The Alsea local teachers' institute will be held to-morrow. Prof. Horner, Prof. Pratt, State Sup't Irwin and Sup't Denman will take part. There will be a regular picnic in the afternoon, when prizes will be offered school children in various races. The Monroe band furnishes the music.

A few years ago Corvallis had nine saloons and six church buildings. Since then there has been a steady lessening in the number of drink resorts and an increase of churches. This month Chas. Albrecht closed his saloon, leaving five in the city, while regular services are held in eleven church edifices.

Thos. Whitehorn is occupying temporarily the building lately vacated by Chas. Albrecht, and dispenses liquid refreshments there. The old "Reactor" building is being torn down and removed to make room for the fine brick Mr. Whitehorn will erect. The work is progressing rapidly. Brick is to be furnished by the labor exchange.

The National Democrats of Oregon, the followers of Jefferson and Jackson, are organizing for a vigorous campaign in 1898. The Bryan democrats and Bryan republicans have organized a union party, and the populists will have their own row. The republicans are in their watch towers—and there is some distance between the towers.

The Studebaker wagon is a "daisy." Call on Simpson, Huston & Co., and see them.

Judge Hufford, Sheriff Rickard, Clerk Waters, Recorder Gellatly, Assessor Alexander, Supt. Denman, Deputies Burnett, Patterson and Moses, are seen evenings on the baseball diamond. Several of them are old timers at the game and have not altogether forgotten the tricks. The "boys" have lots of fun and plenty of needful exercise.

A concert entertainment; a harbinger of commencement time, will be given by the educational department of the Oregon Agricultural College, Saturday night, under the direction of Prof. Helen Crawford. An interesting program has been announced and the opera house will be crowded. A nominal admission fee, 10 cents, will be charged. Reserved seats, 15 cents.

The piano students of the O. A. C. gave a recital at the Congregational church last Friday evening. An excellent program was rendered and Miss Dorothea Nash has reason to feel proud of her pupils. Miss Louise Barnett and Prof. Juh Fulton delighted the audience with their vocal selections. The pianists were: Miss Lyle Laurence, Miss Elsie Kueter, Miss Lettie Pratt, Miss Dora Porter, Miss Harriet Herron, Miss Edna Washburn and Miss Nash.

Last Saturday afternoon the Corvallis and Philomath baseball teams played a spirited game on the "Flat" grounds. The innings were either blanks or big prizes, and the game ended with a score of 30 to 27, in favor of Philomath. There was some rather gorgeous umpiring that did not offend the Corvallis boys. Both teams have some good players and Benton county can get up a fine team to compete for the state fair prizes.

Unless we have rain the spring grain will be very short and it takes a good machine to cut short grain. The McCormick gives perfect satisfaction.

The will of the late J. R. Bryson was filed for probate Saturday. It was dated December 30, 1896, and leaves Mrs. Bryson all the property on Main street, with the interest in the St. Clair property, and all household furniture. The balance of the estate, and aside from a few minor bequests, goes to the two sons, Edwin R. and Roscoe S. Bryson. E. E. Wilson was given the use and possession of the law library until such time as the sons shall be ready to use it.

Last Wednesday Prof. J. B. Horner was elected president of the Willamette University alumni association, the largest as well as the oldest alumni association in the Northwest. In the evening B. F. Irvine '77, editor of the Times, delivered an able oration. A little later the association met in the banquet hall, where toasts were the order of the hour. Prof. John Fulton, president of the O. A. C. alumni, was particularly happy in his response to the toast, "The O. A. C. Alumni."

The GAZETTE received this week a copy of the "Journal," published at Guatemala City, Guatemala, kindly sent by C. H. Pearce, now in that country on business. A among other things the paper publishes a presidential decree, intended to avoid a "monetary crisis in the Republic." This decree authorizes the banks to suspend specie payment, and use their own bills to liquidate claims, notwithstanding any stipulations they have made to the contrary. The government guarantees the bank issue.

There is no windmill made that equals the Aermotor. If you need one call on Simpson, Huston & Co.

The many candidates for the Corvallis postmastership are very busy, just now, pulling the wires, for they expect a vacancy to occur Sunday. Postmaster Bob Johnson is going to umpire a baseball game, and life insurance companies have cancelled his policies. The local printers who so boldly issued a challenge to any trade, business, profession or occupation in town, soon found they would have to play or take water. The latter alternative, was of course impossible, from the types' standpoint, and the game is on.

