

THE EUGENE CITY GUARD. SATURDAY, APR. 1, 1876. EUGENE CITY, OREGON.

Justices It. The State Journal is, we believe, the only paper published in the United States which attempts in any manner to justify the stealing by the party now in power. It throws its head back and ignores everything of the present day and goes back to tell us how an official under Jackson stole an immense sum of money. But if all the sums stolen or misapplied by officials under all the Presidents from the time of Washington down to 1860 were added together, they would not equal the aggregate stealings of any one good day for stealing under Grant. Every paper is full of it, and it is not confined to any class of men. The rich steal themselves rich and the poor steal themselves rich. Even the flunky whose name appears at the head of the Journal as editor and proprietor must have had a pull at the money wrung from the people by taxation, or his paper would have gone by the board long ago. For years there has been nothing but frauds. Take the daily papers of any one day and see the accounts of them. The San Francisco Post, which, by the way, is owned and controlled by Senator Jones, has an article describing the way vessels are built in the navy yard near that city. In June, 1874, a survey was held on two iron clads, the Comanche and Monadnock, and they were declared unfit for any kind of service, the iron being rusted, the rivets and bolts loosened and the wood rotten. The people would naturally suppose that with such an establishment as the Mare Island Navy Yard the Government could build its own vessels; yet in 1874 Mr. Burgess went to San Francisco with a contract to repair the Comanche. He had the use of all the Government machinery to do the work with, and was paid for it $250,000. Ship building experts who have examined the vessel since being rebuilt say the work should have been done for less than one-third the sum paid. Here then is a steal of over $160,000. Then Mr. Burgess announced that he was going to rebuild the Monadnock. But a show of fair dealing was required to be made, and accordingly some dust was thrown in the eyes of the public by an advertisement in a San Francisco and in a country paper inviting bids, for labor only, in the repairing of the Monadnock. Neither the Commandant nor Constructor at Mare Island were provided with requisite plans and specifications, nor could they give any information on the subject. On opening the bids, the offer of Mr. Burgess to furnish the necessary labor for $250,000 was accepted, that being $50,000 less than the next bid above. The sum of $250,000 for work was merely a starter. Men competent to judge say that she will cost the Government at least $1,200,000, although the turrets of the old vessel will be placed on the new one. This is what is called "repairing" a vessel. By law no new vessel can be built except by act of Congress. It is impossible to form an estimate of what amount of government funds will be thrown away on this ship. Further of this navy business: Secretary Robeson, the Secretary of the Navy Department, built an elegant mansion in Washington. The interior of this building evidences unlimited wealth and expenditure. Every room, from basement to attic, is wainscoted with elegant black walnut, here and there beautifully carved with excellent judgment and taste. This work would have cost upward of $10,000 had it been done by private hands. All of this work was done by men from the navy yard, who received their pay from the United States Government. The black walnut employed was also Government property. Besides trimming this house throughout in the most expensive manner, the genial foreman of the navy yard, Mr. Childs, also took occasion to further ingratiate himself into the good graces of Mrs. Robeson by manufacturing various valuable articles of household furniture. An elegant and elaborately carved sideboard in Robeson's dining room is the work of Mr. Childs. It cost the Treasury $900 under the item of incidental labor. Hat racks, card tables, and kitchen drawers are a few of the numerous articles manufactured by this industrious and patient soul, Childs, for the sole purpose of pleasing Mrs. Robeson. One day Mr. Childs assumed a lavish mood and ordered two of the best wood cutters at hand, Fred. Boetscher and Wm. Noak, Germans, to go to work and make up a lot of