CASTORIA.

The Multnomah Athletic club had a meet arranged with Eugene to take place after the Salem field day. Owing to the Dudes' defeat the contest was declared off and Multnomah proposed a meet with the O. A. C. The Farmers energetically declined. They have no use for the Portlanders. The boys have had some experience with them and are not looking for any more. The Multnomah club members who were at the games Saturday felt so badly over Eugene's defeat that the Corvallis boys would suffer even.

The Illustrated American (N. Y.) commenting upon the Stanford-Berkley field day, says: "The conspicuous thing about the game was the number of absolutely certain winners who did not win," naming Brady Burnett as one. In the half-mile it says, "At the end of two laps Burnett was well ahead, confident but very tired. Carroll passed Burnett 60 yards from the finish, beating him by less than a second."

J. C. Hunter returned last week from an extended tour through Arizona, Texas and Mexico. Mr. and Mrs. Zwicker arrived here Monday and received a welcome. The GAZETTE force rejoices in the new found happiness of a good neighbor.

VICTORIOUS FARMERS.

Oregon Agricultural College Wins the Athletic Championship.

The O. A. C. boys, straight, hearty and manly, defeated the State University handily in the field and track events at Salem last Saturday afternoon. Three other colleges contested, but they had no hopes of winning.

Out of 112 points O. A. C. made 53½, Eugene 35, Newberg 13½, Monmouth 7, and Salem 1. Corvallis won seven first places in 14 events, seven second and six thirds. Sixteen O. A. C. reduced the Northwest record on the 40-yard run. Bruce Burnett smashed the Oregon college record in the half-mile, Will Johnson in the mile walk, Art Stimpson in the mile run, and Frank Crawford equalled the Northwest record in the 220. Higgins and Kykendall, of the U. of O., and Foster, of Pacific college, broke college records in the 100-yard dash, 120-hurdle and pole vault respectively. The score by events was:

H. E. Judge, of Portland, acted as referee, and gave general satisfaction by his unselfish fairness.

About 250 people went by boat to witness the games. They had a long trip for the returning boat was 1½ hours on the route, getting into Corvallis at 7 a. m. Sunday morning. However all seemed happy as they came ashore. It was a very orderly crowd, excepting for the occasional cheers for the victory.

