CITY AND COUNTY.

BRIEF MENTION.

The Firemen have been improving this week in the way of white-washing the truck house.
On Friday evening, Aug. 23d, Bishop Morris will preach at St. Mary's (Episcopal) Church.
S. B. Eakin, Jr., is erecting a neat residence on his lot opposite A. S. Patterson's dwelling.
Mr. S. A. Ogden has our thanks for a fine lot of "roasting ears" brought in the fore part of last week.

There will be no services or Sabbath school at the Baptist church next Lord's Day, on account of repairs being done.

You want to patronize home industry by calling on Crouch & Brown for castings, etc. See their ad elsewhere in this issue.

The Lane County Mercantile Association have just completed a very neat store room on Eight street, back of their store.

Daniel W. Reed started from Boston on the 12th inst., to walk to San Francisco. He expects to reach there in about 150 days.

If you want a first-class washing machine, call on H. G. Davenport, who is agent for the Northwest Grainger. See his ad in another column.

S. H. Friendly started to San Francisco yesterday. He will be back again in two weeks with the nobbiest stock of goods ever brought to town.

If you want to see something nobby, just go to Hodess' new house. If you are a temperance man you can get a glass of soda, and it is worth a bit to see the inside of his house.

Divine worship will be conducted in the M. E. Church of this city to-morrow morning and evening by the pastor. Subject, morning, "God Declared by His Son," evening, "Wickedness of the heart."

If you want the best sewing machine in the market, call upon Billy Killingsworth at the Star Bakery and buy one of Wilson's No. 8. It will sew anything from sole-leather to the thinnest fabric manufactured. If you don't believe our "jaw" go, and see for yourselves.

The Pretty Primrose scotchichie by Owen, is the most bewitching piece of dance music imaginable. The melody of Pansy's song, "Welcome pretty Primrose," is introduced; and, as the arrangement is very good, the piece will undoubtedly become all the rage. The price of the piece is 25 cents, which can be had of Sherman, Hyde & Co.

T. G. Hendricks, Esq., a member of the Board of Regents of the State University, laid upon our table this week a pamphlet containing the address of Judge Dealy, President of the Board of Regents, a poem by T. J. Chesler, and a list of the graduating class. Also a pamphlet containing a list of the faculty, students, text books, course of study, etc., during last session.

A young man named David Bradford was shot and killed at Umatilla on Saturday evening last by a rough character named John Knott. There was a quarrel among several men who were drinking. Knott knocked Bradford down. The latter obtained a revolver but was too drunk to use it with effect. A friend of Knott's handed him a pistol, when he fired on Bradford with fatal effect. Knott was caught after a chase of twelve miles into the country.

For the last six months we have been saving all the "poems" and "essays" we have received from different ones until we now have about a wash-tub full. We want to get just three hundred and ten yards more in the next four weeks and then we will publish a "poetical edition." We want all poetically inclined individuals to put in all their spare time for the next month, for after that time we propose to give all our "contributors" a rest for at least six months, anyhow.

THE GARD office turned out, from editor to devil, last Tuesday afternoon, to see a last at the foundry of Messrs. Crouch & Brown. The castings were all small, but were perfect. This firm has commenced a business which will supply a want long felt by the farmers of Lane county. They are prepared to fill all orders for the repair of farm machinery immediately, and it is not necessary now for farmers to send to Portland or Salem for the repair of machinery. We cheerfully recommend the enterprising young man to the patronage of the people of Lane county, and will vouch for the honesty of their work and business contracts.

THANKS.—Mr. M. F. Walker tenders thanks to the members of the Eugene Hook & Laddar Co. and to the other citizens who responded promptly to the alarm of fire on the 9th inst., and by their efforts saved his property from the flames.

EQUINE.—Uncle Billy Osburn has, in addition to the drug business, gone into the horse trade. Tuesday he paid \$50 to boot in a horse trade, and if Bill Hill hadn't come and claimed the horse there would have been money in it. As it is, Uncle Billy is out \$7 68 $\frac{1}{2}$.

BACK AGAIN.—Johnnie Hansen, who, for the past ten months has been working at his trade (tailor) with R. J. Graham in Albany, returned to this place last Wednesday, and bought a N. Baker's shop adjoining Frank Harrington. Johnnie informs us that he will go below next Monday to lay in a stock of new goods.

