

THE EUGENE CITY GUARD.

EUGENE CITY, OREGON. SATURDAY, SEPT. 21, 1878.

BUSINESS.—Matters of a personal character charged for at regular advertising rates, to be paid invariably in advance.

THE SENATOR.

Last Tuesday at noon the Legislature, in accordance with the requirement of the Constitution, proceeded to ballot for United States Senator, James H. Slater, of Union county, was elected on the first ballot. We presume that "Eastern Oregon," the hub and running-gears of the Pacific Coast, is supremely happy, except McComas and Shep. Well, it is some consolation to know that their noses are knocked out of joint, and consequently we are happy too, although we never bankered after Slater since he and O'Meara planned to defeat the Democratic ticket in 1858.

THE INDIAN SITUATION.

Gen. Howard has for some weeks been collecting bands of surrendering Indians at McDermitt, says the Oregonian, and the whole of them numbering in the aggregate nearly one thousand, are now being transferred to Camp Harney. They are held as prisoners of war to await the pleasure of the government. It should be almost unnecessary to say that these Indians ought by all means be transferred to some distant locality. The country is now cleared of all bands of Putes which have been engaged in hostilities. Remove these Indians, now prisoners, and the whole of southeastern Oregon and the adjacent parts of Nevada and Idaho will forever remain undisturbed. The Malheur reservation should be given up. If the Indians heretofore belonging to that reservation be sent back, nothing can keep them there; they will start off again on a raiding expedition whenever they feel disposed, and there will be a repetition of the scenes of past summer throughout all the surrounding country. It is absolutely necessary for safety that they be removed to some distant place as the Modocs were; and now that the whole of them are prisoners, the job will be an easy one and should be done at once. We are advised that Gen. Howard has recommended that they be taken to the Indian territory or some other distant locality, and it may be hoped that his recommendation will have weight with the authorities at Washington. It should be seconded by our representatives in congress. We call attention to the desirability of such thorough action as will assure the country that we have had the last of this trouble.

RAVAGES OF THE FLAMES.

The principal work being done by farmers in many localities just at present, is fighting fire. Reports come to us that much damage has been done and considerable stock destroyed. There is a big fire raging in the vicinity of the Willamina, in Yamhill, and it is supposed that a great many sheep have been burned thereby. We are informed that M. Langley, living in that vicinity, had a band of 1,300 sheep, and out of that number he can only find 120 head, and it is supposed that the remainder have perished by the flames. Another man in the same neighborhood had a band of 750 and he can only find 55 head. On Monday evening about 7 o'clock, just after Mr. George Snipes had finished his day's work of threshing, on Mr. George Smith's place, across the river from the Dalles, a fire was kindled by the machinery, caused by the oil can that feeds the cylinder becoming dry or stopped up, which resulted in the boxing getting so hot as to set the grain on fire, and in less than two minutes the stack was on fire. The losses, as far as known, are as follows: George Smith lost about 1,000 bushels of grain and about $300 worth of hay and straw. George Snipes his new ten horse power separator, of about $550 value. J. B. Dickerson one stack of hay and Geo. Rowland two stacks of hay.—Standard.

Senator McDonald says that the Greenback movement in Indiana is no stronger than it was two years ago. In some sections of the State it has grown stronger and in others it has diminished. There is a bare possibility that if the State Legislature in close the Nationals may hold the balance of power, and in that event the choice of the Legislature for United States Senator might be the selection of a man not booked on the slates of either the Democratic or Republican parties.

New Indian Reservation.

General Howard returned to Walla Walla, says the Statesman, Monday last, from his visit to Moses. He reported a satisfactory interview with the great Indian chief, and says that if the president approves his act in setting aside a reservation for Moses and his people, no danger in the future need be apprehended from that quarter.

In the course of his speech Moses stated that he requested land of the government, and the land he would like, and if given him and his people he would remain there forever. He was always a friend to the whites, but he had been badly misrepresented by his enemies. It would add to his strength if the authorities at Washington would give him the reservation he now chose. All northern Indians would join him. He is their recognized chief, and his followers, as allies of the government, would prevent further trouble in his country. It was not his Indians who killed Perkins' family, but two Palouse Indians. Hemely, chief of the Umatillas, said his people would join with Moses and be as before—firm friends to the whites.

Howard said he would forward their request to the great father in Washington for a reserve, and referring to the murder of the Perkins family, said he wanted those murderers given up. He called on Moses and his men, the Umatillas and all others, to help find the murderers and deliver them to justice. They must be punished for the crime. The council passed off harmoniously, and the Indians appeared well satisfied with the result. They renewed assurances of friendship.

