttings, grafts, buds or cions, desiring to have such nursery stock, trees, or cuttings, grafts, buds or cions inspected at points other than regular quarantine stations may have such inspection done where required, provided, however, that such importers shall pay all charges of inspection. Such charges and expenses to be paid before a certificate is granted.

Transportation companies, or persons or consignees or agents shall deliver and cause to be detained all nursery stock, trees, plants, and fruit at one or other of the quarantine stations, for inspection, as provided by the rules and regulations of the board.

Details as to quarantine stations, officers' fees of inspection, receipts for disinfection may be obtained on application to the secretary or any member of the board or by reference to the pamphlets circulated.

By order of the board.
J. R. CARDWELL, President.
GEORGE I. SARGENT, Secretary.

F. A. Falkenberg lectured at the Opera House Tuesday night in the interest of the Woodmen of the World. Mr. Falkenberg is the founder of the Pacific jurisdiction, comprising nine states, and to his efforts is largely due the credit for the rapid growth and prosperity of the young order. He is a man of pleasing address and one of the most eloquent and forcible speakers that has visited Corvallis for a long time. He is now on a 7,000-mile tour to 54 cities in this jurisdiction, and intends completing the trip in 70 days. So far he has delivered 34 lectures on the trip, and as a result has added to the order 1,368 members. In Corvallis the membership was increased 36, as a result of his official visit. The society of which Mr. Falkenberg is head consul is a fraternal and beneficial society, and offers insurance on the most equitable and easy plan. After the lecture the speaker and friends of the order were served with refreshments at the lodge room in Farr's brick. During the evening the ladies band discoursed several selections that were well received; this being their first public appearance.

A Terrible Visitant.

Pain is always a terrible visitant and often domiciles itself with one for life. This affliction is preventable, in cases of rheumatism, by a timely resort to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which checks the encroachments of this obstinate and dangerous malady at the outset. The term "dangerous" is used advisedly, for rheumatism is always liable to attack the vital organs and terminate life. No testimony is more conclusive and concurrent than that of physicians who testify to the excellent effect of the Bitters in this disease. Persons incur a waiting in rainy or snowy weather, and who are exposed to draughts, should use the Bitters as a preventive of ill effects. Malaria, dyspepsia, liver and kidney trouble, nervousness and debility are also among the ailments to which this popular medicine is adapted. For the infirmities, soreness and stiffness of the aged it is highly beneficial.
