Mark Spangler and Frank Crawford returned Monday from a five days' trip to Fall creek. They had a fine time and started homeward only when their edibles and credit gave out.

D. Carille returned last week from Portland, where he served as juror in the U. S. circuit court. He has leased the office in the court house vacated by ex Justice of the Peace H. L. Holgate, where he will dispense justice for the ensuing two years at the regular statutory prices.

A quiet little wedding took place at Mr. Blakeslee's, Corvallis, on Thursday, July 16th, when Rev. Mark Noble united in matrimony Mr. J. V. Brown and Miss Sarah A. Blakeslee. The happy couple took their departure on the 11 o'clock train for Portland. They have the congratulations of many friends.

W. C. Corbitt has removed his household effects to the brick yard south of town, and is occupying the residence recently vacated by Al Gibbard, whose interest in the brick yard Mr. Corbitt purchased a few weeks since. Mr. Gibbard and family are in town, living in the house vacated by the Corbitts.

The O. C. & E. has not yet discontinued the operation of the river steamers, Albany and Hoag. Until further notice they will run in conjunction. The Hoag has been placed on the lower river and will be operated between Portland and Salem, while the Albany will take care of the business between Salem and Corvallis.

W. E. Yates, the newly elected prosecuting attorney of the second district, passed through Oregon City Sunday evening on his way home at Corvallis. Mr. Yates enjoys the distinction of having been elected on the republican ticket by a majority of 500.—Enterprise. Yes; his majority was more than double 500, being 1,070.

A surveying party from Oregon City under the charge of Henry Meldrum and E. Waggoner left this place last Wednesday for the scene of their operation which is in the northern part of Lake uvey and will immediately commence their work, regardless of the hot weather.—Prineville Review.

The Corvallis Ladies' band, who were popular last year, has four new members, and show marked improvement. Mr. Victor Moses is the leader, and he is shown himself to be a competent one. The young ladies are all students of the State Agricultural college, and some of them were graduates this year—Oregon City Enterprise.

When you want prescriptions compounded you are surest of having them properly filled at the store carrying the largest stock of pure drugs, and it goes without saying you are certain of getting that you want in the drug line at Graham & Wells'. They also keep in stock well-assorted line of stationery, books, paints, oils and toilet articles.

W. A. Wells returned last Friday from Portland, having been called to that city to consult with A. L. Maxwell, receiver of the Oregon Development Co., relative to leasing the company's warehouses along the line of the O. C. & E., at Philomath, Wren ar Blodgett. The conference resulted in Mr. Wells securing a lease of these houses for the coming season.

Hon. John Daly of Lincoln county, has been in town for the past several days. Recently he went to Portland to accept of position the business office of the Evening Tribune, which at that time was a free silver republican paper. Since the nomination of Bryan the paper came out for the Chicago nominees. This was too much for John, and he severed his connection with the concern.

Elsewhere is published, by County Treasurer Buchanan, a call for outstanding warrants which is said to be the largest call the county has yet made. It covers warrants issued during a period of nine months, being from February 6, 1891, to November 6, 1891, for the redemption of which the treasurer has on hands $7,715, which sum represents delinquent taxes collected by Sheriff Osburn.

A Mr. Hotchkiss, a New York millionaire, spent Saturday and Sunday on Yaquina bay looking up the opportunities for promising investments. He has been interested by Mr. Hammond in this country. Mr. Hotchkiss is also interested in the new lumbering mills that are going up in the Cascades. The gentleman only

J. E. Sorbin, who was in business here years ago, was in town last week. He is at present living in Rossland, B. C., which he says is the busiest place in the entire Northwest. Asked as to what he intended doing with his property here, he replied that, for the present it will be left as a sort of land mark, but he hopes soon to erect a two-story brick which will of course necessitate the removal of the old wren building located thereon.

O. C. McLagan, T. J. Creighton, Joe Polly and John Vernig, who left Corvallis about a month ago on a prospecting tour in Southern Oregon, returned Monday, dusty and tired, but without any samples of good fortune. They say the hills are full of prospectors and the finds are few. They found Bill Goo wandering among the mountains and brought him home with them. Mr. McLagan proposes trying it again later in the season.

The centennial of Robert Burns' death was appropriately observed by residents of Salem and prominent citizens of the state at the state house in Salem Tuesday evening. Prof. J. B. Horner, of this city made the address of the evening, giving a biographical sketch of the favorite Scottish bard, and during his hour's talk, the professor spoke eloquently of beautiful sentiments and ennobling thoughts expressed in the meetings of him in whose memory the audience had assembled.