The boundaries of the proposed reservation are set forth in the following paper, which has received the official endorsement of Gen. Howard, and has been forwarded to the president for his approval:

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.—All persons are hereby notified not to take up land in the following limits, till the pleasure of the President shall be made known, as to whether or not he shall grant the request of the Columbia Indians, that it be set apart as an Indian Reservation—this prohibition to commence with this date, viz: the 9th day of September, 1878:

BOUNDARIES AS FOLLOWS:—From the extreme eastern point on Columbia river at White Bluffs; running northeasterly in direct line to mouth of Spokane river; thence, crossing the Columbia river, along right bank of said river eight miles; from this point along the ridges westerly, parallel with the Columbia river and distant twelve miles, to the crest of Battlemans range; thence in direct line to Yakima falls (about fifteen miles from said river); thence following the Yakima river to its mouth; thence following the Columbia river northward to place of beginning.

O. O. HOWARD, Brigadier-General, Commanding Department. Persons who are familiar with the country included within the above-described boundaries, inform us that there is very little land suitable for cultivation, but that it is the best grazing district on that side of the river. Gen. Howard informs us that the settlers within the limits number five, all told, and that their rights can be extinguished for a trilling sum. It is highly desirable to have the Indian difficulty adjusted, but we doubt whether our people will favor the setting aside of so much land as is proposed as an Indian Reservation. If Washington is ever to become a state, it is necessary to keep these lands open for settlement, and any arrangement by which settlers are excluded must of necessity retard the growth and development of the country.

One J. K. Mercer, a hanger-on and scullion of a disreputable sheet at Portland (the Bee) shot and probably mortally wounded A. C. McDonald, of the Telegram, on Thursday evening. The Bee has been in the habit of indulging in wholesale vilification of everybody outside of the Custom House ring, hence the origin of the quarrel.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat comments as follows on a recent speech of Kearny at St. Louis: Kearny's advice to the workmen to "pool their issues" was followed last evening by an invitation to pool their spare change to pay him for their baldersdash. The people who set him down for a fool are in error. He never made money so fast or so easily in his life, and he knows it. He has struck a big bonanza in the credulity of the people whom he undertakes to steer into politics, and he proposes to make it pay.

Bull-dozing and the like may have had a good deal to do with breaking up the Republican party in Florida and other Southern States, remarks the Philadelphia Telegraph, but the bad character and bad behavior of the adventurers from the North who undertook to run the party machinery in their own interest had a good deal more. As for Mr. Conover, he will be no loss to either the Senate or the House, and the Republican party, as a national organization, will gain rather than lose by his retirement to the shades of private life.

Mr. Everts has bound his political fortunes up with those of Hayes. To suppose that the Empire State will send anybody tarred with that stick to the Senate is preposterous. Mr. Everts may continue to be talked about sometimes, but he will never be voted for, the New York Sun avers.

A girl in Trenton, N. J., married a Hungarian nobleman, and now she has to take in washing six days in the week, instead of two, as formerly, in order to support her new title with sufficient style. Promotion in the social scale always brings increased responsibilities with it.—Ex.

Forest Fires.

Capt. Love of the Steamboat Calliope gives the following particulars of a terrible fire which is now raging in timber on the north side of the Columbia river: The fire is supposed to have started from the ranches of Joseph Durgins, which is located near the foot of Cape Horn mountain. Some person, it is thought, started the fire by burning some brush he had on his place. It soon passed beyond control, and reaching the timber and undergrowth began its destructive march down the river, traveling westward. At this season of the year the whole country is covered with dry fern and brush like tinder. The fire is thus communicated to the smallest under brush and in a short time the whole woods are in flames.

The fire started some time during Monday, and up to yesterday morning had traveled a distance of eight miles, leaving a broad track of ruin behind. The fire was first seen at Parker's landing, on the Columbia, Monday evening. Opposite that point the fires was about three miles wide. For that distance the woods was a mass of flames.

The residence at Parker's Landing were fearful that the fire would sweep them in and all of them sat up during Monday night and watched. The steamer Calliope, which was lying there, kept up steam most of the night so as to be in readiness in case of an emergency. However the fire did not reach that place, although it came within 100 yards of where the steamer were moored.

The places of Peter Stion and Wm. Stoops were reported to have been destroyed; also a great deal of fencing, grain and wood. The fire, it was said, was coming down the Washington river, burning everything in its course, and that the people had assembled in numbers to fight it back, and if possible, save the new city bridge across that stream.

