Adam Assell, who has been on the sick list for some time, is at Newport. He reports no improvement as yet.

N. W. Allen, one of the old and highly-respected citizens of Philomath, made this office a pleasant call yesterday.

THE GAZETTE'S circulation is constantly increasing. Last week over thirty new names were added to the mailing list.

Fifty Corvallis people went on the Albany excursion to Independence, Monday night. Two hundred more got on at Albany.

Carl Hodas left for Eugene yesterday to attend the wedding of Dr. Schubert and Miss Amelia Heanel, two popular young people of Monroe.

Mr. Curran, who is employed at the Corvallis sawmill, was injured Tuesday by being caught in the machinery. He was badly bruised, but no bones were broken.

The United Evangelical Sunday school was organized at the new church last Sunday morning with a large membership. Mr. C. M. Wood was elected superintendent.

A convention of Benton county schools will be held at the Baptist church in this city May 27th and 28th. An interesting program has been prepared and a large attendance is expected.

The bishop of Oregon, the Right Rev. B. Wistar Morris, will preach in the church of the Good Samaritan next Sunday evening, May 23rd. Service begins at 7:30. The public is invited.

Redding, California, where the Zeis boys are operating an ice factory, is about the size of Albany and has 32 saloons. One of them is owned by two ex-Corvallisites, Frank Buchanan and Ben Zone.

Mr. A. B. Hammond, one of the owners of the O. C. & E. R. R., accompanied by his wife, has been in the city during the week. His views concerning the future outlook of the road will appear next week.

Andrew Emeric, an old resident of Corvallis, was dying at his home in this city as the GAZETTE went to press yesterday evening. He has been sick for some time and Tuesday suffered a stroke of paralysis.

There will be a meeting of the O. A. C. Alumni Association next Tuesday for the purpose of considering the report of the committee on the oratorical prize contest to be held during commencement week. J. Fulton, Pres.

Lee Bell, of Baker City, who lived here when a small boy, some 12 years ago, visited Corvallis this week. He is a son of Dr. J. R. N. Bell, formerly pastor of the M. E. church South and now a Presbyterian minister at Baker.

The body of Chas. Snyder, a deck-hand of the steamboat Gypsey, who was drowned about three months ago, stepping off the boat into the river at this place one dark morning, was found near Albany Tuesday afternoon. The remains will be taken to Milwaukee for burial.

The many Corvallis friends of C. W. Knowles will doubtless be pleased to learn that he has recently assumed the management of the Hotel Perkins. This popular house, under Mr. Knowles' management, is certain to be well patronized by Bentonites while visiting in Portland.

Only two out of 19 applicants for teachers' certificates last week failed. Three papers were sent to Lincoln county for examination and one who took the examination did not desire a certificate. One applicant was given a first grade certificate, eight second grade and four third grade.

Gene M. Simpson and Emil Zeis started for California, Monday evening. Both go to Redding; where Emil will assist his brothers in the operation of their ice factory. Gene, after a short visit there, will proceed to San Francisco. The boys will be greatly missed, and bear the best wishes of many friends.

The body of Wm. S. Ladd, the rich Portland banker, who died in 1893, was stolen by grave robbers from the Riverside cemetery Monday night. No clue has been obtained. The motive, doubtless, was the hope of reward expected to be offered by his family. No such reward, however, will be promised.

The first excursion to the bay, the "Rhododendron" of last Sunday, was thoroughly enjoyed by the numerous Corvallis and Albany people, who made the trip. A number stopped off at Chitwood, Elk City and other points to fish, but the majority went on to Newport and saw the bay country in all its flowery beauty.

Collis P. Huntington, the S. P. magnate, arrived in Corvallis yesterday evening to see Mr. Hammond, of the O. C. & E. "Uncle Collis," as the Examiner affectionately calls him, was easily recognized by those who have seen that paper's caricatures of him. His visit has caused a great deal of comment and it is generally believed that he has in view the purchase of Mr. Hammond's road.

There will be a big time at Alsea on June 19th. Supt. Denman is to hold a local institute in the valley on the 18th and 19th of June and the last day will be a merry one. There will be a big basket dinner, with lots of music and speeches. The school children will compete in races, etc., for prizes and the Moore band is to arouse the echoes with melodious strains. Quite a number of Corvallisites expect to attend.

Telegrams received here yesterday announce that J. R. Bryson, who is now in New York city, is in a critical condition and that the worst might be expected at any hour. Roscoe Bryson, who is attending school at Eugene, was telegraphed to go east, but later received a telegram from his father telling him it was useless to come and bidding him goodbye. A general feeling of sadness pervades the city, owing to these most welcome tidings.