"Capt. J. T. Apperson, president of the board of regents of the State Agricultural college," says the Oregon City Enterprise, "attended a committee meeting of the board in Salem, Tuesday. President Apperson, Governor Lord and Benson Killen were appointed a committee to recommend a suitable person for president to succeed President J. M. Bloss. It is learned that two of the committee favored H. B. Miller for that position, while Capt. Apperson desires to offer the position to President Bloss."

Corvallis hook and ladder company No. 1, held their annual election Monday night. The following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: President, Geo. W. Denman, vice pres., Frank Conover; recording sec., H. L. Holgate; financial sec., Brady F. Burnett; treasurer, Dick Smith; foreman, Miles Phillips; board of delegates, O. C. McLagan, Luther Smith and T. C. Zeis. After the election the company went into a social session and the members spent a few hours very pleasantly. The company is at a thriving condition, both as to membership and finances.

Last week Mr. J. C. Young was employed in removing the bodies of deceased members of a family south of Philomath in the Crysta Lake Cemetery. In taking up one of the bodies, Mr. Young says he was greatly surprised to find that it had retained its general outline, size and weight, although fifteen years had elapsed since interment. It was not a case of petrification for the body resembled wood and there was no additional weight. Mr. Young has reinterred over 1500 bodies and has met with remarkable instances of preservation, but nothing that in any way resembles the present case. Of two of the bodies adjoining, nothing but the bones remained, while another, the remains of a child exhibited the same strange workings of nature as the first body, except its head.

Mrs. E. M. Kenyon, of New York, who is spending the summer on the Pacific coast, and Miss Emma Fiske, of Indianapolis, Ind., were guests of Col. H. B. Burgh and family several days last week. The colonel promised them cool weather when they visited Corvallis, telling certain that the sea breeze, to which all Corvallisites allude with pardonable pride, would not be found wanting; but as usual with Oregonians when they are especially anxious for climatic conditions to be most favorable, the weather was intensely hot, and Monday the guests departed for Portland, believing that our boasted sea breeze was merely the creation of the colonel's imagination. However, Monday evening, after disappointing us for a whole week, the sea breeze began to blow and soon cleared the atmosphere of the heat, smoke and dust, and everyone is happy again.

Hon. H. B. Miller of Eugene, was in Corvallis the latter part of last week on business connected with the college. Mr. Miller is being urged by some members of the board for the position of president of the Agricultural College, to succeed president Bloss, whose resignation was accepted at the board's meeting in June. To a GAZETTE representative, Mr. Miller expressed the belief that he was certain of election, claiming that he has the assurance of the support of a large majority of the board. He says that the idea that the mention of his name has any political significance has no foundation in fact, and Governor Lord, as well as other members of the board of regents, have been done an injustice by the drawing of such conclusion from any action the board has taken in the matter. Mr. Miller claims not to have been a candidate for the place any of the time, but that he was urged by a majority of the board to accept the place, and that he had agreed to do so providing he had the hearty support and co-operation of the board. He says the regents favor the selection of a president with large business experience, and though he has had no experience in the details of educational work, he feels certain that he will have no trouble in directing and managing the institution successfully.

A drowning man would have little use for a method of rescue which would require days. A dyspeptic doesn't want to bother with a remedy that is going to take weeks to show its beneficial effects. The Mount Lebanon Shakers are offering a product under the name of Shaker Digestive Cordial which yields immediate relief. The very first dose proves beneficial in most cases; and it is owing to their unbounded confidence in it, that they have put 10 cent sample bottles on the market. These can be had through any druggist; and it will repay the afflicted to invest the trifling sum necessary to make a trial. The Shaker Digestive Cordial relieves by resting the stomach and aiding the diges-

CONCERNING THE COLLEGE.

Next Tuesday afternoon the board of regents of the Agricultural College will meet in this city for the purpose of selecting a successor to president Bloss. There promises to be a rather animated session. The board consists of Governor Lord, Secretary of State Kincaid, Lieut. Land Commissioner Davenport, Benton Killen, State School Superintendent Irwin, W. M. Hillery, Master State Grange J. K. Weatherford, Wallace Nash, W. P. Keedy, J. T. Apperson, Joseph H. Church, W. E. Yates, and Samuel Hughes, of Forest Grove, who was yesterday appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of H. B. Miller.