work boxes for distribution among Mrs. Robeson's friends. These work boxes were very costly, and occupied the attention of Boetscher and Noak for several months. Capt. Ferguson's testimony shows that upward of $12,000 worth of time and material have been diverted from the navy yard to the private house of Robeson for his domestic use. Another case of Robeson's is told by a former employe of the Department, who was in a position to know whereof he speaks. J. L. Savage, a naval contractor, had a claim against the Navy Department before the day of Robeson of $32,000, which had been thrown out by former Secretaries. When Robeson came in, one Murtaugh asked Savage how much he would give him if he would get the claim through. Savage said one-half. At this Murtaugh secured an allowance of $20,000 upon the claim, $10,000 of which went to Murtaugh. It is said that he afterward divided with Robeson, or, at any rate, compromised matters by making Mrs. Robeson a present of a very handsome set of diamonds upon the occasion of her wedding. Here then are frauds in the Navy Department amounting to $192,000. Further, the vessels of the navy have been used on all occasions by members of Grant's family and their friends for junketing excursions without number. In the matter of mail contracts, money has been used to defeat the ends of justice on every important route on the Pacific Coast. Sanderson, Barlow & Co., contractors on the route through Eugene, testify to having paid large sums of money to secure the contract. And after getting it, Barlow says he was obliged to pay one official the sum of $5,000 quarterly; to others he had to give a carriage and horses, and to another diamonds. Possibly if the editor of the Journal would make strict search he might without leaving town obtain a view of this outfit of carriage and horses; it is a very handsome carriage, and during the summer when the roads are good may be seen almost every day on our streets. The virtuous Dave Thompson, recently appointed Governor of Idaho, was a bidder on the route overland from Kelton, on the C. P. R. to the Dalles. The contractors who are now doing service paid David $15,000 to relinquish his bid. The tax-payers, and not C. C. Huntley, the contractor, pay Thompson that sum. These are all matters discussed in papers which came to our table in one day, and they are not the half of them, even, and one day is like another in this respect. Each one brings new disclosures. Gen. Odell himself could furnish some very interesting matter in this line. He might tell us how many thousands of dollars he has made by giving out surveying contracts to friends who "saw" him when pay day came. How much D. P. Thompson, Rufus Mallory and others made in the same way. That "Exegesis." General Applegate respectfully requests newspapers of all parties and purposes to publish his exegesis. We should be pleased to recede to the request if the document occupied less space, but our paper is too small to publish that and much of anything else at the same time. And again, probably most of our readers would utterly fail to regard it in the same light the general does, and would look upon the space occupied as thrown away. However, we submit his arraignment of the present caucus system: From the beginning of my political life I have opposed the legislative caucus; and the longer I have known and studied it, the more I am opposed to it; The older it becomes, the more vitiating and dangerous it becomes. It usurps the functions of government, and the rights of citizen sovereignty. It denies the citizen the right of nomination or choice among men. It cuts off the legitimate and just consideration of the rights and claims of candidates. It smother the claims of merit out of sight, and denies the candidate, his friends and children the benefit of the record. It gives money and villainy the advantage doing its work in the dark. It involves the candidate, by debt and loss of money, in the necessity of laying his term, if elected, under contribution to reimburse himself and friends. It darkens and defiles the atmosphere around the capital of the Republic with a cloud of vultures devouring the substance of the nation. It bears the awful burden of public expense, which is already so much greater than we can bear that we are compelled to call upon the yet unborn generation for assistance.