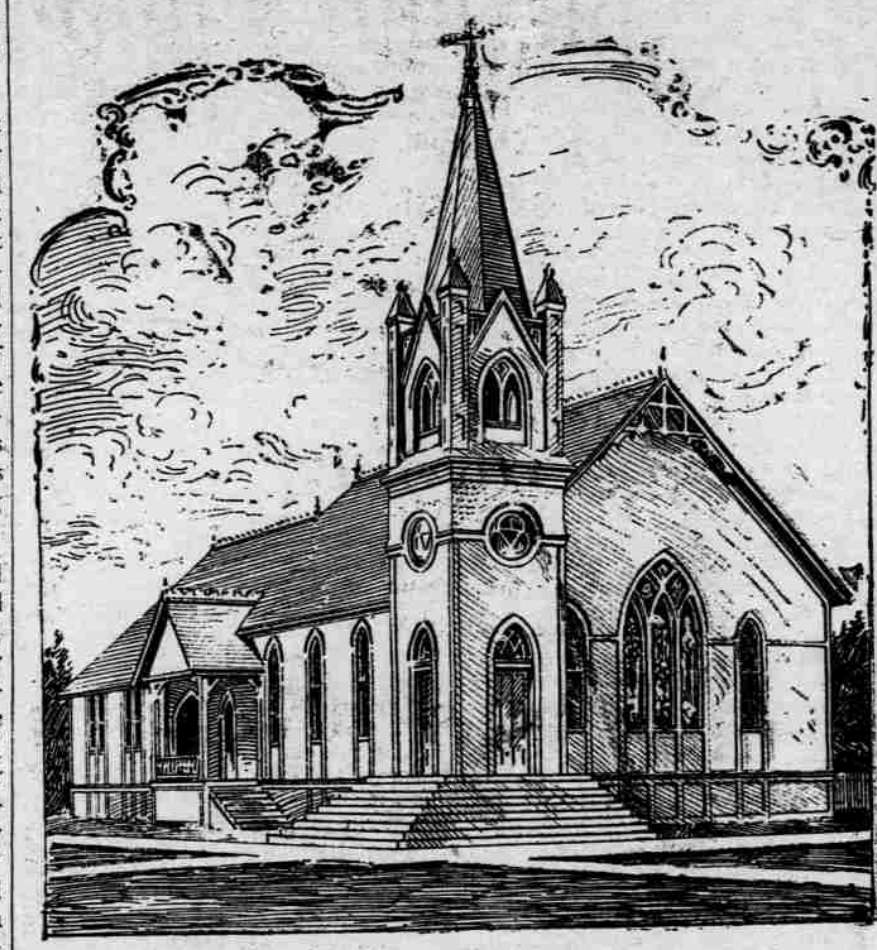

MULTNOMAH'S INTEREST.

The Multnomah Athletic club had a meet arranged with Eugene to take place after the Salem field day. Owing to the Dudes' defeat the contest was declared off and Multnomah proposed a meet with the O. A. C. The Farmers energetically declined. They have no use for the Portlanders. The boys have had some experience with them and are not looking for any more. The Multnomah club members who were at the games Saturday felt so badly over Eugene's defeat that the Corvallis boys would suffer even.

The O. A. C. boys won a fair and undisputed victory. They, if anyone, suffered from erroneous decisions. Stival would have had third place in the mile walk were DeLashmunt ruled out, and Kelly third place in the 220 had he been rightfully recognized. The fact that Corvallis men decided both these matters shows that the O. A. C. boys desired to be perfectly fair, and there is no stain

A NEW EDIFICE OF WORSHIP.

The Handsome Methodist Church of Corvallis Dedicated Sunday. Cost $5,000.

Last Sunday in this city, a handsome new building was dedicated to the worship of God. It stands a monument to religious enthusiasm, church loyalty and business energy on the part of those having the enterprise in charge, and those assisting in carrying it out. It was erected by the members of the Methodist Episcopal church of Corvallis. The building cost about $4,000, and the ground on which it stands cost nearly $1,000 more. The building is graceful and ornamental in appearance, and as to both exterior and interior, furnishes a handsome home for the Methodist congregation.

The first Methodist organization of this city was effected in the fall of 1848. One of the missionaries, probably Roberts, organized a class at that time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart. There were only a few settlers here then yet a class of 16 members was organized, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Asa Spears, Mr. and Mrs. Haman Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Starr, Mr. and Mrs. Blathar Newton and two young men, Morris and Isaac Newton.

The class, with Wm. Dixon as leader, continued to meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart until 1850, when a log house was built near by for school purposes, and it was occupied by the Methodist congregation as a place of worship for a period of five years.

In 1855 the old church on the corner of Second and VanBuren streets was donated by Hamilton Campbell, Oren Kline and John Stewart. The labor was performed principally by John Stewart, William Dixon, Silas Stout, Perry Earle, Wm. Carter, Wesley Graves and William Holder, and this old building dedicated to the worship of God 42 years ago, still stands a memorial to the energy, self denial and public spirit of the grand old pioneers who built it.

The idea of building the new church that was dedicated Sunday was probably first suggested by Rev. H. Oberg. At the first quarterly conference after his appointment to this field, he brought the matter up, and a committee was appointed to investigate the possibility of erecting a new building. The committee was appointed and a few weeks later met at the parsonage for consultation. To test their own interest the committee canvassed themselves and raised $800. This was considered a good omen and a decision to build was quickly made.

science pangs if they caused those wounds to bleed afresh. Multnomah club has a coast record as a jobbing outfit and the college athletes are wise in refusing to meet it.

