

THE EUGENE CITY GUARD.

EUGENE CITY, OREGON.

Conkling and Platt Resign.

The great sensation of the week throughout the country has been the resignation of Senators Conkling and Platt, of New York, from the U. S. Senate.

The Power of one Vote.

Years ago, in De Kalb county, Indiana, was a man who was in doubt, on election morning whether to go to mill or to the polls.

That Merry Letter.

Mr. Philp, of the Truth, who has been under arrest for a long time not as the Republicans usually put it for forgery in connection with the Morey letter, but for libeling Garfield in an editorial entitled, "Garfield lies and sticks to it."

Hank Monk Takes to the Road Again.

On Tuesday Hank Monk mounted the hurricane deck of the lake. Right stage, pulled the lines over his six horses, and grabbing the whip in his right hand, yelled, "all aboard," in a voice that sounded like a lost child screaming in a blind alley.

"Now, Hank, play light on those tough yarns. Don't repeat those old grizzly bear stories; you'll frighten all the British tourists off the route."

Hank swore not to speak a word to anybody anywhere along the line and a few moments later was telling a Comstocker how he once boarded John Mackay four months when Mackay was busted, and gave him 800 feet of Con. Virginia to give him a start in the world.—Carson Appeal.

From a dispatch received here we learn the new Fee bill of Clerks and Sheriffs passed by the last Legislature has been declared unconstitutional by a recent decision of the Supreme Court.

The New York World pertinently inquires: Why should "kicking" and "biting" be capital offenses when a delegate commits them to the injury of a Boss, and become noble and meritorious actions when a Boss commits them to the injury of a President?

The United States Senate has fixed on to-day as the last of the extra session. The Republicans have made splendid campaign material for the Democrats by their folly during the extra session.

As far as He Knew.

[Detroit Free Press.]

A stranger from the East was having his boots blacked at the Postoffice yesterday, when an alarm of fire was turned in.

"Bub, what sort of water system have you got in this city?"

The boy spit on his brush, looked up and down the street, and finally answered:

"Well, as far as I know anything about it, they all take water after their gin!"

The reply seemed to be thoroughly satisfactory to the stranger.

Garfield is human as is shown by his lifting the stalwart element from office, and substituting administration men. His civil service buncombe was as idle and purposeless, as that of the departed fraud, Hayes.

Robertson has been confirmed by the U. S. Senate with scarcely a dissenting vote.
