City Election.

The city election last Monday passed quietly and without undue excitement although hard work was done on both sides. The Citizens ticket carried the day, with one exception, over the Temperance ticket, by an average majority of twenty. One year ago the Temperance ticket was elected by an average majority of twenty-seven. The successful candidates are all good men largely identified with the interest of the city and we have no fear that its prosperity will suffer under their management. No votes cast, 254; a loss of 32 from last year. The following is the result:

The McKenzie Road.

The company interested in the above road at their meeting on last Monday planned an extensive campaign of improvement for this season by appropriating $1,000, to be used in straightening, widening and leveling the road from Rock house eastward. With a determined effort on the county road between here and Rock House by the citizens, in co-operation with the road company, a drive to the alpine suburbs of our city will become a pleasure, as well as a benefit to the health of those seeking recreation. We hope to see such an effort made now as we will have the perihelion and two heated elections to pass through this season and will need the mountain air occasionally to brace us up to our work.

UNWARRANTABLE.—It has become almost an impossibility for any circumstance, however trivial, to pass unnoticed by the occupant of a certain pulpit of this city. A young gentleman was arrested here a few days ago for an alleged offense, and before he was even given the benefit of a trial, the reverend gentleman improved his shining opportunity by calling attention to the circumstance in the course of his sermons. The Master, whom he professes to follow, did not condemn the Magdalen, but bid him who would without sin cast the first stone. Sidney Smith has said, "A pulpit is a platform just three feet above contradiction;" but when ministers forsake the story of the Cross to indulge in innuendoes and personalities they may expect to lose the respect of all honorable men, and also to injure the cause of Christianity.

A FINE HORSE.—The fine imported stallion, Merry Mason may be seen by all lovers of horse flesh in this city. He is an imported horse, and can boast a fine pedigree. Persons wishing to improve their stock should not fail to call on Mr. Grierson and examine the horse. He is to be found at Cooper's stable.

PRIVATE SCHOOL.—Mrs. Len Cleaver will commence a select school in the Episcopal building, commencing Monday next.

Lesson—John's Gospel.

REV. S. MONROE HUBBARD,
Pastor of the Christian Church,
Eugene City, April 11, 1880.

No class of citizens contributed more generally to the relief of the famine-stricken people of Ireland and Silesia than the Jews—a fact which should be borne in mind, and should tend to remove the most unjust prejudice which exists in the minds of many persons toward this race. The educated Hebrews are liberal as a class.—Harper's Weekly.

FIREMAN'S ELECTION.—Eugene Hook and Laddler Co., No. 1, held its regular annual meeting for the election of officers last Monday evening with the following result: President, J. D. Kinsey; Vice President, Ben. Ross; Secretary, M. S. Wallis; Treasurer, Darwin Bristow; Foreman, W. T. Campbell; 1st Assistant, T. J. Witter; 2d Assistant, Orrin Moore.

COMING.—The Vernell troupe will shortly appear in this city and give one of their imitable performances. This troupe has been traveling in Southern Oregon, meeting with success. The Roseburg Star says: "It was an excellent performance and the best we have witnessed for some time."

RECAPTURED.—Chas. Sargent, one of the prisoners who escaped from the Lane county jail several weeks since was recaptured near Brook's station; Sheriff Eakin, went below and brought the prisoner up. Charley now wears substantial jewelry around his ankles.

STATE UNIVERSITY.

A column devoted to the interests of the Laurean and Eutaxian Literary Societies, and the State University.

A. S. ROSENTHAL, EDITOR.

Public Meeting.

The public meeting of the Eutaxian Society on last Friday, April 2d, was well attended. The Laurean Society and several invited guests were present. Promptly at 3 o'clock the society was called together by the president, Miss Agnes McCormack. The ruling queen of the Eutaxians presides with dignity and grace, renders prompt decisions and preserves the best of order.

