The Bloomfield Murders.

A Walla Walla correspondent thus describes the Bloomfield murderers as they appeared in court on Tuesday of last week: "There were in the prisoner's dock no less than 14 able bodied men and one woman well known to your people. I refer to Nannie J. Thomas, she sat nearest the Judge. The wan look and tired careless expression had entirely given way to a healthy glow of of the cheeks and a charming lustre of the eyes, that in another person—unfamiliar with the remarkable history of the heartless murder charged to her—would be, to say the least, captivating. I watched her actions closely to day as she sat beside the haggard cowardly looking husband who prompted and nerved her to the deed, as the papers state it, and I watched the stables playing around her mouth and passing rapidly away. Perhaps her's is the case prettily and truly described by the Irish bard:

The cheek may be tinged with a warm, sunny smile
While the cold heart runs darkly to ruin the while.
He has the appearance of a man jaboring under remorse or pursued by the fear of death, and she, whether guilty or not guilty does ill justice to a womanly hearted in a similar case should above all act as though she had not wanted with sin for a lifetime. The trial is in progress at Walla Walla this week.

Since the above was placed in type we learn that the trial of Thomas resulted in a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree. He has been sentenced by the court to be hung.

Usury in Oregon.

Following is the text of the act relating to usury in Oregon, which passed the late assembly: "That sections one and five of chapter twenty-seven of the miscellaneous laws of Oregon be and the same are hereby repealed, and the following enacted in lieu thereof: "That the rate of interest in this state shall be eight per centum per annum, and no more on all moneys, after the same becomes due on judgment and decrees for the payment of money; on money received for the use of another, and retained beyond a reasonable time without the owner's consent, expressed or implied, or on money due upon the settlement of matured accounts, from the day the balance is ascertained; on money due or to become due, when there is a contract to pay interest and rate specified. But on contracts, interest at the rate of ten per centum per annum, may be charged by express agreement of the parties and no more. Judgments and decrees for money upon contracts bearing more than eight per centum interest and not exceeding ten per annum, shall bear the same interest borne by such contract."

The Southern Pacific Railroad.

A new station on the Southern Pacific Railroad was opened Thursday, November 18th, at Rio Mimbres river, and the first through train was then run. The distance between that station of the Southern Pacific Road and the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad is 125 miles. Stages have just commenced to run between the points for $20 the trip. The Southern Pacific construction train lays about three miles of track per day. The Company have 467 miles of road in operation beyond the California border in Arizona and New Mexico.

Yamhill Reporter: Lung Fever is prevalent among the horses a few miles from here.

Mr. T. B. Henderson lost a valuable horse on Monday last and several parties in the neighborhood have horses sick with the same disease that killed Mr. Henderson's. Some anxiety is felt concerning the matter. By one means and another the supply of teams in this section has been reduced about to the minimum compared with the demand, and to lose many more would have a serious effect upon the farm interests.

The annual town election of Hillsboro will take place, Monday December 6th.

STATE NEWS.

A lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen will be instituted in Dallas during the coming week.
P. H. Bagley, of Knappa, had ripe Barlett pears, the second crop from the same tree this year.
Hon. I. W. Case of Astoria, had fresh green corn plucked from his garden, on his tables on Thanksgiving day.
T. L. Beck, of Willow Springs, is building a new county road through that mining camp so as to work the ground where the road now runs. He has already built a new bridge and will have a good road when finished.
In the Covert arson trial now pending in the Jackson circuit court, 65 witnesses have been subpoenaed. The case is no nearer at an end than when it commenced a week ago, and the expense to the county cannot be less than $150 per day.

Mrs. McClure, who lives on the Chehalis mountain, was riding in a wagon with her infant in her arms last Saturday, when the wheels struck an obstruction, throwing the lady and her child to the ground with such violence as to break her collar bone.

George, the little son of A. V. R. Snyder, of the Lafayette Courier, while playing about the house last Tuesday found a revolver beneath the pillow where the maternal head was wont to rest at night, and drawing it out succeeding in discharging it into his hand thereby blowing off a thumb.

Benton Blade: Frank Hilliard, a blacksmith of Corvallis, met with a very painful accident on Wednesday while engaged in shoeing a horse. His right leg was dislocated at the knee joint, and the right leg broken square into. This was a fracture of rare occurrence. The limb was dressed, and at last accounts was doing well.

Miss Ella Rood, whose parents reside in Happy Valley, died in the insane asylum last week. She had been an inmate of that institution for several years and was 18 years old. The remains were returned to her parents for burial last Tuesday and were met at the depot by the sorely bereft relatives and followed to rest in the Masonic cemetery at McMinnville.

Michael Hanley, of Jackson county, is fattening several hundred head of hogs from corn raised by himself last season. He cultivated 60 acres of corn yielding upwards of 3,000 bushels. The corn is fully as fine as that raised in western Missouri. Some of the ears measured 12 1/2 inches in length, and it is doubtful whether any other farmer in Rogue river valley can equal it.

On last Thursday, the schooner Earther Cobos was caught in a calm after crossing Rogue river bar and drifted on the beach south of the entrance, where the tide left her high and dry, without any perceptible damage being done. At latest accounts she had been shoved up preparatory to being moved on ways across the south spit into the channel of the river. It was thought the vessel would be launched with little or no damage to her hull.

On Saturday night, the 20th inst., the stage coming north with Joseph Mason as driver, was stopped by a robber on the road between Cottonwood and Coles. The robber demanded the express box and the registered mail bag. There being an up grade in the road, where the stage was stopped, the horses commenced backing and the driver told the robber that as the team wouldn't stand at this point he would drive a short distance ahead to a flat, to which proposition the robber consented. Upon reaching the so-called flat the driver whipped up his horses and left the highwayman in the rear. But the robber had already secured one of the mail bags which lay on top of the express and contained all the registered packages for Jacksonville and other points. The packages were mostly of the bulky order, among them a $400 package of postage stamps for the Jacksonville office. The mail sack was found out open and left on the road side; but the next day when it was found none of its contents seemed to be missing. The southern bound stage returned it to Yreka.
