

THE EUGENE CITY GUARD.

SAURDAY, SEPT. 2, 1870. EUGENE CITY, OREGON.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For President. SAMUEL J. TILDEN, Of New York. For Vice President, THOS. A. HENDRICKS, Of Indiana. For Congress: L. F. LANE, Of Douglas County. For Presidential Electors: HENRY KLIPPEL, of Jackson. E. A. CRONIN, of Multnomah. W. B. LASWELL, of Grant.

Can Hayes be Believed.

The case with which some men, otherwise truthful and of the most delicate sense of honor, turn over, in public matters, their conscience to the keeping of others, is remarkable. We have, in this country, become accustomed to the sight of men in high official positions, engaged in infamous and nefarious transactions, such as befitted only the thieves and scoundrels of the lowest order; but in these instances there is nothing abnormal, because these office-holders have been taken from the ranks of the low-minded and obscure, and the raising of them to positions of eminence and responsibility cannot alter their natures. Gov. Hayes is not a man of this class. We are willing to believe him personally a man who in the private concerns of life would conduct himself honorably and uprightly. Notwithstanding, the moment he enters upon the duties of a public office, every vestige of veracity vanishes. After having served two terms as Governor of Ohio, he declared his "inflexible purpose" of not again being a candidate for the place. Yet within twenty-four hours he was actively engaged with the plundering rings of the State, in securing his election and at the time of making known his determination, had actually in his pocket a letter accepting the nomination. During the first two terms he permitted to exist noxious combinations of politicians, whose sole purpose of association was the robbery of the citizens and the State treasury. In the course of his third term he has restored these rings, after their demolition by Gov. Allen, and to them he has made over that portion of plunder of which they had been deprived during Allen's administration. Neither in nor out of Congress has he uttered one word in condemnation of the worthless career of Grant and his administration. Yet he comes before the people as a candidate for the Presidency. Is it a wonder that the people have determined not to elect him?

Congress.

The session of Congress recently closed will ever be memorable in our country's history as one of the most remarkable that has ever been conducted. The work accomplished has been of the most important character, and in nearly every instance has the will of the people and the welfare of the nation been studied to such a degree as has been unknown since the days of the introduction of Grantism as an element of our political life. The responsibility for the acts that have been done rests with the Democratic party, for in every step in its progress of reform and retrenchment it has been met and virulently opposed by the Republican Senate and the power of the Executive. This responsibility it cheerfully accepts, and, with the confidence that is born of a sense of having done its duty, comes before the country and asks an enlargement of its powers. It is with a just and laudable pride that it points to the work it has performed, and says that this is but an earnest of what it will do, when the antagonistic elements which have neutralized many of its efforts are removed. The very life of the Administration party depends upon its ability to continue its course of peculation and infamy. By all the perjured misstatements, and all the malicious falsifications it can conceive, it will, therefore, with all the means of dissemination it commands, endeavor to deceive us with respect to the character of the work performed. The people, however, know them, and, knowing them, do not trust them. They can and will judge for themselves. They have judged already, and intend that the obstructive to reform shall be removed, and that it shall be carried forward with Tilden in the seat of authority, supported by both branches of the Legislature.

A MAN'S NAME.—The Hayes and Wheeler Press Association is getting excited over the utterances of Ed. Cowley, editor of the Cleveland Leader, to the effect that the Democratic party in Ohio is about to buy up all the Republican voters in the State and thus carry it for Tilden and Hendricks. It is calculated that a quarter of a million dollars will buy all except the Federal officeholders and a few persons who believe that the mission of the Republican party is not yet ended, and the money is to be furnished by the "Democratic clubs and local committees of New York and Philadelphia." That Leader man has for the last twenty years been going out of one spam into another for fear some democratic money would be spent to carry an election in Ohio. He is afflicted like that Western Congressman who wanted to be called home beyond the reach of temptation; he fears that he can't resist if they offer him a good round price. And after all, if this report be true, of which there is not the slightest probability, it is a decided improvement on the manner in which the Republicans carried the Presidential election four years ago, inasmuch as the money to buy the votes is not stolen out of the United States Treasury.

DO THE TAX-PAYERS of this country desire to continue in power a party which has spent in ten years $3,306,303,895—the exact figures as reported by the Secretary of the Treasury—or over three hundred and thirty millions a year to carry on the government? Suppose even the savings of this year, thirty millions, had been saved in each year, the aggregate sum, three hundred millions, represents only a small portion of the benefits the people would have realized from it.

ONLY ABOUT 9 PER CENT. of the expenses of 1875 has been saved by the reductions of a Democratic House, says the Oregonian. Granted. But even $30,879,000 saved lifts a great weight off the taxpayers of the country. If the House could, in the face of all the opposition which the Republican Senate and Executive could bring to bear upon it, make even that reduction from what was estimated, and that without in the slightest degree impairing the efficiency of the various departments, what will it not be able to accomplish when these antagonistic influences are removed?

GRANT, in his efforts to organize a decent and brilliant Cabinet, has overlooked one of the wisest financiers of the day. That Roseburg Plaindealer man would straighten the tangled finances of this country out in a "jiffy." He is about to go into the speculation of buying trade dollars for 90 cents each, coin, and shipping them to New York, where they sell for $1 05, currency. He expects to make enough on the first shipment to enable him to retire from the newspaper business at once.