Some club man has given the Oregonian a "fill" concerning Saturday's games. He claims that "the walking match was a farce, as DeLashmunt, U. of O., was the only man who walked fair." Ye Gods! DeLashmunt fell clear behind the judges on bikes, and ran for 250 yards till he came up. Huffman was the only man who did not break. Johnson broke once, but not on the home stretch, and a walker has the right to be cautioned twice. One of the judges of walking, Ed. Brookwater, has acted in a similar capacity several times in important Eastern races, and is thoroughly up on the rules. This Multnomah expert is probably one of that club's committee who last year refused to allow Bodine to throw the hammer with a loop handle in Portland, saying it was "irregular." What those fellows do not know about athletics would stock a library.

He says again that Higgins' U. of O. performance in the 220 was highly creditable "considering the circumstances." As two O. A. C. boys beat Higgins easily and as Kelly was so close to him as to come nearly all the outsiders to believe only a silly exhibition of pro-Eugenism. This expert again makes the west wind as responsible for the fast time in some instances, and the heavy track responsible for slow time in others. In truth, any aid from the wind was far more than overcome by the cloudy, heavy track. The distance runner had the wind for the greater part against them.

The O. A. C. boys won a fair and undisputed victory. They, if anyone, suffered from erroneous decisions. Stival would have had third place in the mile walk were DeLashmunt ruled out, and Kelly third place in the 220 had he been rightfully recognized. The fact that Corvallis men decided both these matters shows that the O. A. C. boys desired to be perfectly fair, and there is no stain

They first intended to build on the site of the old church, but to accommodate all the congregation, it was deemed advisable to select grounds nearer the center of the city, and in September, 1896, the two Briggs lots, opposite the opera house, were purchased at a cost of $300.

The building committee, consisting of F. A. Alexander, A. K. Milner and Minor Swick, was then appointed and active work commenced. Plans were furnished by Benj. D. Price, architect of the M. E. church extension society. The foundation was laid by Felton Brothers and W. O. Heckart was employed as superintendent, who has had continuous charge of the construction.

All the material and labor that Corvallis could furnish were obtained here. Nearly all the lumber came from this place, W. P. Martyn furnishing the ash wood used in the interior finishing and also the sashes and doors. The greater part of the money used in the building was expended at home.

A feature of the edifice is the handsome window in the east front of the church presented by Mrs. Mary Stewart, in memory of her departed husband.

The church was used for worship for the first time last Sunday, and appropriate services were held throughout the day. Bishop Earl Cranston preached the dedication sermon in the morning, and was assisted by Dr. G. W. Gae, of Portland; Dr. Parsons, Salem; Rev. H. Gould, Dallas; Rev. Harmon, Lebanon; Rev. Graff, Monroe; Dr. Fisher, Pacific Christian Advocate, and Rev. H. Oberg, of this city. In the afternoon short congratulatory addresses were made by Rev. M. Noble, Rev. Kelly, Dr. E. J. Thompson, Rev. G. W. Bennett, Rev. Gould and Rev. Royal.

The new church is out of debt. A thousand dollars remained unsubscribed Sunday morning, but at the dedication services and during the day about $1,300 was pledged, which, with the donation of $250 from the church extension society, and a loan by it of $500, puts the church in good financial circumstances. Nearly all the $1,300 used in the construction of the building was subscribed by members of the church.

Pastor Oberg, the ladies building society, and the building committee, and especially the latter, are entitled to full credit for the manner in which this enterprise has been conducted. The building committee displayed great business ability besides unflinching enthusiasm in this most creditable work.

On their victory.

Too much praise cannot be given Eph. Cameron for the splendid showing of the college boys. He had carefully trained them, bringing out their good points and undoing the bad. He thoroughly understands the art of training and was full of honest zeal for the boys' success.

GATHERING OF EDUCATORS

Complete Success of Annual County Institute at Philomath.

The public school teachers of Benton county are proud of their annual institute held in Philomath last week. It was a combination of college, congress and theater, and the attendance was all that could be desired. One hundred and thirteen teachers were enrolled, more by far than have ever attended any previous institute in the county. The papers read, deserve more space than can be given them in a necessarily brief review of the institute work.

