Can't be Punished.

A letter from a Baltimore correspondent of the New York Times, was published on Tuesday in that paper in which the writer distinctly asserts that, no matter what may be the guilt of the participants in the Star-route swindle, none of them will be punished. Judging from experience, the pessimist prophecies of the Times' correspondent are more than likely to prove correct. Since the advent of the Republicans to power a great many conspiracies have come to light, having for their object the plundering of the people's purse, but the of funders have rarely been punished; at least, the instances have been very few. There were the New York Custom-house frauds, the navy frauds, the post-trader frauds, the French-arms affair, the Washington real estate ring, the Columbus-Alexander safe burglary, the whisky frauds and the Credit Mobilier scandal, and how many of the participants in those schemes came to grief! Few, very few, and those that did, with the exception of Belknap, were mere scapegoats, who vicariously atoned for the sins of their more fortunate and powerful fellows. No wonder the correspondent of the Times despairs of bringing these people to justice. They are too deeply entrenched behind official forms; there are too many who have shared the plunder, and too many thus interested in suppressing all proceedings and preventing anything like a thorough investigation. It is a humiliating confession and a disgraceful condition, but then of such is the rule of a Republican Administration, and to which, in the next barrel of verbal volleys broadcast to form a Republican platform, the writers will, as usual, "point with pride."

Mysterious Disappearance.

Last Sunday morning Oscar, eldest son of Mr. Augustus Miller, of Stayton, says the Salem Talk, started out for the Santiam to go fishing. Not returning in the evening, his parents became alarmed and instituted search for him, which resulted in finding his hat floating on the water, and the skiff in which he had been fishing from lodged in some drift wood, with the bottom up. It is supposed that the boat drifted out into the current, and being unable to manage it, turned over, drowning the young man. Parties have been busily engaged the past week dragging the river in the vicinity in which he is supposed to have drowned, but so far have not succeeded in finding the body. Oscar was nearly 15 years of age, a bright boy and well liked by all who knew him. His parents have the sympathy of the entire community in their sad bereavement.

Frightened to Death.

The Dalles Times tells of a boy named Eddie, aged about eight years, a son of Mr. F. M. Ewing, living on Three Mile creek in that county, who died on Monday last from fright produced through the cruel fun of his schoolmates. Some large boys chased the little fellow a long distance, and then caught and threatened him with knives if he dared tell the teacher, causing such a shock to the nervous system that he never rallied. Our informant states that for two weeks before his death he suffered extremely, at times being delirious and calling out for the boys to let him alone. The matter should be inquired into by the proper authorities.

COOS BAY AND ROSEBURG RAILROAD.—Ex-Governor Chadwick has been in town during the week, says the Roseburg Plaindealer, Mr. Chadwick is representing California interests, and is negotiating for the purchase of the franchise of the Coos Bay and Roseburg Railroad Company. We understand that it is with a view to the early completion of the road that the franchise is passing into the hands of capitalists elsewhere.

H. C. Buckingham, a resident of Benton county since 1847, died on the 30th ult., at his residence near Monroe. He was stricken with paralysis about a year before his death and never recovered from the shock.

STATE NEWS.

The contract for building the bridge at Independence has been let to T. B. Wolverton for $1749.

Sheep shearing had begun in earnest in Douglas county, and we are informed that the spring clip will be much larger than usual.

The total amount of Albany city taxes collected up to May 4th, 1881, was in round numbers $4600 against $4200 up to the same date in 1880.

The Brownsville woolen mills have shut down for about two weeks. They have been running continuously for a year, will now be repaired.

On Sunday last the wife of Cary Embree, of Polk county, was very severely hurt by falling from a wagon. Several ribs were broken and she was otherwise bruised. Mrs. Embree is about 70 years of age and her recovery will be necessarily slow.

An attempt was made to burn the store and goods of Cyrus Hadden, at Scottsburg last week. The incendiary scraped together three piles of chips under the building and fired each of them. The blaze was discovered in time to prevent serious disaster.

James Putman of Sweet Home precinct, while slashing brush a few days since, had the misfortune to cut himself very badly. The ax went through his foot, striking the sole of his boot. He will not be in a condition to do any more slashing for some time to come.

James Marks died at the residence of his son John Marks, near Lebanon last Thursday, in the 83d year of his age. He leaves a widow a few years his junior, to whom he was married about 53 years ago, and five sons, all of whom are worthy citizens of Linn county. He came to Linn county in 1853.

Work has begun on the foundation of S. Marks & Co.'s ware house at Roseburg. There will be a number of trenches about three feet deep to be filled with gravel, then large sandstone rocks will be put in these trenches and a heavy mud sill on these, then posts upon which are to be placed the main sills.

Last Saturday afternoon the dwelling house of George Shultz, two miles east of Monroe in Benton county, was burned to the ground, and a considerable portion of the furniture and clothing of the family was destroyed; loss about $2500, no insurance. The fire originated from burning straw in the fire place, the flames running out of the top of the chimney caught in the roof.

As the west side train on its way down last Saturday ran on the long bridge near St. Joe, three little children were seen near the center of the trestle work. To stop the train was impossible. The children seeing their peril got clear of the track and crouched down on the frame of the bridge and clung on for life to the large beams while the train passed over their heads.

Fight With Robbers.

It will be remembered that McKinney & Smith's store at Turner's Station was robbed Thursday May 3d, of $200 worth of goods by unknown parties. Deputy Sheriff Minto, of Marion county, was informed of the crime, organized a small posse, and went in search of the burglars. By diligent inquiry and active exertions, they tracked the robbers to a thick underbrush, about one mile north of Jefferson and east of the railroad track. Early last Saturday morning, just after daybreak, the desperadoes, three in number, came out from their ambush and started south with the evident intention of crossing the railroad bridge over the Santiam. One fellow was armed with a Winchester rifle and the other two with double-barrel shotguns. Minto and his crowd followed, and when within 250 yards the former commanded the robbers to halt. They obeyed, and turning around one of the gang fired his rifle and sent a ball through the hat of one of Minto's men. As the latter was armed only with revolvers further chase was abandoned and the robbers proceeded on their way south. They left in the brush two bundles containing some of the goods stolen from the store.