It is a dangerous and rapidly growing evil, antagonistic to republican doctrine and is now beating the republican party, and passing the government into the hands of the instigators of the Confederate conspiracy and rebellion. It constituted the efficient instrument in the hands of the conspirators by which the Senate was crowded with traitors, the Democratic party basely degraded and used, and murderous rebellion inaugurated. It is a mill of bitterness and a sink of iniquity. By its angry accusations it destroys the character of public men, and demoralizes the country generally. It has a direct tendency to lower the character and dignity of the U. S. Senate to the injury of the cause of free institutions at home and abroad. Of the manner of electing United States Senators he says: It is behind the age and the advanced condition of citizen sovereignty as exercised in the national government in which the citizens nominate their presidential candidates for their electors to vote for. It subjects the determination of so important a matter as the election of a U. S. Senator to freaks of accident, in which everybody is cheated—even the man elected. It induces a vicious and demoralizing struggle in choosing candidates for the legislature, looking to the votes for Senator in utter contempt of the most vital matters of legislation. It gives opportunity for all manner of corners, barter and sale, even more hateful and damnable than the caucus itself. It gives unscrupulous villains and hypocritical Dilworths the advantage over ordinarily decent men, to the disgrace of the nation and free institutions. A reckless web-foot not having the love of Radicalism in his heart, accounts for the great demand for costly bouquets in Congress, thus: The introduction of negroes into that body and the admission of "colored people" into the lobby and galleries, made huge and strong scented bouquets a necessity to neutralize the loud and palpable odor of "colored gentlemen." And he argues that the surest plan to stop such extravagance is to keep the negroes out of Congress—that is, to remove the necessity for such expense, is his idea of economy. According to a statement in the Republic for March, a journal published at Washington in the interest of the present administration, the expenses of the Government for the years 1858, 1859 and 1860 were $81,000,000; total for the three years, $243,000,000. Expenses of the Government for 1875, $274,000,000. It attempts to ring in a lot of balderdash to reduce these figures, but the facts are the same—that it cost $193,000,000 more to run the Government in 1875 than it did in the average of the three years first named. A Lane county farmer who has been put back in his farm work by the dump weather, and who is not greatly impressed with the utility of a Sunday for rest in each week, asks if the Legislature could not provide for the observance of fifty-two Sundays during the winter and have none during seed time and harvest; he thinks the matter could be arranged so justice could be done to all concerned. Rather than miss such arrangement he would be willing to have sixty winter Sundays to offset the summer's account. Colfax, W. T. Items. COLFAX, W. T., March 9th, 1876. This has been a beautiful winter, weather mild, and stock of all kinds looking well. The soil is a black loam from two to four feet in depth, the hills as well as the valleys being thickly set with grass. With good cultivation the soil will yield from 50 to 60 bushels per acre of wheat, barley or oats. There are thousands of acres of just such lands lying vacant all over this Palouse country, and all we need is immigration and a railroad to carry off our surplus. The farmers are plowing in real earnest, and they mean business. The largest crop of grain and hay harvested in any one year will be more than doubled this season. There has been an unusual rain fall this winter. Colfax is quite a town, situated on the North Palouse. It has a post-office, 3 schools, 2 stores, 1 saddle and harness shop, 2 blacksmith shops, 1 grist and 1 saw mill, 2 Justices of the Peace and 2 lawyers. Times have been lively since Dan Cook and Frank Bryant arrived. Their first act was to jump a claim each, and then they broke open a house and robbed it of a part of its contents. Last Saturday Bryant made an attempt to kill one of my neighbors with an axe, and the Sheriff is after him now. If you have any more of that sort of men in Lane county please keep them. We have no use for them. There is some twaddle about starting a third party for the Presidential election. It can't be done, and won't be tried. In a short time the main issue will be joined between the two existing parties, and into them will be whirled all the political forces of the country. In the campaign of this year, no third party could do anything but guerrilla skirmishing and blackmailing, and no such business can be tolerated under present circumstances. One of the twaddlers about a third party says "the people are mad enough" just to rush into it. There are some people who are often mad enough and silly enough to make fools of themselves; but even these will keep clear of the folly of a third party this year. Two parties are sufficient for the present.—N. Y. Sun.