Heavy fires are reported to be raging in the vicinity of Fisher's Landing, and the roads leading to that part are blocked. The places belonging to Mrs. Fletcher and Mr. Pierce are said to have been destroyed. It is quite probable that Capt. Love's place has shared a similar fate. One man has lost 700 cords of wood and how much more has been destroyed it is at present impossible to determine.

A man named James Parker left Parker's Landing on hearing that the fire was near his ranch, to give it a tussle. He was surrounded by fire and had a narrow escape, coming back to that place with his face badly burned.

Capt. Love says that when he left Parker's Landing Tuesday morning the place was surrounded and that farmers were not able to reach the river.

At present it is possible to determine the loss sustained, but it is safe to say that it must aggregate a large sum. The wind blowing a strong gale, the fire travels with great rapidity. When the Calliope left the landing toward Mill Plain, and it was greatly feared that it would reach that section. Should it reach there the destruction of property would be great. Everything is dry and there are a great many stubble fields and the fire would sweep the country like a fiery whirlwind. The people in that section are alarmed at the threatening danger and well they may be, for there is no telling where the fire will stop. The smoke for miles up and down the Columbia is very dense, as one of the men on the boat declares, "it is enough to burn with a knife."—Telegram.

The Detroit News says: So far as we have been enabled to observe, the National party seems everywhere to have derived its strength from secessions from the ranks of the party in power. Minorities hang together for defensive purposes; the successful masses split because there is never enough in the political pot to reward all that think they have a claim upon the spoils.

Some of the papers are criticising Gen. Logan's grammar. This, the Washington Post avers, is not quite fair, since the General's great vehemence of utterance fully atones for any inaccuracies in orthography, etymology, syntax and prosody. We may criticise the tone of a flute, but forego carping when the voice of a tornado bursts on our ears.

The Springfield Republican says: To assume that the American people are going back to Grant in 1880 is simply a good natured assumption that the American nation are fools and have but one man to rule them, and him one who was cast aside with alacrity after a trial of eight years, which resulted in the overthrow of his party.

Mr. Charles Foster officially states that Secretary Sherman contributed a hundred dollars to the Republican campaign fund. The salary of the President is more than six times greater than Sherman's, but the President hasn't yet come down with anything, and the country has about concluded not to work up any more enthusiasm on Mr. Hayes' promise.

Dentist, to old lady about purchasing some false teeth: "For mastication, my dear madam, t. y. can only be surpassed by nature herself." Old lady: "Oh, laws, doctor! I don't care nothing about mastication if I can only chew with 'em."

INDIANS ON THEIR DIGNITY.—The Arizona Miner publishes a letter from the Little Colorado, in which it is stated that Col. Swain and two companies of the Fort Defiance, from Fort Wingate, on the 10th instant, to be present at the annual issuance of supplies to the Navajo Indians, and to represent the dignity and power of the government. But no sooner had the Quixotic Colonel and his command put in an appearance where the Indians were, than the latter went into council and, when the closed doors of their executive session were opened, a delegation issued forth and proceeded direct to the Colonel and notified him he had just twenty minutes to retire with the "niggers," or the Indians would arrest them and put them in the guard-house.

The Stepping Stone to Health. The acquisition of vital energy is the stepping stone to health. When the system lacks vitality, the various organs flag in their duty, become chronically irregular, and disease is eventually instituted. To prevent this unhappy state of things, the debilitated system should be built up by the use of that infallible tonic, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which invigorates the digestive organs, and insures a thorough conversion of food into blood of a nourishing quality, from whence every muscle, nerve and fiber acquire unwonted supplies of vigor, and the whole system experiences the beneficial effect. Appetite returns, the system is refreshed by healthful slumber, the nerves grow strong and calm, the despondency begetten of chronic indigestion and an uncertain state of health disappears, and that sallow appearance of the skin peculiar to habitual invalids, and persons deficient in vital energy, is replaced by a more becoming tinge.

IN THE WHOLE HISTORY OF MEDICINE, no preparation has ever performed such marvelous cures, or maintained so wide a reputation, as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, which is recognized as the world's remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs. Its continued series of wonderful cures in all climes, combined with its universal known as a safe and reliable agent to employ. Against ordinary colds, which are the forerunners of more serious disorders, it acts speedily and surely, always relieving suffering, and often saving life. The protection it affords, by its timely use in the throat and lung disorders of children, makes it an invaluable remedy to be kept always on hand in every home. No person can afford to be without it, and those who have once used it never will. From their knowledge of its composition and effects, Physicians use the CHERRY PECTORAL extensively in their practice, and Chemists recommend it. It is absolutely certain in its remedial effects, and will always cure where cures are possible. For sale by all dealers.