The telegraph operators were the first in the field, and the antimony slingers cross bats with the lightning jokers next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The salesmen and the court house officials have also picked up the printers' chip.

The Oregonian says: "Corvallis is to have another paper, and it needs it. As purveyors of news the Times and GAZETTE are unsurpassed among country weeklies, but their courses in politics are very uncomplimentary to the intelligence and character of the community."

The same community helps support the Oregonian, and although the people consider it, politically, mercenary, factional, unfair and unscrupulous, they do not deem their subscribing for it, a reflection upon themselves. And it is no reflection. The Oregonian is a good newspaper, clean and unsensational. Editorially, it is one of the strongest, in point of ability, in the country. The GAZETTE has no apologies to make for its political course. It is a straight republican paper, always has been and expects to remain so. Many of its readers disagree with it, politically, but they know always where it stands. It is safe to say that Benton county people are satisfied with the Times and GAZETTE, and will not give much encouragement to a temporary factional organ.

We know of but one community in the world where dyspepsia is practically unknown, and that is the Shakers of Mount Lebanon, N. Y. These good people have been studying the subject of digestion for more than a hundred years, and that they understand it pretty thoroughly, is evidenced in the foregoing fact. Their digestive cordial is the safest and best remedy in cases of indigestion that we know of. A trial bottle can be had through your druggists for the trifling sum of 10 cents. The shaker digestive cordial supplies the system with food already digested, and at the same time aids the digestion of other foods. It will almost instantly relieve the ordinary symptoms of indigestion, and no sufferer need be told what these are.

Laxol is the best medicine for children. Doctors recommend it in place of castor oil.

Some California Mines.

Mr. H. H. Krieger, now in business at Randsburg, Cal., sends the GAZETTE an interesting description of the mines in the Great Mojave desert. Lack of space makes it impossible to publish the letter in full. Randsburg is located in the foothills in the eastern part of Kern county, in the center of the Rand district, about 200 miles from Los Angeles. Stage companies run from two to four coaches daily from the latter city and from Kramer. Hotel accommodations are good. The hastily built shanties and tents are rapidly being replaced by more substantial buildings.

The first mines discovered were the Rand, Olympus, Trilby and Yellow Aster, now called the "Rand group" and are situated one-half mile west of town. There are a number of other mines at the edge of town or within a short distance. The King Solomon is producing good milling ore at a depth of 60 feet, while the Val Verde is down over 100 feet, and produces milling ore paying from $30 to $50 per ton, with a parallel lead ten feet wide which pays over $50 per ton. The Weddie, J. L. C., Excelsior, Butte and Kenyon have very good ore and experienced mining men believe much richer ore will be found at a depth of several hundred feet.

The St. Elmo is capitalized at $2,500,000. A ten-stamp mill and cyanide plant will be placed on this property.

At present there is sufficient labor in the district, but there is room and plenty of it for capital. Then there are men who hold claims, without means, who will sell or give part of their holdings for improvements. Everything within reach has been staked off. There is no question in my mind as to the future prosperity of the Rand mining district.

Mr. Krieger closes with some good advice: "Now a word to my old friends and neighbors. Don't come here with the idea that you can get $3.00 a day for eight hours work, locate a mine or pick up chunks of gold. You may do one or all, but there are big chances that you will do none."

A FERTILE SECTION.

The Gazette's Special Correspondent Tells of His Trip.

Through the eastern, southern and southwestern portion of this county much was seen to please and much to instruct the writer. A general air of prosperity seems to prevail in the above named portions of the county. Fences are generally in good repair, and roads had been worked or work was being done last week. A better style of roadmaking seems to be the order of the day than formerly. Better drainage is being effected and in many places gravel is freely used as top dressing after the road beds are raised in the center.

Crops generally speaking look well, although some exceptions were noted especially where seedling has been done late on white land. Owing to the exceptionally dry autumn and very wet winter the acreage of fall and winter grain is hardly as large as usual. However the farmers seem to have improved every moment since the good weather began this spring, and the acreage of spring grain will not fall much, if any, below the average. Should there be a good shower of rain within the next week or ten days, crops will be good, except here and there in favored localities, will be short.

