For Surveyors: G. R. HAMMERSLEY.

For Coroner: WM. OWSLEY.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

The candidates on the Democratic ticket for Lane county will meet their fellow-citizens to discuss the issues dividing the two parties at the following times and places, to-wit:

Smithfield, Monday, May 29th. Junction, Tuesday, " 30th. Cottage Grove, Thursday, June 1st. Creswell, Friday, June 2d. Eugene, Saturday, June 3d.

The opposing candidates are invited to be present and divide time.

On consultation of the candidates of both parties it was thought the above appointments would better serve the interests of the people than to make appointments in times among farmers. If there is any place not named above where the people would like public speaking, the candidates would be pleased to meet the people by invitation.

DICK WILLIAMS made a little speech in Portland the other day, in which he said:

The Democratic members of Congress are spending the people's money and the time of Congress in investigations and hunting up matters to disgrace the nation, instead of legislating for the good of the country.

It certainly is a shameful state of affairs that this Democratic House of Representatives should go to nosing about among the corruption and misappropriation of the people's money, which ought to have gone towards paying off the national debt. But such things are "legislating for the good of the nation." This matter has been going on for about fifteen years, and it is impossible to arrive at even an approximate estimate of the sum of public money applied to personal uses or needlessly and criminally squandered for the ostensible purpose of conducting the government during those years. A Republican administration had charge of the affairs of government, during the late war, and terminated that matter to the satisfaction of a large majority of the people of the Northern States, and this majority re-inforced by bayonets used to oppress and control the votes of a people against whom they had no longer the presumption of a legitimate use, has since sustained that administration, notwithstanding the charges brought against it. But with the increase of time came increased recklessness, until even its own voluntary supporters became aroused and determined to make a change. A Democratic House of Representatives was elected, and it was expected to enlighten the people as to whether the charges made were true or false. In this they have been hindered by the President and his cabinet officers in every possible way, and the many foul pools that have been exposed to the public gaze have been discovered by main strength put against strategy and determined opposition. Certainly these things are a disgrace to the nation, but the disgrace lies in having such things unearthed, rather than in the smothering of them. If Mr. Williams expects to be elected to Congress he must strike some other chord than this. The masses of the people desire reform, and no hidden evil in the management of governmental affairs can be remedied.

THE SHOW OPENED.

On Wednesday last the grand National Menagerie was opened to the public, at fifty cents a head, and the chiefest fraud of this age of frauds is now in full blast. Philadelphia is after the lapse of a hundred years about to get pay for her tender nursing of a young republic and her remarkable affection for a broken bell, and a multitude of other patriotic acts, with compound interest. She will squeeze the country and absorb the juice as a child does an orange, and the victims will go home satisfied—that nothing can induce them to visit the second centennial celebration. The landlords will kindly care for and provide with home comforts the multitudes of people who will flock thither, out of purely patriotic motives—for six dollars per day. Tons and tons of produce and manufactured articles sent there for exhibition will be "sat on" by judges who have not the slightest qualifications for the duties assigned them, and the almighty dollar will fill their pockets and control their decisions. The name of the man who owned a little hatchet in his boyhood and could not tell a lie—he's dead now—even for a third term will be used as an inducement to buy their wares by every one, from the wholesale merchant down to the vendor of peanuts and mutton pies. Every article not stamped "Centennial" will be branded with the name of George or Martha Washington. The pious pros—, pastor, we mean, of Plymouth Church will be there, and Susan B. Anthony will take especial pride in pointing out the places where she nursed the children of the Pilgrims who landed with her on Plymouth Rock, or used her slipper as an instrument of torture to the flesh of the little red-skins, who had a vicious habit of putting bended pins in the old arm chair in which Penn was accustomed to snooze off the effects of too much "lime juice" taken with his mid-day meal. Samples of crooked whisky will be exhibited in goblets confiscated by the latter-day hero of New Orleans as contraband goods. The noble red man and the etched together and the post trader will be near at hand to gather in the alms of the one and the wages of the other. Grant will be there, a living, tangible evidence of the great advancement made since the days of Washington, Madison and Jefferson in the selection of persons to preside over this nation. Williams will be there with his jaw and will represent the department of justice of the United States; on this occasion he will appear in a new livery furnished expressly for the occasion, by the government, of course. Secor Robeson will entertain the visitors by a description of how navies are made and sustained, and how to make them achieve greatness for a nation. Richardson and Spinner will elucidate the financial principles upon which a republic must rest to keep taxation at its minimum and still pay its old debts and create no new ones. Belknap will explain how a cabinet officer can expend five hundred thousand dollars a year on a salary of seven or eight thousand. Schenck will illustrate our mining interests, and Creswell and Hamlin our postal system. It will be a high old blow-out, and the city of Irotherly Lovv can retire from business and live on the interest of its money when it closes. Who can deny our greatness?