Hon. J. B. Miller is the most active candidate and he considers his election assured. The committee to whom was referred the matter of selecting a suitable man for president, it is understood, will submit two reports; Governor Lord and Mr. Killen, favoring Mr. Miller, and Mr. Apperson reporting against his selection.

Notwithstanding Mr. Miller's apparent confidence, his selection does not seem altogether certain. He will doubtless be actively supported by the first four mentioned regents and Mr. Hughes, who is to take his place on the board. Indeed, the governor's haste in appointing Mr. Miller's successor would indicate that the latter's candidacy had not met with such glowing success as was at first indicated.

It is said also that if Mr. Miller is appointed he will be accompanied by Prof. F. L. Washburn, formerly of the college, now of the state university, who will officiate as dean of the faculty. Prof. Washburn is reported to be somewhat disappointed at not having his salary increased at Eugene, and the curtailment of his field and importance of his work by his change, and the new position would give him an opportunity to distinguish himself in experimental and other work.

Among the other applicants for the presidency are Prof. McElroy of the state university, and Prof. J. D. Letcher, of the same institution, formerly professor of mathematics at the college. The thought naturally arises that Prof. Letcher's experience as acting president of the college after the death of Pres. Arnold, would have been sufficient for his ambition. He certainly did not shine in that capacity. His preformance in leaving the college after being elected upon his application and his subsequent endeavor to draw salary from the college while professor-elect of the state university, would hardly be first-class recommendations. The objections that might be urged against the selection of Prof. McElroy, are the same as are urged against Mr. Miller, only emphasized.

The board will also doubtless select a printer to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Clark. It is understood that Geo. Clark, son of the former printer, will be an applicant for the position. Mr. J. J. Fleit, recently of the Gazette Publishing Co., and who now has temporary charge of this department, and Henry Stewart of the Times offices, are also applicants. The college office is finishing up the annual catalogue, and there will probably be considerable station printing to do during the summer.

DEATH OF H. R. CLARK.

At his home in this city Sunday afternoon H. E. Clark, who for several years past has been at the head of the printing department of the Agricultural college, breathed his last. The funeral took place at the Episcopal church Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity of which the deceased was a member in high standing. Mr. Clark's death though expected by a few intimate friends, was to most of our citizens a surprise. Until a week previous to his demise he had been attending regularly to his duties at the college, and owing to his robust appearance, was generally thought to be in good health. But like many scored veterans of the war, he suffered in silence from the wounds received in defence of his country and went home on Monday preceding his death fully realizing its critical condition.

Mr. Clark was born Oct. 24, 1839, in the state of Vermont. When the war broke out he was living in Michigan, and from that state enlisted in the naval service, being assigned to duty on board the U. S. man-of-war, Fort Henry. For efficient service he was promoted, but before the war ended he was honorably discharged on account of disability, the result of wounds received in an engagement. Later he was married to Miss Kate Penger, and in 1882, with his family, came to Oregon, settling in Eugene where he remained until his selection by the board of regents as the college printer. Two children, a son and daughter survive him, who have the sympathy of the community.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castor.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castor.
When she had Children, she gave them Cast.

The Monmouth State Normal

The report of the State Normal School at Monmouth shows excellent results for the work of the past year. The Normal enrollment was unusually large. Four states and 24 counties of Oregon were represented in the school. The average age of the students was above 21 years. Of the 361 students graduated from the school during the past fourteen years, 289 are at present engaged in teaching.

ANOTHER DEMOCRAT SPEAKS

Another old-line democrat who is disappointed with his party's action at Chicago, is Punderson C. Fry. Forty years Mr. Avery has been one of the pillars of Benton's democracy, and has always been in hearty accord with democratic principles, but he sees in the Chicago platform much that is populist and very little that is democratic. To a GAZETTE representative he expressed himself regarding the convention's course very much as follows:

"I believe the Chicago convention estranged from sound democratic principles, and that no democrat who has the best interests of the people of our country at heart, or who believes in keeping faith with the creditors of the nation, should follow it.

"I believe the free coinage of silver would put our country on a silver basis; that our silver, worth 100 cents on the dollar now, would be worth only 50 cents; that the result of this sudden change in our monetary system would throw the country into a general panic that might last for years; that during this panic, there would be no value to anything; no value to lands nor the products of lands; that the laborers and poor, among whom there are quite a number of believers in this change, would be the great sufferers."