Saturday was the O. A. C. local field day. The afternoon was very warm and the boys had hardly recovered from the military drill of the previous day, with its attendant feasts, which partly accounts for the rather poor showing in some of the events. Perhaps, also, the boys did not wish to publish for the benefit of other teams their actual capabilities. The intercollegiate field day at Salem is near at hand and the O. A. C. athletes are after the cup.

The State Grange meets in Corvallis next Tuesday and will continue in session until Friday morning. A public meeting will be held at the courthouse Tuesday afternoon, at which time Mayor Woodward will make the address of welcome and W. M. Hilary, Master of the State Grange, will deliver his annual address. Wednesday evening a public meeting will be held at the college chapel. Some 200 delegates are expected to be in attendance and preparations are being made for an interesting and profitable session. A cordial invitation is extended to the citizens of Corvallis and vicinity to be present at all the public meetings.

The Corvallis baseball team drove out to Philomath Saturday, swore a little and drove home. The Philomath nine objected to the Heaties' pitcher, Two-for-a-Shadow Smith, claiming that he did not belong to the Corvallis team. Corvallis insisted upon his playing, claiming that he was a regular member of the team and that they had as much right to get players from Lincoln county as Philomath has to play Plymouth men. Capt. Warner and Bryan discussed the matter, but could not agree and the game was not played, the Corvallis players returning full of wrath. The Philomath players evidently over-rated Smith's ability, as he is but a fair amateur pitcher and does not outclass Philomath twirlers.

The "national color day" ceremonies and the competitive drill at the O. A. C. campus last Friday afternoon were unusually interesting. Lieut. Dentler has drilled the cadets into a praiseworthy state of efficiency and they presented a soldierly appearance. The guard mount was an attractive feature and the three companies in the competitive drill evoked hearty expressions of admiration. Company B, Ralph Terrell, captain, won the day, Company C, Robt. Golden, captain, being only one-third of one per cent behind. Company A, under the captaincy of E. J. Elliot, was not many points from C. Small & Son banqueting the winning cadets and Hodas & Hall extended a like courtesy to the losers, Nolan & Callahan presented handsome ties to the officers of Company C.

A drowning man would have little use for a method of rescue which would require days. A dyspeptic doesn't want to bother with a remedy that is going to take weeks to show its beneficial effects. The Mount Lebanon Shakers are offering a product under the name of Shaker Digestive Cordial which yields immediate relief. The very first dose proves beneficial in most cases; and it is owing to their unbounded confidence in it, that they have put 10 cent sample bottles on the market. These can be had through any druggist; and it will repay the afflicted to invest the trifling sum necessary to make a trial. The Shaker Digestive Cordial relieves by resting the stomach and aiding the digestion of food.

LAXOL is the best medicine for children. Doctors recommend it in place of Castor Oil.

O. R. & N. Co. steamer Ruth leaves Corvallis for Portland Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 6 a. m., arriving in Portland at 5 p. m. The O. ## THE SOUTHERN SECTION.

Personal and General Notes

From a Rich Portion of Benton County.

ED. GAZETTE.—Having had occasion to visit business the northeastern part of the county during the last week, the opportunity was improved to talk with quite a number of the citizens of that locality, while taking a cursory view of the grain fields, orchards and gardens of that locality.

To be frank, this region has almost been a "terra incognita" to the people residing in other parts of Benton county. Among the reasons for this is that the territory lies contiguous to Albany, where most of its people get their mail and have done in years past most of their trading. Another reason is, our merchants have not made the effort to become acquainted with and secure by personal solicitation the trade of these people. Still another reason is given by those who live there, which is that in county affairs they have been neglected and their wants and needs overlooked or disregarded, which has had a tendency to estrange those who, being citizens of our county, do not feel the interest or inclination to become a part and parcel of the body politic that they naturally otherwise would. Had a different course been taken in the past.

How true these statements are, the writer has no means of knowing, but the statements are made by very reliable people, who would not be likely to make any statement that they did not believe to be true.

Several parties were working on the road between Granger and Albany and on the road leading from Albany back through the hills to the Oak Grove neighborhood and the complaint was general among them that our county court would not make any appropriations to aid them in making good roads and bridges, citing one instance in particular, when our county court refused to make any appropriations to make the approach to the bridge across the Willamette at Albany and it was done at considerable expense to the taxpayers by donations of work.