The New York Evening Post of a recent date in referring to the proceedings of the New York State Democratic Convention says that Seymour, and not Tilden, was the choice of the Convention for President. If that be true and the New York delegation to St. Louis have any chance of making that choice felt in the National Convention, the Democratic party of that State would do well to call another Convention and select another set of delegates. We can conceive of no greater calamity that could befall the Democratic party than the nomination of Mr. Seymour for President. While we may say there is absolutely no danger that it will be done, we cannot forget that conventions very often do things that not even its own members can explain satisfactorily to the people.

The S. F. Alta says "the Democratic mad machine is now directed at Morton." A little good clean mud would have a tendency to purify that dirty statesman. He has wallowed in other filth so long that a mud bath would be a relief to him.

It has been frequently asserted that Grant never goes back on his friends; and yet it was stated, recently, that he had requested Secretary Bristow to discharge a dozen or more clerks appointed to positions in the Treasury Department on the recommendation of Babcock. The story turns out to be untrue. The President himself is authority for the statement that he has never made any such request. In point of fact, he is scarcely the man to do anything of the kind. No matter how damning may be the proof of misconduct, or crime itself, on the part of his favorites, he makes it a matter of principle never to desert them under any circumstances. It is susceptible of proof that, to-day, notwithstanding statements to the contrary, "Boss" Shepherd and General Babcock have as much influence with "the old man" as they had two years ago.

A World Washington special says: The testimony before the Committee on Expenditures in the Interior Department disclosed a condition of affairs in the Government Lunatic Asylum here which fairly curdled the blood of those who heard it. Many cells have only a bundle of straw on which to lie, which is shaken up daily as in a stable. One patient's bed became so fetid that it had to be carted away. In some cases the bones of the patients were literally worn through the flesh. Many were covered with vermin, filth and bruises. It is believed that in several cases death was hastened by violence.

A dispatch from Washington states that every day's investigation by the special committee into the doings of ex-Attorney-General Williams develops fresh infamies on his part during his official life. Two of the latest things discovered, which he will be called upon to explain, are as to what became of $750,000, which appear upon the records of the Department to have been drawn by him, and concerning the disposition of which no vouchers can be found; and, second, why $5,000 of Government money was used to run Mrs. Williams' son out of the country.

A New York Herald special says: The Administration people are flustered over the pending investigation of the Marshall's office at Chicago. Babcock's father-in-law is involved. Several witnesses are subpoenaed before Capfield's Committee on the matter. The object of the investigation is to show that, while the Deputy Marshals received only $1,000, the vouchers cover in some cases as much as $10,000.

A Herald Washington special reiterates the story that Grant is strongly for Conkling, and has instructed his friends to support him particularly in the South.

A New York Times Washington special declares that there is no truth in the story that Grant favors Conkling and will use the patronage of the Government for him. The President will remain entirely neutral.

It is reported that the political campaign is about opening in Louisiana in the old style. Citizens are dragged away from their homes on KKK charges, and the writs of the United States Courts are employed to produce terror in the country parishes.

The Tribune's Washington special says Kerr, in consequence of continued ill health with threatening results, and by the peremptory direction of a council of physicians, has decided to resign his position as Speaker of the House. His letter will be presented to the House to-morrow. Kerr has declined a re-election to Congress, and if his health does not recover, will resign his seat in Congress.