The institute convened Thursday morning, Supt. Denman presiding. Geo. W. Brown was elected secretary. Prof. Law spoke on methods in arithmetic. Prof. Pratt discussed supplementary reading. In the afternoon Pres. Emrick spoke on "Qualifications of Teachers." He spoke from a scientific and from a purely practical standpoint, and pointed out the importance of morality. His remarks made a decided impression. A general discussion of the subject of reading followed, led by Prof. Pratt. Prof. Anderson then gave a valuable address upon the subject of history. Mrs. Keozel spoke on physiology in a manner that showed a thorough knowledge of the subject. Supt. Denman then explained the aims, objects and plans of the new study classifications for the rural schools. A large audience gathered in the evening. The Topsy quartette, consisting of the three clever Harrington children and Mordant Goodnough, greatly pleased their hearers. Prof. Sheak welcomed

Big bargains in boys suits at Nolan & Callahan's.

Philomath's guests. Miss Jennie Gelatly sang "Oh Promise Me," Miss Lewis and Miss Busby recited. President Campbell, of the Monmouth Normal, then gave an admirable address on the topic "The Modern View of Popular Education."

Friday morning Pres. Campbell discussed "Psychology," in a very interesting manner. Prof. Mays, of Independence, followed with an excellent paper on "Language," which led to a general discussion. Prof. Law concluded his remarks on methods in arithmetic. His method in percentage was criticized by Prof. Bristow as being too lengthy.

Mrs. Miller in a pleasant manner spoke of proper methods of study in district schools. Prof. Corley explained the leaflets prepared for study of insects, etc., in district schools.

Friday afternoon Prof. Bristow succinctly stated his methods of teaching mental arithmetic, and was followed by Prof. Anderson. Dean Bercholdt, of the O. A. C., then took the subject of music in the public schools and presented the matter in a new light. Prof. Bristow spoke briefly concerning the teaching of spelling. Then came the spelling contest in which 21 schools had representatives. This was a very interesting feature of the day and proved that Benton county schools have some excellent spellers. Miss Grace Dodele, of district No. 1, Wells, was the champion, winning for her school the handsome flag presented by Supt. Denman. Many of the others stood up nobly, but Miss Dodele was practically undefeatable. She seemed able to spell anything.

In the evening a quartet, consisting of Prof. Fulton, H. L. Holgate, D. W. Erickson and L. W. Johnson, sang two selections. Mordant Goodnough played an instrumental solo. Little Geo. L. Paul gave "The Miser" in splendid style and Miss Edna Irvine recited with expression and excellent taste "The Old Man's Story." Prof. Bercholdt then delivered his lecture on "Nansen's Polar Expedition," presenting facts regarding this famous journey that were entirely new to his hearers, and in a manner that held their close attention.

Saturday morning Prof. Pratt discussed the duties of the teacher, and gave very practical suggestions. Mr. Wm. Jolly followed with some excellent ideas as to the duties of the director tersely expressed. Dr. Thompson addressed the convention on the subject of "Duty of Patrons" in his usual happy style, a feeling close to a highly successful institute.

The work of the institute was of an unusual high order, and reflects great credit upon all who participated, and especially upon Supt. Denman, whose energetic and intelligent management is doing so much for the schools of Benton county.

Few people know that all plants contain digestive principles. They cannot absorb their food until it is digested any more than animals can. The Mount Lebanon Shakers have learned the art of extracting and utilizing these digestive principles, and it is for this reason that their shaker digestive cordial is meeting with such phenomenal success in the treatment of dyspepsia. The Shaker digestive cordial not only contains food already digested, but it also contains digestive principles which aid the digestion of other foods that may be eaten with it. A single 10 cent sample bottle will be sufficient to demonstrate its value and we suggest that every suffering dyspeptic make a trial of it. Any druggist can supply it.