NOR MECCA.—The spiritual bill threw his flag to the breeze here last Tuesday evening. The "ow country" are not his best bolt as he is probably aware of now. We referred him to Geo. Lawson and Mother Dunaway. And, "by the way," Eugene is about the slowest and least remunerative place for one-horse shows on the coast, but if there is an able-bodied showman loafing around the country in search of a quarter, we will give him a dollar-and-a-half a day, and board, to "pick-straw."

Council Proceedings.

COUNCIL ROOMS,
EUGENE CITY, August 12, 1878.
Council met pursuant to ordinance.
Present—President Dorris; Councilmen Hendricks, Edris, Dunn, Sloan and Underwood, and Recorder Alexander.
Absent—Councilman Cooper and Marshal Farrell.

The Finance Committee reported favorably upon the following bills, except the bill of P. H. Farrell, which, on motion, was curtailed $4.00 as per report of Finance Committee, to-wit:

On motion, the City Warden was instructed to examine all the dogs within the city limits, and report any defective ones, and to whom they belong, to the Committee on Fire and Water, within one week from this date.

On motion, it was ordered that the property-holders on the south side of Eighth street, from Willamette to the alley between Willamette and Olive be required to build an 8-foot side-walk—the sills to be 4 inches square and the lumber to be 2 inches thick, and from the said alley west to Olive street, the walk shall be 6 feet wide and the sills four inches square.

On motion, the property-holders on Fifth street were required to gravel the street in front of their respective premises within the city limits.

On motion, the Committees on Fire and Water were instructed to immediately take steps to prepare a suitable place to store the city oil.

On motion, the Recorder was instructed to draw a warrant on the Treasurer in favor of Louis Behrens for watering trees in public grounds, for the sum of $27.68; and to present the bill for the same to the County Court at their next meeting for reimbursement.

The special committee appointed to specify the kind of fence to be built in accordance with the contract made with the county, made the following report:

EUGENE, Aug. 12, 1878,
TO THE HON. CITY COUNCIL:

Your committee to whom was referred the matter of arranging for the style of fence around the public square in front of the property leased from the county of Lane and the City Council jointly, would respectfully report and recommend that the fence be constructed as follows, to-wit: The fence shall be six feet high of planed boards six inches wide, set perpendicular, with space on one side, four inches wide, and face three inches wide, projection to be one inch on front, all planed and painted. Further, posts shall be set not over eight feet a part, of good cedar. Putting in of two coats good white lead and oil. Further, that it shall be the duty of the Street Commissioner to superintend the work and see that the fence, when built, shall be uniform in style height and general construction. Provided however, that where parties wishing to build one story buildings, the Street Commissioner may allow the front of said buildings to become a part of the fence specified above. Side walk shall be six feet wide, built of two inch lumber, with sleepers, (three in number) four by four inches square; and further, that all persons desiring to avail themselves of the benefit of the lease referred to, shall comply with the requirements of this Council on or before October 1st, 1878.

J. B. UNDERWOOD,
T. G. HENDRICKS,
Committee.

On motion, the ordinance in regard to peddler's license was so modified that the Recorder was authorized to issue license to peddlers or itinerant vendors at $6 per week or $20 per quarter.

The following bills were presented, and on motion, referred to the Finance Committee: J. W. Christian, $4; T. G. Hendricks, $62.61; B. F. Dorris, $3.75; S. A. Ogden, $13; Sterling Hill, $4; P. H. Farrell, $29; J. B. Underwood, $7.15.

On motion, Council adjourned.

TRAMPS.—Says the Statesman: The boldest event in the tramp line recently, was the way three covies came from Portland on Charley Wilson's freight train last Wednesday. At Portland they lay some means ascertained that a certain car loaded with miscellaneous freight would come through to Salem without being unlocked. Securing themselves in the car they were locked in. Upon arriving at Salem and everything being still they filed off the clenched ends of the staple that holds the clasp, driving the staple through and liberating themselves. They were seen getting out of the car by a person who informed Mr. Skinner of the fact and upon examining the car ascertained their mode of escape as above described." It is very likely that they are the three bummers that have been laying around this city for a day or two past, as they came near the same way. They sleep in stables and other out-houses and beg their meals wherever they can get them, or stop citizens on the street and beg them for "two bits to get a meal with." One of them got us for breakfast money yesterday morning, before we knew which one of the boys he was, saying he was hunting work and was broke and hungry. They are all young, able-bodied men, and whenever they enter anyone's premises ought to be introduced to a bulldog or an old shot gun filled with shingle nails.

