

THE EUGENE CITY GUARD.

EUGENE CITY, OREGON.
SATURDAY, APRIL 26, 1879.

"A Protest."

The Mercury has entered a sensible protest against the wholesale exercise of the pardoning power. From September 23d till March 14, 46 "pardons, remissions, and commutations" were granted by Gov. Thayer. The prisons gates have been opened, and out of its portals 46 convicts, or about one fourth of its inmates, have in the brief space of six month been turned loose to again prey upon the community. Hardly have some of them cast off their prison habiliments, and stepped forth to freedom, ere the clutches of the officers are fastened upon them, and they are arraigned for the perpetration of crimes most foul. It is said that this enormous reduction of the penitentiary inmates has been made with the view of curtailing the expenses of the institution, and to make it in a measure self supporting. The convicts that were dangerous or troublesome, and refused to labor, the infirm whose physical powers were deficient, and the sick have been the cases upon which executive clemency has been principally bestowed. This is false economy; after the trials of these men have cost the state thousands of dollars, and their confinement secured, the Superintendent finds them unproductive, and their release is necessitated because the penitentiary must be run on an economical basis. If economy is the Mecca towards which all management of the penitentiary must turn, the Governor should use his influence with the courts of justice to turn the tide that ceaselessly flows into that institution. If economy must be the object then exercise it at the fountain head and the Governor will be relieved of the laborous work of writing pardons, and the people will escape the costs.

The actions of Gov. Grover in these premises in comparison with the present incumbent, are striking and suggestive. They are convincing that no thought of popularity actuated him in his exercise of his pardoning prerogative. During the two years ending Sept. 1st, 1876, only sixteen pardons were granted by Gov. Grover, and of these five were to boys under age, who were released on the responsible parties to secure them homes. With these facts before us we shall not be surprised if the new administration proclaims with flourish of trumpets, that the expenses of the penitentiary have been reduced, and if the Governor continues to indulge his propensities in this direction, the state can well dispense with that corrective institution, the penitentiary.

Removed.

Harrison Kincaid, who for a number of years past has held a clerkship in the Senate under Governor Ham, has been removed, and Henry H. Gilfrey appointed in his place. The Statesman undertakes to advise Mr. Gilfrey to refuse the appointment on account of the inadequate compensation. As the position, with its emoluments, pay only about $2500 per year, we can but commend the spirit of Bro. Odell in wishing to save Mr. Gilfrey, and to continue to sacrifice Mr. Kincaid in the performance of his laborious duties. The officers of the senate however have concluded that Mr. Kincaid should no longer be compelled to bear the burdens, that he has been wont to carry with the fortitude, and resignation worthy of a Roman. We extend our large and sympathetic to the editor of the Statesman, in view of the great affliction that will fall upon us when "Our Washington correspondence" no longer appears.

The Washington Post says: There is something like retributive justice in the demand for Grant to "rebuild the Republican party." As the organization was torn down under his Administration, it would seem only fair, if it is to be put up again, that its demolisher should do the work. It has not yet occurred to the Republican leaders that an able destroyer may not prove a successful reconstructor, but it will in time. It will be then, however, everlastingly too late.

Congressman Whiteaker has been made chairman of the committee on Revolutionary claims, and given a place on the committee on Indian affairs.

For Rent.—Two rooms suitable for a store, upstairs in Underwood's brick. Apply at Express office.

More than Roman Gravity.

The New York Nation contributes its quota to the refreshment of Republican recollection on the subject of coercive legislation in appropriation Bills by publishing the following:

In 1867 Congress inserted in the Army Appropriation Bill a section prohibiting the President of the United States from issuing any order to any officer of the army except through the General of the Army at his headquarters in Washington, prohibiting any officer inferior to the General from obeying any order of the President not transmitted through that channel, under penalty of imprisonment not less than two or more than twenty years. A bolder attempt to usurp the constitutional functions of the Executive could hardly be conceived. Yet it was successfully carried out. President Johnson signed the bill under protest two days before the expiration of the session, "lost by withholding his signature the necessary appropriations be defeated. The strikers of whom are still in the Senate, ought to preserve more than Roman gravity when the question of repealing the Federal Election Law comes on.

Hard to Please.

When the southern Senators left the capital at Washington the Republicans were frantic in the indignation. Their rage that the southern members had left was never exceeded, or nearly equaled since, until the southern senators returned. Somehow the southerners cannot please their northern brethren, no matter what they do. In this connection the remarks of Senator Hill, in the debate over the election of officers of the senate referred to, made an apt and practical illustration of the situation, and quite a prophetic move of the "previous question." In concluding his address Senator Hill said: "The senator from New York has informed the body that when he came here these seats were occupied by the southern senators. I think we have heard this before. He also informs us that these seats are now filled by southern men. I think we know that already. We return to them, and like revolutions, this ends where the departure began."

An Accomplished Prediction.

The Boston Post states that an enthusiastic Chicagoan wishes to make a prediction, and requests anybody disposed to make light of it to cut it out and keep it to put under their pillows. Election night of 1880. He predicts that "through the influence of the Chicago Herald, Chicago will in the coming spring election, go Democratic by a majority of from three to five thousand votes. That accomplished, and as certain as certain, the State of Illinois will be redeemed, securing Democratic Presidential Electors in 1880 by a majority of 10,000 votes.

So far as the prophet prognosticated the result of the local election in Chicago he proves to be eminently clear-headed; the Democrats triumphed in that city by about the majority he predicted. Whether his other vaticinations will prove to be equally correct, the future will determine.

Every business man knows that a good, large well formed horse will always bring a good price.

GEN. FLEURY was selected in France by Mr. C. Fullerton, the party that brought out Lewis Napoleon the first of this stock that came west of the Alleghenies; this horse proved the great value of this breed in our country. Mr. Fullerton had 24 years experience with this stock when he brought out Gen. Fleury and purchased from him as the best breeder of this race in France. He has proven a No. 1 breeder in this State.
