Steinberger, the pawnbroker, visited Cox and identified him as the man who had pawned a cameo set of jewelry, which led to his arrest.

A cable dispatch from Callao via London, yesterday, alluded to the bombardment of Antofagasta by the Peruvian ship Huascar, and the Star and Herald has the following in reference to the affair: At Antofagasta the Huascar had a sharp engagement with shore batteries, several heavy Krupp guns being in position and silenced their fire, but it was found impossible to destroy the water condensers, one of the chief objects of the expedition, since having received 48 hours notice of the approach of the ram, the authorities had time to effectually protect these machines with piles of bags filled with sand and rattle.

Railroad Prospects and Probabilities.

CHICAGO, June 25.—The Times' New York special says: At Boston and San Francisco capitalists are interested in the progress which is made with the Southern Pacific road now being pushed forward; and it is expected that within fifteen months connection will be made with the Missouri River, Fort Scott & Gulf Road. This is a Boston enterprise almost exclusively, and is regarded as having a brilliant future. It is said here on Wall street that before this connection is made arrangements will be completed for an unbroken line from Chicago in a southwesterly direction, so that when a junction with the Southern Pacific is effected, trains can run through direct from Chicago to San Francisco. This enterprise will destroy the monopoly of existing Pacific roads and will be of great advantage to shippers by forcing lower rates for freight and passage.

The striking Point.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—The story of an alleged bargain for the votes of 14 or 15 southern representatives to procure the passage of the marshals appropriation bill without riders, which was quoted but discredited on the streets last night, has been entirely exploded to-day. A careful inquiry proves also that there is no prospect of a break in the Democratic ranks upon this question for any cause or in any contingency likely to arise.

Heavy Exchange of Silver for Currency.

BETWEEN 9 AND 10 A. M. to-day Sub Treasurer Sherman took in $13,000 in small silver for which legal tender money was given. Considerable more was received but not counted, including $25,000 from one of the banks. The Bank of California has turned in $150,000, and expects to have as much more.

The family narrowly escaped with their lives, as the entire building was enveloped in flames by the time they got out. At 2:55 there were 66 delegates in their seats with about 20 more inside the rail. Gov. Irwin, Surveyor General Minor, Secretary of State Beck and comptroller Brown deny that they have made any propositions to the H. B.'s for a coalition ticket. At 3 o'clock Major Biggs called the convention to order, nearly one-half the chairs being unoccupied.

The convention reassembled at 7:30 P. M.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—A double tragedy occurred at California City, just across the bay, in Marin county, this morning, resulting in the instant death of Adonia Fulton, manager of the Dupont Powder Co., the magazine of which is located there, and R. H. Moore, keeper of the magazine. Moore discharged the duties of his position so unsatisfactorily that a day or two ago he received notice that his services would be dispensed with on next Tuesday. When this news reached him, he became very angry and grew hourly more sullen and morose. At a quarter past eight o'clock this morning, Fulton, who lived in this city, started in the sloop May Flower to visit the magazine, accompanied by his wife and three children, together with two lady friends. Reaching the landing at California City, Mr. Fulton went ashore, leaving the others to follow at their leisure. He had not gone far before he was met by Moore. It was observed that a few words passed between them, but what was said is not known, as there was no one within hearing distance. At a moment when the captain of the sloop happened to look toward them, he saw Moore start backward a step or two, draw a revolver, level it at Fulton's head and fire. The latter sprang several feet into the air, fell head downward and lay still. Seeing this, Moore placed the muzzle of the pistol to his right temple and again fired. Both men were shot through the brain and died almost instantly. The bodies were taken on board the sloop and brought to this city. Fulton was a native of New York, aged 52 years. Neither the nativity nor age of Moore is known.

An axe was found standing near the door covered with blood. Gibson has been arrested and his many contradictory stories point to him as the murderer.

Dr. Glenn Accepts.

The following telegram from Dr. Glenn was read: Your telegram announcing my nomination was received too late to answer last night. I have not seen the platform adopted by your convention, but presuming that it requires nothing more of me than a pledge to carry out the new constitution in all its parts, I accept your nomination in accordance with the telegram I laid before your convention through my friends of the Colusa delegation. The convention reassembled this evening and appointed a state central committee with power to conduct the campaign and fill vacancies in the ticket should any occur. A telegram was received from J. San Francisco Court Records.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 25.—Registrar Kaplan has applied to the courts here for a record of the naturalization business done by them, in order to prevent fraudulent registration under the new law. In complying with his request, it has been discovered that prior to 1870 the records of the U. S. circuit and district courts had been very loosely kept; that the minute books of the naturalization business show thousands of names whose naturalization is void on account of not having been entered in the judgment book; and that hundreds have been naturalized of whom there is no record whatever. All these persons will have to go through the process of naturalization again before they can be registered.

Heavy Exchange of Silver for Currency.

The resolution providing additional pay for congressional employees was again taken up. The amendments of Wallace and Inaels forming the old judicial expenses bill, political assessments bill, etc., were withdrawn by unanimous consent, and the resolution passed as reported from the committee with slight amendments.

Eaton reported the judicial expenses appropriation bill, which he had frequently asked why he should be no attempt by the majority to shorten debate and a night session would not be forced. The bill was then considered.

Windom replied to the speech of Sanjour yesterday as to Windom's connection with the negro exodus. Windom declared that he gloried in the fact that he had done something to assist into the negro mind the thought that he had a right to leave a region where he was oppressed and flee to one where he would be treated as an American citizen, which he said he had done. He had become somewhat "radical" of late. It was because he had listened to stories of these poor negroes, not paid attention to them, not made for political effect. Unless there was a change in the treatment of the blacks the exodus would stop, but it would stop because it would change into a stampede. Windom said he had received any of these stories from North Carolina. He asked because he had read a letter signed by two colored men, which he sent to the clerk's desk and had read, as follows: "To Messrs. Conkling, Blaine and others who so strenuously opposed the repeal of certain laws now being debated: We are personally acquainted with Hon. Governor Vance, and take the liberty through him to state that to the best of our knowledge and belief there never was a black man prevented from voting in North Carolina on account of his race. We speak with integrity of this county. We are both of black complexion and have represented this county in the legislature of North Carolina."

Windom—How black? Vance—Dark enough to belong to the Republican party and not mistaken.

Conkling—I wish only to say that I never heard of it before, and the complexion of the letter seems therefore more doubtful than the complexion of those who wrote it. I rather unadvisedly addressed a letter to one or three senators, and in place of sending it to either of them, to send it to somebody else.
