Baker County Stock.

While the accounts of the loss of stock in other counties of Oregon are very discouraging, it affords us pleasure to be able to state that stock is, on the whole, doing well in Baker county. We have conversed with several gentlemen who are largely engaged in stock-raising; and they all tell substantially the same tale, which is, that there is, as yet, no loss of stock in Baker county except that which arises from natural causes every year. Almost every Baker county stock raiser puts up hay for his stock; hay sufficient to feed them with four or six weeks—in many cases longer; and when the bunch grass is so covered with snow as to prevent sheep and cattle feeding on it, this hay is fed to them daily. Besides this, there are favored localities in Snake River Valley, and also that of Malheur, where cattle can obtain grass even during such a winter as the present. Horses, it is well known, paw off the snow and procure their customary supply of bunch grass much better than any other domestic animal, and hence very few are lost from hunger. Hay in Powder River Valley is plentiful at present and can be had for $6.00@7.00 per ton in the stack; and is the best natural hay in the world.—Reveille.

Wheat From Walla Walla.

It is of some importance just now to know what surplus of wheat the different sections of this region will have for export. In round numbers we should place the surplus of Western Oregon at 200,000 tons of wheat, and Mr. Muir, of the O. R. N. Co., furnishes us with estimate of the wheat surplus of the Upper Columbia section, as follows: There has been stored in Walla Walla twelve thousand tons, and earlier in the season it was supposed that the country around had twelve thousand tons more that had not been hauled. Of this last, probably one third has since been feed to stock in severe weather, and that would make the total of wheat surplus for the Walla Walla country twenty thousand tons; add to this five thousand tons to come from other sections of the Upper Country, and the sum total is 25,000 tons, and at least 10,000 tons has already been brought down, so that, 35,000 tons may be considered the actual surplus for the Upper Columbia region in the harvest year of 1880-1. Whether this surplus will all be actually exported is another question not easy to answer at present.—Farmer.

The tax to be levied for the year 1881 (and annually thereafter) for the purpose of paying the principal and interest of the Indian War debt, is one half of one mill on the dollar on all taxable property within the State.

RECAPITULATION.
For Current Expenses.....4 Mills.
For Insane Asylum Tax.....1 Mill.
For Payment of War bonds.....½ Mill.
Total State Tax.....5½ Mills.

In speaking of the release from the Penitentiary of ex-Sheriff Dale of Yamhill county, his home paper, the Lafayette Courier says: Whether he will return to this county remains to be seen; but we have heard it intimated that he would remain at the Penitentiary as head teamster. There are yet several indictments hanging over Mr. Dale in this county, but it will be useless to waste time and money in prosecuting them as he would be immediately pardoned again were he convicted and sent to the Penitentiary. Mr. Dale has many warm friends in this section who would be pleased to see him do well and who would extend to him a helping hand were he to show a disposition to help himself.

DISPOSED OF THE BONDS.—The Albany Register is authority for the statement that a report had reached that town that Col. Hogg had disposed of all the bonds issued for the building of the railway from Yaquina bay to Boise City, and was on his way out to Oregon to inaugurate work on the line. If this report proves true, says the Register "won't there be rejoicing all over the county. And we don't propose to take any back talk, any way—mind that."

The value of church buildings in Walla Walla is given by the Watchman as follows: M. E. Church, $9,000; Episcopal, $6,000; Cumberland Presbyterian, $6,500; Congregational, $6,500 Seventh Day Adventists, $4,000; M. E. Church South, $1,800; United Brethren, $2,600. The Catholics propose to erect a cathedral the coming season in that city at a cost of about $15,000.

The Christian Messenger, of Monmouth, Polk county, says: The engineers have completed the location of the railroad to a point opposite Lewisville. Their location corresponded almost precisely with that of last summer. The line is an easy one built though there will be a heavy cut at the summit of the Tetherow pass and considerable trestling at the crossing of the Luckiamute.