These people pay their taxes ungrudgingly and are loyal citizens of Benton county and if there has been any neglect on the part of the county court, it ought to be at once remedied—not by lavish and useless expenditures of public money, for economy is the watchword along all lines of endeavor, but in a just and equitable manner. The writer has confidence in our county court and believes it is composed of honorable men, who intend to look after the public business in a careful and intelligent manner and will not consider these people "chronic kickers" because they dare to mention what to them seems an injustice. One other thing was mentioned by several well-informed and public-spirited citizens of the locality referred to, which was that there is too much truth in the criticism that in politics Corvallis has in the past demanded and taken the lion's share of the officers or dictated who should be nominated in opposition to the wishes of those living in the rural districts. In short, these people feel that the officers should be better distributed, that extravagances should be cut off, salaries reduced and a general scaling down entered upon and strictly adhered to.

The action of the county court in causing the officers' books to be expcrted and changes made good was warmly commended. It seems to be the desire of these people to become better acquainted with the different parts of the county, to get in touch with all its varied interests and to intelligently uphold its institutions and loyally maintain its dignity and standing among the counties of the state.

Many kindly expressions were heard in favor of our merchants and business people and a lively interest was manifested in the work of the Agricultural College and Experiment Station located here. It is believed by the writer of this that much trade could be diverted toward Corvallis from this part of the county if our business people made the proper effort. It is, at least, worth trying for.

The country along the Albany road, about Fairmount, opposite Albany, around Oak Grove, Wells and all the territory lying east and north of Wells, that was visited, is peopled by an intelligent, moral, frugal and industrious class, ranking easily among the best of the county.

Altogether, the trip was very enjoyable and conducive of a better knowledge of the wants, aims and objects of this estimable class of citizens.

Among the many persons met by the writer were Prof. Lake, manager, and Mark Brownson, foreman, of the big prune orchard at Granger, comprising 160 acres of Italian prunes. This orchard, under the skillful treatment of these gentlemen is doing finely. The ground is in good condition, the trees are in good condition and the borens have been eradicated.

Levi Joy, postmaster at Granger, is still at the old stand, happy in the knowledge of duty faithfully discharged.

Geo. W. Young lives on 100 acres of the Walden farm. It is all under cultivation and is a good place for hops, fruit and grain. Not being a farmer, Mr. Young wants to sell.

Anton Luther and Mr. Monosmith occupy part of the old Walde place. They have good crops and are happy.

Julius Miller, living on the old Kennedy farm, is all right. He has 32 head of Cotswold sheep that will shear not less than 10 pounds of wool each.

I met a number of men working on the Rainwater grade, under the intelligent direction of A. McKechnie, road supervisor of Dist. No. 48. Mc. is an old railroad man of thirty years experience and knows just how to make a road and he does not shrink the work, either. He was pretty wet with perspiration, as were also his men and teams. All of the men gave Mc. credit for being the best supervisor ever appointed in the district. Among those working with him I noticed J. B. Chitwood, who, by the way, has a fine place a little north of the road. His home is in a very sightly place, overlooking the river, valley and mountain scenery, grand and beautiful, and has a view of five railroad tracks crossing the valley. He has 35 acres in hops, all in fine condition, with hop houses so located on the side of the hill that, by driving on the upper side, the hops are rolled into the dryer and keep on going down hill and come out on the lower side, dried and baled. He also has some fine Jersey cattle, several of which are registered in the "American Herd Book." This gentleman and his estimable wife live in comfort and entertain a traveller in a hospitable manner.

Henry Hector, Charley Voss, Wm. Rainwater, Fred Stahl, who has two acres in melons, besides lots of other vegetables and fruit, on his little farm near the Albany bridge, Will Abram, Pres. Walton, Arthur Helms, Mr. Shew, and several others whose names I do not now recall, were working with Mc. The road bed was being graded and covered with about ten inches of gravel which will make a roadbed hitherto almost impassable, safe and solid.

Among the gardeners and fruitgrowers in the vicinity of Fairmount, I met Jacob Shew, who has in ten acres of corn and says he raised a fine lot last year and expects an equally good crop this year. W. B. Shannon, the king of suburban growers, Mrs. E. J. Phillips, engaged in gardening and fruit growing, Mr. Peacock, Mr. Kelly, A. A. Hawley and Mr. Wygant, whose places were all neat and showed evidences of thrift and careful and intelligent effort. All these people are highly favored in locality, the Willamette river each winter overflowing its banks and with the backwater sets over these places, leaving a fine, rich sediment, enriching the soil without effort on the part of the owners.