Taft's estimates are about $5,000,000 under those submitted by Belknap. The appropriation for barracks and military buildings is reduced about a million, and the appropriation for the army very near the same amount as reported by the House appropriation committee.

CALIFORNIA FOR BLAINE.—The California Republican State Convention gave Mr. Blaine an unequivocal endorsement for the Presidency, and the delegation will go into the National convention strongly supporting the Maine statesman for the nomination. The New York Herald thinks that it is fortunate for Mr. Blaine that he receives this strong support from the Pacific slope, especially after his slaughter by the Massachusetts republicans.

The Committee on Foreign affairs have received evidence that Schenck received $5,000 and some stock for services in getting a bill passed for the Colorado Immigration and Land scheme. This was while Schenck was on the Ways and Means Committee. The proof of it is understood to be in the shape of documents over Schenck's signature.

OREGON. The Jacksonville Times learns that a boy named Carter was drowned in the Apple-gate last week.

Lot Livermore declines the nomination of the Independents of Umatilla county for county treasurer.

Over $2,000 of stock in a city hall to be built at Corvallis, has been subscribed by the citizens of that place.

An extensive religious revival is going on at Monroe, Benton county, under the preaching of Rev. I. D. Driver.

W. F. Hill, of Coos Bay, has been appointed deputy U. S. marshal for the district of Oregon, by Marshal Waters.

Traveling by stage is so rough that persons passing through Jacksonville for the North, engage hacks to take them to Roseburg.

Deputy Sheriff Whitman left Pendleton last Sunday with the firm of Maxon & Berry, to be deposited for ten years at the Oregon penitentiary.

A Republican convention for Multnomah county is called to meet at the Court House in Portland on Tuesday, May 16, 1870, at 1 o'clock P. M., to nominate a county and legislative ticket.

W. J. Small, and John Dick and wife were drowned while sailing on the Klamath river near Linkville, Oregon, on the 3d inst., by the boat capsizing. The bodies were not recovered at the latest accounts.

It is reported that the question of land titles between the trustees of the Willamette University and the Wilson heirs, has at length been amicably and irrevocably settled, the powers that be having received a quit claim deed to all property in litigation.

The first meeting of the board of fire delegates of Albany was held Monday evening, and organized by the election of the following officers for the ensuing year: Geo. Humphrey, President; Wm. S. Peters, secretary; L. C. Rice, treasurer.

The fire department of Corvallis on Tuesday evening presented Mrs. H. W. Vincent, of the New England hotel, with an elegant silver castor, as an acknowledgment of the valuable services rendered by her in getting up the elegant supper at the recent fire.

The committee having in charge the hanging of the large fire bell just received from Troy N. Y., by Lion Engine Co. No. 2, of Albany, had it temporarily put up last Tuesday. The bell weighs about 700 pounds, and has a remarkably clear ringing tone.

Instead of using strychnine to rid fields of squirrels the farmers of Douglas county employ catmeal, having found it to answer the purpose much better. It is rubbed on wheat and then scattered about where the squirrels have their place of habitation, and only a few days are needed to clear a farm from the pests and their ruinous depredations.

Under date of May 2d a correspondent at Milton, Umatilla county writes: "Crops are looking well in this vicinity. Within the last two weeks there have been eight or ten claims taken within one and a half miles of Milton, and still there is room for others to get good homes. The grangers had a splendid time here the first of May. The Independents will carry this county. We are all getting very independent."

The Coos Record says on Monday of last week, little Maggie, daughter of A. C. Rodgers, of Empire City, was missed by her mother, and search being made, her body was found partly in the water, under the wharf near Lobree's store, Efforts were made to restore her to life but in vain. She was a beautiful child, a little less than two years of age, and a favorite with all.

Samuel R. Irwin, the secretary and Portland agent of the late Willamette Woolen Mills Manufacturing Company, received a dispatch from W. C. Griswold last Saturday, the 6th inst., stating that steps would immediately be taken to rebuild the mills in a substantial manner. Mr. Griswold is himself now en route from San Francisco, coming overland.