The people generally are in good health and seem hopeful for the future. Many improvements were noted, among which was a new house on part of the lands of the G. B. Smith estate. Jesse Porter has been building an addition to his residence and making general repairs around his home. Casper Zieroff is erecting a large barn.

The Liverpool flouring mills have been set going and will continue to make a fine quality of flour. The Monroe mills are also running night and day turning out 75 barrels each 24 hours. Both of these properties are owned by the firm of A. Wilhelm & Sons, and are among the substantial evidences of that firm's solidity and business sagacity.

Dr. Bond is a new comer in Monroe. He has a fine drug store well equipped and has nearly a car load of diplomas from medical colleges and societies. He is a genial, companionable man and the writer spent an hour very pleasantly reviewing old times and old acquaintances in Nebraska. The Dr. incidentally mentioned that he was a McKinley democrat.

Dr. E. Brong, an acquaintance of the Dr., was present and was very enthusiastic over the future of the Willamette valley.

Theo. Wellsher, blacksmith, and J. C. Looney, liverman, at Monroe, are both happy and doing fairly well. Dr. T. K. Chapman also is a resident of Monroe and enjoys a good practice.

One of the nights while on this trip we were graciously entertained by Hugh Herren in a family in the Irish Bend. The next morning after breakfast he took us through his prune orchard of five acres, which had been well tilled and gave evidence of a good yield. He also accompanied us to the orchards of Hugh Finley and the Herron boys, his nephews.

Mr. Finley joined us and we tramped through the Herron boys peach and prune orchard, visiting their dryer, which by the way, seemed to the writer to be the best yet seen. The peach trees in this orchard will yield well as will also the prunes. These young men have a fine orchard of 4-year-old Italian and Petite prunes coming on. Mr. Finley will have a full crop of apples and pears, a partial crop of peaches and a bountiful supply of prunes. These orchards seem to thrive better than any we have visited.

The McElroy orchard on the hill, west of Monroe is well tilled and is loaded with fruit. It is on red hill soil, which next to the sandy river bottoms, is the best for fruit.

The Bellfountain orchard is mostly planted on rolling and hill land. It is five years old and will produce a fair crop. The apples in this orchard, consisting of 30 acres, will bear this year as much fruit as will be good for the trees. Most of the prune trees are looking well and are making a vigorous growth.

We stayed over night with J. W. Walters in the southwest part of the county. He, with ten men, are cutting lumber out of the mammoth fir that grow in abundance near his mill. He manufactures 10,000 feet of lumber daily. He owns a fine home and has a good mill plant and if it were not such a task to get the lumber over the mountains he would have a bonanza. Mr. Walters has carved out his home among the trees by hard work and is deserving of the success he is attaining.

Geo. H. Waggoner, notwithstanding the hard times, has made a little money during the past few years, and is now erecting a new barn.

Ed Williams is a rustler and is doing well. We broke bread at his table and enjoyed his genial hospitality very much. Ed is a Simon pure McKinley man and is a firm believer in the principals of the republican party. L. H. Hawley is a stock raiser in the Belknap settlement, cattle and goats being his forte. He was overstocked on goats last winter and sustained some losses.

David Perin, W. S. Humphrey and N. O. Dodge are prosperous residents of Dasty precinct, and all three of them are strong adherents to the principles of the G. O. P., and helped in the campaign last fall to make Dasty the banner republican precinct of the county.

We spent one night at the Bellfountain fruit farm with the manager, Mr. H. T. Bristow. This orchard has been under Mr. Bristow's management for the last several years and his stewardship has been highly satisfactory.

This is an excellent section of the county and the people are energetic, moral and industrious. The home generally indicate thrift and culture. I felt many times that I would like to own a little piece of land and live among these people. While it is true they work, yet there is sunshine in their lives and songs of joy in their hearts. They believe in Oregon and especially in Benton county.

On this trip I met an old time friend, Charley Bowers, whom I had not seen for several years. Charley is the same genial spirit of yore, and still wields the paint brush with the same skill as formerly. To one and all the writer extends thanks for courtesies extended and doffs his hat to the sturdy yeomen who have made the trip one of pleasure.

Pa Had a Gun.