Passing over the formal part of the exercises we come to the rhetorical. This is one of the prominent features of this society and from the able productions presented, it is one of great importance. The programme for the evening began with a beautiful recitation by Miss Alice Dorris, followed by an essay entitled "Shadow," by Miss Cogswell, next in order Miss Ida Dunn favored us with one of Mrs. Caudle's lectures. This part ended with a reading from one of Mrs. Dunnway's poems by Miss Nettie McCormack, who, in a distinct and becoming manner, brought out all the beautiful sentiment of that renowned poem.

The next order of business was the discussion of prominent authors. The one chosen for the occasion was that of Mrs. Dunnway. All of the participants entered heartily into the discussion and showed how this lady amidst diversity and and toil strove to build up a literary fame; how she battled against hardships, being compelled to support a "crippled" husband and five children—but one of the speakers was of the opinion that the "henpecked" husband took care of the family. They showed how she preached, lectured and admonished the ladies of Oregon to enter under her banner and march to the rescue of this fair land.

After a short recess the debate was called. The question was, "Resolved, That the whites are more responsible for the so-called Indian outrages than the Indians themselves?" The debate was opened by Miss Charlotte Roberts, leader on the affirmative. In a twenty minutes speech she offered not much good argument. The negative was introduced by Miss Maggie Sargent in a well prepared speech, which showed the superior talents of the speaker. These ladies were followed in turn by their colleagues, in the order named: Misses Rubena Spiller, Mary McCormack, Emma McMurry, Marge Dunn, Vasilian Babb, Minnie Starr, Alwilda Dunn and Anna Whiteaker. All of whom substantiated the arguments of their respective leaders. The debate was closed by the principals, and despite the assertion that the affirmative had several books on the table by which they could disprove the arguments of their opponent, but the judges decided in favor of the negative. In passing we must congratulate the Eutaxians on their wise selection of officers, and especially the Sergeant-at-arms who carries the staff of office with the grace of a princess.

In conclusion we would call the attention of the Laureans to the systematic working of the different parts of the machinery of this society, and particularly to the good order maintained. Laureans it is not by strength of muscles that we will achieve the great object of our organization. Let us profit by example, and like Lycurgus, introduce reform into our own government. We behold with admiration the rapid advancement of our sister society, and hope that it will continue to march onward until it shall light up the intellectual horizon with its radiant beams, and become a leading star in the acceleration of education, art and science.

Laurean News.

At the regular meeting of the Laurean Society, April 2d, important business was transacted.

The revised constitution was read by sections, and after some discussion and one or two slight amendments, was adopted.

The society voted to subscribe for the following papers and periodicals to be presented to the library of the corporation: Harper's Weekly, Berklian (published at the State University of California), American Review, and Popular Science Monthly.

Question chosen for debate on April 16th, "Resolved, That a student in college should direct his studies toward some particular profession." Affirmative, Messrs W. M. Miller and E. E. Burke; negative, Messrs E. J. Maxwell and C. A. Wass. On rhetorical for the same evening, Edward Bailey and J. D. Slater.

Jottings.

Vacation next week.

The sun is beginning to send down his warm rays, and those beautiful sun-bonnets and calico aprons are making their appearance.

The Dutch juniors have taken to reading yellow backed literature. The above class may be found in Prof. Gatch's room. Come and learn German or at least listen to the sweet music by Prof. Gatch's new Dutch organ.

The corporation meeting was a grand failure—too many parties. The "cargat party" was in the lead and it intends to make known its terms at the called meeting on April 23d.

Many of the students intend to leave college after vacation, in order to get Summer schools. Among the number are Messrs. Burke, Hill and Taylor.

Our Sympathy is extended to those married ladies who continually suffer during pregnancy from nausea and vomiting and breaking out on the skin. Nothing so harmless and so certain in effect to relieve as DR. HYDE'S GOLDEN BLOOD SYRUP. Purely vegetable.

"God Bless You, Doctor!"

Enclained a thankful mother, whose son was rescued from a consumptive's grave by a few bottles of Dr. Young's Yankoe Cough Syrup. It never fails.
