COUNTY. AND

The Head of Navigation.

The Corvallis Gazette quotes our item of February 12th and makes an addendum, as

All is well that ends well-but the downward passage of the Champion does not prove "that not much time need be tost," but rather the contrary. The Cham-pion left Eugene City early on Friday morn-ing, and proceeded but a few miles when her here accidents and incidents peculiar to the pavigation of the Willamette river, she did will remove the snags and sand bars, or widen, deepen, or straighten the tortuous channel of the Willamette above Corvallis. on the Willamette.

If it is gratifying to the Gazette to have its location at "the head of navigation" we have not the slightest objection, as it will not keep enterprising steamboat men from going above the "head." The down trip of the Champion does not prove anything against us. We have a faint recollection of a steamboat or two having met with unfortunate accidents even some distance below Corvallis, the Shoshone, for instance, which was sunk and abandoned opposite Salem. since, the last time having left here on Monto a steamboat and then move his "head" to Springfield, six miles by river above Eugene, where no one will dispute his