WHAT SHALL I TAKE? This is often a serious question with the invalid. He finds the market flooded with proprietary medicines, scores of which are recommended as certain cures for his peculiar ailment. He reads the papers, circulars, and almanacs, and finds each sustained by plausible arguments setting forth its virtues and specific action. The recommendations are as strong for one as for another. The cures claimed to have been wrought by one are as wonderful as those claimed to have been wrought by another. In his perplexity and doubt, the sufferer is sometimes led to reject all. But it should be borne in mind that this condition of things is one that cannot be remedied. In a land where all are free, the good—the truly valuable—must come into competition with the vile and worthless, and must be brought to public notice by the same instrumentality, which is advertising. In such a case, the only absolute proof that a remedy is what it claims to be, is to try it. "Prove all things, hold fast that which is good," is the apostolic injunction. There may, however, be stronger presumptive evidence in favor of one remedy than there is in favor of another, and this should be allowed its due weight. A due regard to this may save a vast amount of experimenting and a useless outlay of money. As presumptive evidence in favor of Dr. Pierce's Family Medicine, the Proprietor directs to say, that they are prepared by a new and scientific process by which the virtues of the crude plants and roots are extracted without the use of a particle of alcohol. Not a particle of this destroyer of our races enters into the composition of either his Golden Medical Discovery or Favorite Prescription. This consideration alone ought certainly to rank them high above the vile compounds saturated with alcohol, Jamaica beer, sour beer, or vinegar, which are everywhere offered for sale. Again, they are of uniform strength, and their virtues can never be impaired by age. They are also made from fresh herbs and roots, gathered in their appropriate season, when they are fresh with medicinal properties. In support of these claims, the following testimony is offered: R. V. PIERCE, M. D.: NEWARK, N. J.

Dear Sir,—I have sold a great deal of your excellent remedies, and I prefer to sell them before others, because they give good satisfaction to those who use them. I bear such remarks as "Sage's Remedy completely cured me; it is a splendid thing;" or, "Pierce's Discovery is just what I wanted; I feel better than I ever did." One of our celebrated singers uses it for strengthening her voice, and says "there is nothing equals it," and so I might give scores of remarks said about your preparations. A colored woman was using your Discovery, and after taking three bottles was completely cured. She, being in the store, said to me, "I don't want no doctors' round me no longer as I can get the Discovery; it beats all your doctors." And so I might go on.

I am, most respectfully yours, ATHA B. CROOKS.

Capt Parker's tug on the Coquille was launched on Saturday, April 29. She will be employed in connection with the new mill on the Coquille.

FRANK LESLIE, at his Mammoth Publishing House, 537 Pearl Street, New York, issues seventeen beautifully illustrated newspapers and magazines.

Mr. Leslie was the first in the United States to undertake the publication of a weekly illustrated newspaper, and to him belongs the honor of being the publisher of The Oldest Illustrated Newspaper in America. The person who secures the agency for these publications for this vicinity, and will give citizens an opportunity of inspecting the several issues and copies of the eight magnificent chromes the choice from which is given with a subscription to either of the illustrated weeklies. These papers are well known, and will send from 10 to 15 cents on newspapers, and are now sent offered through agents to annual subscribers, with a valuable chromo which, to all lovers of art, is alone worth more than the subscription price. An annual subscriber to the Illustrated Newspaper receives during the year over 532 newspaper pages. Filled to the size of a large octavo book, the subscriber would have 3,128 pages, equal to seven octavo books of ordinary size, say 450 pages each, and one-half of these pages would contain fine engravings, and for the centennial year will make the most accurate and valuable illustrations of the National Jubilee published. We advise our readers, after they have subscribed for the Chromo, to secure one of Frank Leslie's illustrated periodicals, and with it the best chromo.

TO HOUSEKEEPERS.—Among those who have used the household remedy, FOND'S EXTRACT, scarcely a family can be found in which it is not the rule to keep it constantly on hand. The one difficulty is that it is so valuable in relieving and curing in almost every accident a family is subjected to that the medicine is often exhausted when an urgent and sudden use for it arises. It is economical as to price, and important for the greater safety of having it when suddenly needed to buy the largest size at $1.75. This bottle contains five and one-half times as much as the 50c. size.
