He intends visiting his old home in 1900, and at the same time see the Paris exposition.

The new postal cards are smaller than the old ones and are easier in appearance. The "paternalism" of the post-office department is illustrated by two recent local cases. A woman sent a post-office order for $5 to an eastern company that the government has discovered to be a fraud. The "company" received the letter, but payment on the order was stopped. This woman appreciated Uncle Sam's vigilance, but another woman who had a letter containing money, and addressed to a squire coonra, returned to her, thinks the department has cheated her out of a fine bargain.

A GREAT FACTORY.

Heavy Investment in Oregon Enterprise—Result of the Experiment Station's Work.

About the 1st of September, it is expected, the big sugar beet factory at La Grande will be in active operation. It is to be a mammoth affair, the plant costing $450,000. In importance it probably ranks above any other factory in the state.

From Prof. Shaw are learned many interesting facts concerning this new enterprise, the first of its kind in Oregon. The plant will grind up 350 tons of sugar beets each 24 hours, which means an output for that time of 35 tons of sugar. The company has contracted for the beet product of 3,700 acres of land. It pays $4 per ton for beets carrying iron 12 to 14 per cent sugar and 25 cents for each additional per cent. The average yield is about 15 tons to the acre and the cost of raising beets is about $30 per acre, which leaves a handsome profit. The largest single contract is with the Pierce Land Co., which is to raise 600 acres of beets. Experimental work shows the beets of that section to average higher in sugar richness than those of any other locality where the manufacture of beet sugar on a commercial scale is carried on.

Owing to the nicely adjusted and labor saving machinery, it will be necessary to employ only about 200 men, but, indirectly, the factory will furnish work to many others, wood choppers, farm help, etc., and help build up the home market. 7,000 cords of wood has been engaged for the first season's run. The factory will use four carloads of limestone each 24 hours, which will come from Huntington.

The machinery is ordered from E. H. Dyer & Co., and the heavier parts are now on the road. It will require 130 cars to bring the machinery across the continent. It is all of the very latest pattern.

David Eccles, mayor of Ogden, Utah, is the chief moulter man of the enterprise. He has a large interest in a new factory at Ogden also. The citizens of La Grande raised a subsidy of $50,000, which promises to be money well invested. Thos. Culler is manager and C. A. Grauger superintendent. The former was seven years manager of the Lehigh factory, which has been a wonderful success in the face of great difficulties. Mr. Grauger was also with the Lehigh for seven years, and for many years prior was in the beet fields and sugar factories of California.

Besides the $450,000, the cost of the plant, as much more will be necessarily invested in operating the factory. The beneficial results of this investment will be far reaching.

The establishment of this factory can be honestly credited directly to the experiment station connected with the Oregon Agricultural College. The station sent out best seeds, requesting farmers in different portions of the state to experiment with them. Many gladly responded, and the later tests carried on at the station showed that the La Grande and a few other beets were very rich in sugar. As soon as the wide awake active people of La Grande understood the capabilities of their soil in this matter, they began an agitation for a factory, and backed up by the station's data, they secured it. In the establishment of this one factory alone, the experiment station has repaid its cost for many years.

Home Again.

Mr. John Simpson, senior partner of the firm of Simpson & Huston, with his wife and daughter arrived Tuesday from an extended trip through the southern portion of California. They thoroughly enjoyed their holiday of over four months and return in a splendid health. They were in Los Angeles a large part of the time and found it a most delightful place. The chief drawback is the lack of rain, only four inches having fallen so far this season. They saw Allice Thompson at Colton. He was in apparently fine health and enjoyed the friendship of every one. Notwithstanding all the pleasant things he met, Mr. Simpson expresses himself as being glad to get back to Oregon.

All voters who supported John Whitaker or William Dillon for representative in 1896, or who are now in accord with the people's party principles of direct legislation and government issue of money, are requested to attend and vote at the said primary.

Late Telegraph News.

The house bill appropriating $50,000,000 to be put in the president's hands for a defense fund, passed the senate without a dissenting vote. The house vote previously taken was also unanimous. Topic 'o Politics.

H. L. Barkley, Bishop Barkley as it is now said to be, still hankers after the flesh pot of politics and wishes to run for congressman in this district on the fusion ticket. Will R. King, of Baker county, a former O. A. C. student, in all probability will be the fusion candidate for governor. If Kincaid cannot get the republican nomination for secretary of state, it is understood that he will be the silver ticket candidate. It is possible that a Benton county man will be on the state fusion ticket.

On the republican side there are three active and avowed candidates for governor, Geor. Lord and Metcham. The latter will probably show the most strength in the convention, though many think he will not have enough votes to elect. Geer, doubtless has the largest popular following, but he may have trouble organizing this strength effectively. Judge Frank Moore, a very popular man, has been urged to try for the gubernatorial nomination, but he will probably only ask for his present position. For secretary of state, A. M. Crawford, of Douglas county, has been named. Prof. Ackerman, of Portland, is almost certain of the nomination for school superintendent and Printer Leeds is apt to be renominated. Claude Gatch, of Salem, is not a candidate for any position. But in case neither Geer nor Lord capture the governor plum, many knowing ones predict that Mr. Gatch will be named for secretary of state, with George H. Williams at the head of the ticket. Tongue for congress will have practically no opposition.

Hazard, of Coos county, and Hamilton, of Douglas, are working diligently for the nomination of district judge on the fusion ticket. Mr. Hamilton was in Corvallis last week seeking support, and Mr. Coke, of Marshfield, was here on behalf of Mr. Hazard. Judge Hufford, of Benton, and Judge Woodcock, of Eugene, are the leading republican candidates.

The call of the republican county central committee for primaries and county convention, appears elsewhere. Democrats and populists elect delegates to the county convention tomorrow. These conventions will not nominate a county ticket.

The Country Editor.

(Champ Clark's speech in Congress.) He is the packhorse of every community, the promoter of every laudable enterprise, the worst underpaid laborer in the vineyard. Counting his speck as his capital, he gives more to charity, his means considered, than any other member of society. He is a power in politics, a pillar of the church, a leader in the crusade of better morals. He is pre-eminently the friend of humanity. Line upon line, paragraph upon paragraph, day by day, he is embalming in cold type the facts from which the Herodotus, Tacitus, Sismondi or Macaulay of the future will write the history of our times. He fully chronicles our advent into the world, briefly notes our uprisings and our downfalls, and sorrowfully records our exit. We are all more or less—generally more—his handiwork, and his creature should not be ungrateful to his creator. Without his generous and enthusiastic labors most of us would never have been here, and when he tires of us, most of us will return to private life and rural scenes propitious for secret meditation and silent prayer. Working night and day during the campaign, when the election is over and the time comes for the distribution of the loaves and fishes—now vulgarly called "pie"—by some strange lapse of memory he is generally forgotten.

After years of untold suffering from piles, B. W. Patsell of Kilmersville, Pa., was cured by using a single box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Skin diseases such as eczema, rash, pimples and obstinate sores are readily cured by this famous remedy. Allen & Woodward.