W. C. NELSON'S Improved Iron King Wind Mill. (Patented Nov. 9th, 1875.) THE TRUE FRIEND OF THE Fruit Grower, the Farmer, the Irrigator, AND ALL WHO REQUIRE THE USE OF WATER. There are several reasons why this Mill should be preferred to all others: 1st. It is far more durable because it is all Iron. 2d. It is Cheaper because of its simplicity and durability, and will outlast several Wooden Mills. 3d. It is Less Complicated, because there is only three pieces of operating machinery. 4th. It is more powerful than any other Mill, on account of the thin fan, and consequent increased suction of air, and because it is operated by an eccentric, being far superior to the crank shaft or rest pin, as a lifting and falling power. 5th. It needs no care, no watching, having self-feeding oil caps and self-regulating vanes. It regulates, protects and takes care of itself. 6th. It never warms, shrinks, or swells, hence it is not liable to get out of order. Once up, it goes all right. 7th. It does more work, runs easier and throws a larger body of water. It will submerge a larger tract of land, with less wind and in a shorter space of time than any other Windmill now in use. It may be set to turn out of the wind at any desired pressure, there being a graduated lever for that purpose. 8th. This Mill took the only premium given at the California State Fair, over the many others there on exhibition. COMPLAINT BY WING BEN ENTERED AT this Office by J. W. Chubbey against J. C. Anderson for abandoning his donation claim upon the N. E. of S. E. 4 and E. of S. W. 4 Section 2, Township 17, Range 5 West in Lane county, Oregon, with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this Office on the 22nd day of April, 1876, at 10 o'clock a. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment. Wm. R. WILLIS, Register. J. C. FULLERTON, Receiver. THE MORNING COURIER. Recent political events strongly indicate a speedy return of the Democratic party to supreme power in the nation. The House of Representatives is now Democratic by a large majority; the Government of more than one half of the States is administered by Democrats; the party enters upon the Presidential contest with the brightest hopes, and under the most substantial encouragement. The Wonderful revelations of rascality and corruption on the part of Republican leaders, which have hardened the press and hurried the people during the past three years, make it clearly the duty of every man to take an active part in the great contest of the year. More than at any previous time in the history of the country a trustworthy daily newspaper is now necessary to every citizen, in order that he may intelligently discharge his political duties. The Chicago Morning Courier is a consistent Democratic newspaper. It will be devoted to the work of aiding in rearing the nation from the party that has debauched its services, squandered its treasure and enslaved its liberties. It will advocate a speedy return to specie payments, but believes that this result should be brought about by economical management of the Government, and not by arbitrary enactment. It believes in the back at par, and the same currency for the rich and poor. It will advocate Home Rule, Free Trade, and Public Economy, the old cardinal principles of the Democratic party. The Courier has established a widespread reputation as a first class newspaper. The aim of its management is to make it all that the public in these hurrying days can desire, namely—a complete newspaper. Every facility known to modern journalism will be utilized to insure the prompt presentation of all important intelligence from all parts of the world, while the utmost care will be exercised to give only such as is worth printing. In short, the Courier will give all the news as promptly as any other paper, and condensed into a more attractive and readable form than a sheet of news. Terms—Mail subscription, postage free, six dollars per annum, or fifty cents per month, in advance. THE WEEKLY COURIER Has a large circulation in every western State and Territory. It is our only paper in the West, and we shall continue to give in its columns a large amount of miscellaneous reading matter, such as stories, tales, poems, scientific intelligence and agricultural information for which we are not able to make room in our daily edition. The agricultural department especially will be one of its prominent features. The fashions are also regularly reported in its columns, and so are the markets of every kind. Terms—$1.00 per year, postpaid. TRY IT!—THE T. G. HENDRICKS BRAND OF SOAP. For sale only by T. G. HENDRICKS. HARRINGTON'S SPANISH LUSTRAL, CELEBRATED for its medicinal powers over the Human Hair. This preparation eradicates dandruff and restores a healthy action of the roots of the Hair, thereby improving its growth and Beauty, and is a sure preventive for baldness. It is the most valuable hair dressing ever used, and its use should be continued until the hair to assume its former beautiful and brilliant appearance. Its odor is so agreeable that it is indispensable to a Lady's Toilet. It is prepared and sold by FRANK HARRINGTON, EUGENE CITY, OREGON.