BLAINE, the Maine B, played a remarkably fine trick about the time of the Cincinnati convention to enlist sympathy. The exposure of some of his rascalities was popularly supposed to have had such a beneficial effect that there was great probability that he would soon require the services of an undertaker, and for weeks the telegraph gave daily bulletins of the state of his health. All at once Mr. Blaine appears on the stump, and we are told that for the next sixty days his time will be entirely devoted to speech-making in behalf of the continuation of Grantism, which will be a noteworthy accomplishment for one just snatched from the jaws of the grave.

IT IS A FACT testified to by every person of integrity who has communication with the South, that whenever a State can manage to throw off the galling yoke which the Grant administration has put upon its shoulders, prosperity, peace and happiness take the place of the turmoils and disturbances which are bred of Republican influence, and incited by government demagogues. With Tilden as President, supported by an Administration which will utterly destroy corruption in our public places, this section of our land will again be enabled to resume its former place as a large contributor to the wealth and strength of the nation.

GETS A NOTICE.—Everybody in this locality knows "Jimmy O'Meara," and none will be surprised at this notice of him, in the San Francisco Examiner: James O'Meara, printer, orator and journalist, late of the Portland Bulletin, has accepted a position on the editorial staff of the San Francisco Chronicle. Mr. O'Meara is a gentleman of ability, and the Chronicle is to be congratulated on securing his services. But now that the Chronicle is so fortunate in the accession to its staff of this gentleman, we are surprised at noting no change in the tone of its articles. They are just as devoid of truth, as reckless in assertion, as material in conception, as ribald in rhetoric, as though there were not a gentleman or a scholar connected with the concern. Isn't it a pity that the money of a vulgarian can always command the brains of a man of genius, and cause their prostitution in a service he cannot but loathe?

We are in receipt of Vol. 1, No. 1, of a new paper established in San Francisco, called the Pacific Life. H. M. Arnam, Esq. is the publisher. The Pacific Life is a very neat and interesting sheet devoted to the "physical education" of mankind. Price $5 per annum.

POLITICAL NOTES.

According to the Milwaukee Times, ninety-nine out of every hundred Germans in Wisconsin will vote for Tilden and Hendricks.

The Michigan Tribune, a lively and influential journal published at Battle Creek, has been a Radical organ, but this year it comes out warmly for Tilden and Reform.

Among the public officers whom it is announced that President Grant is ready to remove, the Nashville American sees no mention of the name of General Babcock, who still holds the position of Superintendent of Government Buildings and Grounds in Washington.

Says the Lowell Courier: "The assertion that our Irish Democrats in large numbers will vote for General Butler, grossly slanders them. All their interests lie with Democracy and Reform. Tilden and Tarbox meet the requirements of the honest and patriotic man, and will secure their votes."

If you elect Tilden, Tilden will be the President, remarks the Syracuse Courier. If you elect Hayes, the Lord only knows who the President will be. It may be Conkling, or Morton, or Blaine, or old Simon Cameron, or even "Boss" Shepherd, or possibly a regeconomy composed of the whole gang. The people should take no chances in such a lottery.

Mr. Hayes' Chicago organ, the Inter-Ocean, says: "General Grant is soon to lay down his office and retire to the ranks of private life. He has been of great service to the nation, how much, an impartial posterity will judge, but enough we all know to place him high among the heroes and statesmen whom all true Americans delight to honor."

It is not necessary to impeach the Secretary of the Navy, remarks the St. Louis Republican. If it could be proven that the Cats placed a percentage of their contract profits into Senator Robinson's pockets, twenty-five grave and reverend Senators of the United States could be found to decide that the Senate has no jurisdiction over rascality perpetrated by a Cabinet officer.

Hancock and Hooker, the two great fighting generals of the war, are for Tilden and Hendricks. Dix and Garfield, two great soldiers of fortune, who stand convicted by a Report of a Radical Investigating Committee of a Radical Congress of taking Credit Mobilier, are for Hayes and Wheeler. Which two are "the boys in blue" most likely to follow in this campaign? asks the Rochester Union.

Blairford Wilson has finally stripped the covering from the Treasury skeleton, and the Chicago Times declares that a more startling, humiliating exhibit has never been put upon the head of a great nation since the scandalous excesses of the Georges drew down the scorn and execration of the English people. No man can read this history of the inside workings of the Government in the most momentous crisis of Grant's second term without inexpressible shame.

It is inexplicable in Radical quarters that the Democratic investigations at Washington have cost the country no less than $125,000 in fees, mileage, printing, etc. It is not unlikely that this is so. But look at the credit side of the ledger, and you will find that these Democratic investigations have saved the country more than the above sum multiplied by ten, to say nothing of the indefinite amounts that would have been stolen or squandered had the investigations never been instituted. The St. Louis Times alleges that all things considered, the country's investment in a Democratic Congress has been a paying one.

New York Sun: "We hear from every part of the State the most encouraging news concerning the strength of Gov. Tilden with all classes of citizens and men of all parties. The demand for reform, for the weeding out of Grantism from the Government, and for a higher tone in politics, is general, and the people understand full well that to secure these ends the only way is to elect Tilden; that with Hayes we should gain nothing, and make no reform headway. Tilden gains steadily the more mature people think on the needs of the time. He will roll up a rousing majority in New York."