Mrs. Mary Henkle.

Mary Isabel Wilson was born in Green county, Kentucky, July 29, 1817. She was united in marriage with Zebadiah Henkle, June 18, 1835, in Vermillion county, Illinois, and with her husband moved to Lee county, Iowa, in 1836, crossing the plains to California in 1866.

They came to Oregon in the spring of 1867, locating 2½ miles south of Philomath, where Mr. Henkle died September 26, 1873.

Mrs. Henkle united with the Cumberland Presbyterian church in 1837, in Iowa. In 1878 she became a member of the Presbyterian church at Oak Ridge, and continued a member until her death.

She has spent the recent years with her youngest daughter, in Independence, where she died July 18th, 1896, aged 78 years 11 months and 18 days.

Mr. Henkle was the mother of 14 children, nine of whom survive her. These are Mary A. Davis and R. L. and Amos Henkle, of Philomath; Geo. W. Henkle, of Corvallis; Sarah E. Nelson, E. T. Henkle and Etta Walker, of Independence, and Abram and James M. Henkle of Priestville. Of 39 grand children 31 survive, and of 13 great-grand children 12 are living.

After 'Em with a Sharp Stick.

Secretary Morton is watching the experiment stations and agricultural colleges very closely. The law gives him a certain oversight of these institutions, especially the stations' expenditures. It is evidently to be the policy of the U. S. department of agriculture to strengthen its grip on the stations and keep them closely confined to their legitimate duties. In the last issue of the Experiment Station Record, published by the department, appears an excellent statement of the real objects of these stations. We thoroughly agree with Dr. True that the experiment station was established to make experiments "and the closer it sticks to its 'trade' the greater will be its success in the long run." We have never conceived that it was the station's duty to undertake the work which legitimately belongs to agricultural colleges, farmers' institutes and to state boards or commissioners of agriculture. As Dr. True says, the information which the stations should disseminate is to be obtained through original research and by verifying experiments, and the money from the national treasury is given solely "for the purpose of paying the necessary expense of conducting investigations and experiments and printing and distributing the results." CARRIAGES NO MORE

There are indications that the carriage factory troubles will soon be settled and the factory resume operations. Mr. Jenkins the Illinois man, is still here, with emphasis on the "still," for he is not divulging his business plans. It is very probable, however, that he will shortly be able to take the property out of the assignee's hands and organize a new company.

Then the factory will be put upon a different basis. The manufacture of carriages and buggies will be discontinued and the new management will confine itself to Coast farm wagons. The increased use of Oregon wood will be a feature, for it has been demonstrated that this can furnish all the necessary timber of the best quality. This not only means a decreased expense to the factory, but the development of one of our natural resources.

Later on the manufacture of agricultural implements may be introduced, but it is not likely that the factory will ever resume the making of buggies and carriages. These require a variety of skilled workmen, months are required to complete them, and the demand for them is variable, while farmers will have to buy wagons as long as they raise grain.

Properly managed, and backed by sufficient capital, the factory can be made a paying concern. It is an important enterprise and the citizens of Corvallis are very anxious that it be put upon a good substantial basis.

A Chance to Make Money

I read how one of your subscribers made money selling Dishwashers; I ordered one and my lady friend—were charmed, as I commented dishwashing. My brother and I commenced selling them, and have made $1,700 after paying all expenses. We don't earn any. Our sales are all made at home. People come or send for them. The Mound City Dish Washer is the best Dishwasher on the market. Our business is increasing, and we are going to keep right on, until we make ten thousand dollars. We sell from five to fifteen machines every day, and some days more. The Dishwasher is lovely, every housekeeper wants one. There is no excuse to be poor when so much money can be made selling Dishwashers. For full particulars, address The Mound City Dish Washer Co., St. Louis, Mo. They will start you on the road to success.—A READER.

The New Hook Spoon Free to All.

I read in the Christian Standard that Miss A. M.
Fritz, Station A., St. Louis, Mo., would give an elegant plated hook spoon to anyone sending her ten 2-cent stamps. I sent for one and found it so useful that I showed it to my friends, and made $18.00 in two weeks. I have since sent a number of them. The hook spoon is a household necessity. It cannot slip into the fire or cooking vessel, being held in the place by a click on the back. The spoon is something that housekeepers have needed ever since spring was first invented. Anyone who sent a money order, by mailing, ten 2-cent stamps to Miss Fritz. This is a splendid way to make no money: round home.