ARRESTED AND ESCAPED.—The Indian that recently shot at Sheriff Eakin near this place was arrested at Gervais last Tuesday by officer P. K. Murphy. It is supposed that he has a horse and gun secreted in the woods near by, as he passed Brooks with those articles. After being arrested he made his escape, but was recaptured after a long chase. He was again incarcerated but succeeded in burning a hole through the walls of the calaboose and again giving the officers the slip, since which time he has not been retaken.

DIED.
At Martin's, on the McKenzie, August 10, Maggie daughter of D. C. and Sarah Underwood of this city, aged sixteen months.

The parents had started with others to the Bethesda Springs on Monday previous, but on arriving at Martin's, the child was taken very sick. She lingered till Saturday night, when death relieved her suffering. The remains were brought to this city and buried on Monday last.

A Religious Colony.

"As far back as 1866, says the Walla Walla Statesman, a religious colony was founded at the foot of the mountains, distant about nine miles from Walla Walla, of which, up to the present time but little is known by our citizens. The founder of the colony is W. W. Davies, a pleasant gentleman, who is well-known to many of our business men; and whose word in matters of trade will go as far as that of any man in the country. At the date of their arrival the colony seemed to be poor; but they settled down on a small piece of land obtained by purchase; and by steady, untiring industry they have grown rich, or are at least in comfortable circumstances. The houses are built in a cluster; some of them of brick, and all of them neat and tidy in appearance. The women and children are all scrupulously clean, and seen anywhere they would be taken as representatives of the better class. About the women and girls, of whom there is a goodly number, we noticed nothing peculiar. The men and boys are all distinguished by wearing their hair long."

Mr. Davies, the founder of the colony, and head of the religious organization, is a man of personal appearance, an Englishman by birth, aged forty-five years, and, as stated above, is an excellent business manager. All the labor of the colony seems to be under his direction, and an air of scrupulous neatness everywhere prevails. The farming arrangements are on an extensive scale, and all of the latest and most improved agricultural machinery is brought into use. Ample sheds are provided for the cattle, and even the hay is kept under roof. "Order is heaven's first law," and order is the rule that governs the little colony that nestles at the foot of the mountains. As far as possible this organization is self-supporting. Bread and meat they produce in abundance, and of wheat and oats they raise a large surplus. An extensive field of sugar-cane attracted our attention, and next the machinery by which the cane is manufactured into sugar and molasses. The hemp plant is cultivated quite extensively, and from it they manufacture all the rope and cordage required on the place. They also raise huckleberries, and during the winter season, many of the young men are employed in making brooms. They have no idlers in the camp, all being employed in some useful industry.

A feature of the settlement, and the one that more especially led to our visit, is a printing office, owned by Mr. Davies, and occupied exclusively in printing tracts, hymns, and other matter in which Mr. Davies sets forth his peculiar religious views. He is not a printer, but his printing office is operated at a style that would put to shame very many professional printers. The room is well lighted, the stands neatly arranged, and the presses bright and clean, just as they came from the foundry. All the work in the printing office is done by Mr. Davies' three sons, bright intelligent boys, the eldest over 15 years of age. Without previous training under a practical printer, these boys set type correctly, and "space" their lines with a regularity that would put to shame the "blacksmiths" that infest country printing offices. Our visit was made in company with Mr. Samuel Robinson, of San Francisco, Mr. Charles Russell, who although not a printer, visited the colony for the first time, and Mr. Tom Tierney, who had out one of his crack teams, and put us over the road in fine style. After a general inspection of the premises, the party was summoned to an elegant repast, and what with the drive up the pure air of the mountains, we were in excellent condition for the visit to the colony for the first time. We have been omitted to say that the men of the community were busy harvesting the crop, and that the hum of the header and the rust and crash of the threshing machine was constantly dinning in our ears. After dinner was over, the writer in company with Mr. Davies, took a ride in the header wagon, his first experience in that kind of work, and a general look at the farm, the party bade Mr. Davies and his hospitable lady "Good-bye," and started for home well satisfied with their trip and most favorably impressed with the character and general appearance of the settlement.

