P.-Physician, Surgeon and Drugnatural powers of mind were cultivated by every advantage of education, and at twenty-five she was a woman of rare and remarkable fascination. At this time during a summer pleasure trip, she met the young Episcopal elergyman, and the two became engaged. The Rev. Mr. Bayley was at this period a strikingly handsome man, possessing qualities of heart and mind sure to endear him to the se with whom he was brought in contact. They were, indeed, a remarkable man and woman who met in that long past summer, and she, who had been indfferent to a hundred adorers listened with pleasure to the addresses of a man who felt that until now he had never met a fitting mate. But pow erful as love might be in an organizain a convent. This departure of one cloister produced a great sensation among the tashionable circles of that day, and when, after a brief period she, under circumstances of a peculiar romance, fled from the convent and returned to her friends, all sorts of specultion were set affoat. For a few years she had a life of retirement at her home in Litchfield, and then fell a victim to consumption and perhaps to a broken heart. Another granger case has been decided by the United States supreme court. The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad company were the plantiffs in error, and they contested constitutionality of the railroad law of Iowa. The decision is against the company. It affirms the right of the State to fix freight and passenger rates, unless prevented by the terms of the charter. Thus the general that the several States can, if they will, exercise complete sovereignty over the railroads within their respective jurisdictions, and prescribe what shall or shall not be charged.