On the road running from Albany to Oak Grove, I found a number of men at work on the road and doing a good job under the direction of Louis Wentz, road supervisor, whose methods were approved by his men, among whom were T. B. Williamson, A. Swart, Mr. Thomas and a number of others. Near by, on a small farm, was Chas. P. Thomas, a little farm, was Mr. Chas. P. Thomas, who works with horse and cultivator among his potatoes.

In the vicinity of Oak Grove I met with an old G. A. R. man, John M. Conacklin, living on a 13-acre fruit ranch, all planted to prunes, apples, pears and grapes. J. F. Mayberry, engaged in fruit raising and gardening, A. L. Cooper, growing fruit and vegetables, and H. J. Moore, who has 55 acres in fruit and nut-bearing trees, consisting of apples, pears, cherries, small fruits, almonds, pecans, chestnuts and French walnuts, commercially known as English walnuts. Part of this orchard has been set three years, a part two years and a part one year, and is well cultivated and pruned.

I also met in this neighborhood, W. Williamson, who has 15 acres in hops, in excellent shape, and W. G. Williamson, a young man with 100 acres of good land, 60 of which are in grain. He is building a house and a little bird hatched to me that ere long he would mate with some fair daughter of Eve and begin life with her on his beautiful farm.

Over night we were entertained by Senator Garter and his estimable wife. It is a pleasure to meet this couple of pioneers, whose life for fifty years has been spent together on the old home place a couple of miles east of Wells. Here they have tilled soil by side, raised a family of intelligent and moral children, who are all married happily and now they live alone. A competency has been secured by frugality and the old farm is still retained by them. They owe no one a dollar and are spending their declining years in plenty, respected and loved by all. May no shadow cross their threshold. May they live many years, a example of devotion to each other, and finally rest in peace in the little cemetery on their farm, near the church they love, where the last rays of day's departing glories gild the scene and paint a picture of rural beauty seldom equaled.

In this vicinity is the farm of Mr. Pagenkopf, a sturdy German tiller of the soil, whose home is one of culture and is made cheerful by his charming daughters, who are successful teachers in the public schools. One of the daughters was met at Mr. Temlinson's, where the writer was entertained by several well executed selections on the piano by the young lady, who was on her way by wheel to Buena Vista to give music lessons.

ENDEAVORER RECEPTION.

Arrangements to Meet Delegates and See Them Made Comfortable.

The work of the reception committee of the International Christian Endeavor Convention is assuming definite shape. A committee of 900 has been formed, says the Call, 500 to operate in the city, 200 in Oakland, 100 in Fresno. The first mass-meeting of this committee will be held in Calvary church, corner of Powell and Geary streets, at 7:45 p. m., and will be presided over by A. S. Johnson, chairman of the reception staff.

During the convention the reception committee, both ladies and gentlemen will wear white caps with purple bands and the designation, "Reception Aid." Those of the executive staff will wear extra bands over the tops. These caps will be worn continually, both indoors and out.

The headquarters section, under the direction of Charles M. Whitney, will have charge of the headquarters, all of which will be located at the Pavilion. It will be the duty of those serving here to receive the delegates as they arrive from the stations and wharves and do everything in their power to give them a most cordial reception. In order to facilitate the work of this section and to spare the work of this section and to spare every man from being deprived from attending all the meetings, those serving will be divided into three shifts, the morning, afternoon and night. There will be twenty-six headquarters for states in addition to the California headquarters. In each of these will be stationed members of the reception committee, who will be in constant attendance. In addition to the foregoing, there will be reading, writing, resting, correspondence and cloak rooms, branch postoffices, little farms, was Mr. Chas. P. Thomas, who works with horse and cultivator among his potatoes.

After having registered, the delegates will be directed by the headquarters section to their stopping-places and lodging-houses. A free ticket to this grand convention may be obtained at S. L. Kline's.

Card of Thanks.

I take this opportunity to extend to the citizens of Corvallis my heartfelt thanks for the cordial support given me in the city election on Monday last. It shall be my endeavor to so fulfill the duties imposed upon me so as to merit the support I have received, and to give none cause to regret my election. It would be egotism to attribute my success to my own merits or to any demerits of the defeated candidate, and this but increases my debt of gratitude to my supporters. My friends did nobly, and I can never forget them. My enemies too contributed involuntarily to my triumph and vindication. To none of these am I more indebted than to Mr. B. F. Irvine, the editor of the Corvallis Times. His unprovoked and scurrilous attack did more to awaken the people to an understanding of his real opposition to me than anything he could have done. It showed his grievance was a purely personal one. He accuses me of calling him a "leather head