In conclusion it is proper to correct an impression that has been affixed to the visit of the Mormons. This is a mistake. At one time they lived in a remote quarter of Utah, where they were persecuted by the Mormons, and inhumanly treated. They then removed to Montana territory, but not liking that country, they finally found their way to Walla Walla valley, where they have prospered and grown wealthy. Settlers in that part of the valley speak of them as good citizens, and say that when occasion requires, they are always ready to lend a helping hand. One article of their creed is to help the needy, and the destitute are always hospitably received and kindly entertained. Of the peculiar religious views of these people we know but little, and if the reader desires information on that score, he must seek elsewhere. A religion that makes the relief of the poor and distressed one of its first conditions starts out well; and whether it is destined to take the place of older creeds, is a question not necessary to be considered. Nestled far up in the mountains the members of the community live a pleasant life, and are enjoying a degree of prosperity that brings with it a feeling of contentment that fully realises the ideal of rural felicity.

A Double Murder.

The Standard learns that on Wednesday evening last one of the most horrible affrays took place in Roseburg, that we have been called to chronicle for many months and we sincerely hope it will be many more before again performing such a task. Living in Roseburg, was a respected citizen named Woodworth, who had reared up a handsome family of children to their majority, a portion of whom were married and believed. One of the daughters some time since was married to a young man named Dilley and started on their journey through life under the most favorable circumstances. Everything went well for a time until by some means disension crossed the threshold and the young wife returned to her father's home. The husband became enraged against his father-in-law and brother-in-law, blaming them with having induced his wife to leave him. The trouble grew space with the lapse of time until the final tragedy occurred on the streets of Roseburg at 7:30 o'clock on Wednesday evening. So many different accounts of the meeting and who was the first to commence the trouble, that our informant, who arrived on the spot a few moments after its occurrence, could not give the exact facts. It seems by the most authentic witnesses, that the men met and Dilley charged Woodworth in a very profane and abusive manner, both men falling at about the same instant. A large crowd soon gathered at the scene and the wounded men carried to their homes. Dilley lived but half an hour, and two hours afterward the spirit of Woodworth followed across that trackless deep which rolls beneath life and eternity. The entire community is throbbing with sympathy over this terrible result of a family misunderstanding.

Overtasking the Energies.

It is not advisable for any of us to overtask our energies, corporeal or mental, but in the eager pursuit of wealth or fame or knowledge, how many transgress this salutary rule. It must be a matter of great importance to all who do so to know how they can regain the vigor so recklessly expended. The remedy is neither costly or difficult to obtain. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is procurable in every city, town and settlement in America, and it compensates for a drain of bodily or mental energy more effectively than any invigorant ever prescribed or advertised. Laboring men, athletes, students, journalists, lawyers, clergymen, physicians, all bear testimony to its wondrously renovating powers. It increases the capabilities for undergoing fatigue, and counteracts the injurious effects upon the system of exposure, sedentary habits, unhealthy or unwary avocations, or an insubstantial breakfast, and is a prime alterative, diuretic and blood purifier.

To all suffering from the following diseases a ray of hope is offered through the kindness of a missionary friend who has sent me the formula of a purely vegetable medicine which has long been used by the native medicine men of Hindostan;—for the positive and radical cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Dyspepsia, Throat and Lung difficulty, General Debility, Loss of Manhood, and all Nervous Affections. Its power has been tested in hundreds of cases without a failure. I now feel it my sacred duty as far as possible to relieve human misery and will send the recipe—FREE OF CHARGE—to any person who may desire it with directions for using. IS THE WHOLE HISTORY OF MEDICINE, no preparation has ever performed such marvelous cures, or maintained so wide a reputation, as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, which is recognized as the world's remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs. Its long-continued series of wonderful cures in all climates has made it universally known as a safe and reliable agent to the employment. Against ordinary colds, which are the forerunners of more serious disorders, it acts speedily and surely, always relieving suffering, and often saving life. The protection it affords, by its timely use, in the throat and lung disease of children, makes it an invaluable remedy to be kept always on hand in every home. No person can afford to be without it, and those who have once used it never will. From their knowledge of its composition and effects, Physicians use the CHERRY PECTORAL extensively in their practice, and Clergymen recommend it. It is absolutely certain in its remedial effects, and will always cure where cures are possible. For sale by all dealers.
