EDITOR GUARD—Since my last to you nothing of importance has transpired. The Greenback question has been fully discussed and the most of us will probably pass it by the reason is that we are all silver men, at least until the "Mountain Queen" ledge is tested.

Messrs. Cleaver, Worthly, and Moon, who have been on a prospecting tour for several days on the upper waters of Mohawk and Mill Creek, have just returned and bring flattering prospects for something rich in that vicinity. They did not succeed in finding any free gold but discovered several quartz any free gold but discovered several quartz ledges that bid fiair, judging from the crop-pings, to contain a large per cent. of silver, one especially which they named the "North Star" ledge, upon which they located claims to hold for future development. The rock has generally an ashy appearance, very soft and heavy. This ledge is situated in a high altitude, and is almost inaccessable to pedestrains; further prospecting on it will be resumed soon and at an early date I will give to the readers of the Guard, and community through your columns more minute details of late discoveries.

Mr. Jorden, who has charge of the work to test the "Mountain Queen" ledge, is pushing ahead the work fast as any man could, considering the rock through which he has to go.