San Francisco papers report a romantic escapade of Oliver M. Williams, formerly of Corvallis, and better known in sporting circles. It seems he arrived at a small California town with a young woman, where he registered at a hotel as man and wife. He obtained employment at the house as waiter. In a few days an older gentleman came into the burg with a shot gun and took his station in front of the hotel. He claimed to be a mine owner from southern Oregon and the father of the girl, who he said, was not married to Williams. The hotel man persuaded him to yield up his gun and the father and the lover met, when the latter promised to marry the girl. But when he found a chance he skipped to another town, where the old gentleman, with his gun, quickly followed.

After a stern chase Williams was again cornered, and finally accompanied the father back to where the girl was staying, where the marriage took place. The father is said to be quite wealthy, and willing to provide for the young couple. Williams' mother resides in Corvallis.

Corvallis Papas.

The council meeting last Monday evening was not a very dull affair. The forces led by Councilmen Samuels encountered the troops of Councilman Lee in several fierce charges, and although outnumbered, the guns of the former were never silenced. The first and chief bone of contention was the ferry boat built by the street committee to bring gravel from the Osburn barn. Samuels claimed the boat was useless and the committee had simply wasted money in building it. Lee, of the street committee, remarked that it was easier to criticize than to do, and that the boat was an absolute necessity and meant real economy. The committee bills were allowed, ayes 7, nays 2.

Landlord Schmidt, of the Occident hotel, was granted permission to tear up the old street car track, except the part of line between the Hotel Corvallis and the depot, which he agrees to keep in good condition. One-half of the taxes were remitted and other favors shown.

The police judge reported that Joe Bryant had been fined for cruelty to animals, and that the ordinances provide that in such cases one-half the fine went to the informer. As in this instance the informer was Nightwatchman Skipton, there was some doubt as to the division of the fine. It was decided that Mr. Skipton was entitled to a share.

Night officer Will Skipton tendered his resignation and the vote for his successor stood, J. L. Skipton, 5 W. L. Moore 3. A. Kyle 1, Skipton being elected. Samuels said he was disappointed, but "knew the thing had been cut and dried." This brought no response.

The mayor read his message, which was brief, but full of practical and sensible suggestions, and it received the close attention of the councilmen. The fact that the city debt had been very materially reduced during the past year, until it is now but a little over $10,000 was especially mentioned, and the mayor commended highly the retiring council.

The chief of police read his monthly report. Councilmen Lee explained the future policy of the street committee, which was criticised by Samuels. Councilman Rose was elected president of the council. The council discussed many matters pertaining to the city, and the meeting was a prolonged one. Many bills were allowed and some referred.

Commencement at Philomath.

The commencement exercises at Philomath College, were held at the camp grounds west of Philomath Wednesday, June 30. The graduating class being small, consisting of Miss Ethel Bradford (normal) and Miss Grace Boles (scientific), the public rhetorical class of the college assisted with the exercises and the program throughout was well received and reflected credit upon both teachers and pupils.

The exercises began with a piano solo by Miss Gertie Sheak and a song by the male quartette. Miss Ethel Bradford followed with an oration, "What is it?" Showing that christianity had successfully passed through six crises and gave the reason for each successive triumph.

O. V. White took for his subject, "Images of Stone." He spoke of the progress of philosophy, claiming that our lives were the images to be modeled with the chisel and that adversity gave them their polish.

Miss Gertrude Sheak did ample justice to her subject, "Beauties of Nature," and her theme was in close accord with the enchanting surroundings.

Miss Jessie Buoy in her oration on "The Painted Stone," drew some very practical lessons for every day life, showing the importance of contentment.

A duet was read red by Miss Sheak and Boles, and George McDonald delivered an oration on "Money and the Kingdom," his central idea being the importance of christian giving.

The class motto "Vehrimus in Altum"—we are borne out on the deep—was in line with the thoughts of Miss Grace Boles, as given in her oration, "Life's Currents." Her production and its rendition are both worthy of special mention.

President Emerick then presented the diplomas and the exercises were closed with a vocal solo by Miss Bertha Ellis, of Albany.

In justice to the college and its present management, I would like to correct the impression given by the Times' article of June 12. Prof. J. M. C. Miller has been selected principal of the school. Prof. Sheak has been retained and arrangements perfected whereby efficient instructors will be employed for the other departments. The instructors have not agreed to teach for the tuition receipts, as the college has other sources of revenue. The statement regarding the financial condition of the college was also an error. The school's prospects were never brighter than they are to day. Numerous improvements are contemplated and those interested are looking forward with brighter hopes for the future.
