KILLED BY THE CARS.

Louis Behrens, a Brakesman on the O. & C. R. R., Falsfrom a Box Carand is Instantly

Killed.

From the Salem S.atesman, of Teesday, May 17th, we take the following account of the accidental killing of Louis Behrens, of this city :

Last Sunday morning a most melancholly accident occurred at the railroad depot. A special freight train consisting of locomotive and eight flat and box cars arrived at Call and see that large stock of goods for the depot, about fifteen minutes after 8 o'clock. The train had just come in and the brakesman, Louis Beh eas, after throw ing on two brakes came to the third, and catching it whirled around, but in some manner lost his footing and fell between the cars, his body falling outside of the rails. It is thought by some that in the fall his neck was broken, and that he was instantly killed. Frank Baker, who was standing near the track at the time of the accelent, states that he fell with his bre st across the track, and endeavored to push himself off, but the wheel caught his neck crushing the vertebrae. Dr. Adams examined the corpse, and stated before the jury that the neck was not mangled, and that the car wheels could not possibly have passed over the neck without more or less bruising it. Exactly how his dents at 5 P. M., to-morrow, at the Baptist death occurred will forever remain un-

> Louis was quite well known in this city, and was an honest hard-working young man. He has been in the employ of the company for about three years, and was considered an industrious young man of good behaviour His home was in Engene, with his mother Mrs Goodchild, who, we learn is a widow lady and dependent upon him for a living. Corouer Brown being absent from the city Justice Johnson summoned a jury, in which after examining the body, rendered the fol-

The Siuslaw Road.

We are informed that the three Granges interested in the work of building a road down the Siuslaw river, have sent subscription papers to the different precincts for circulation. They propose to hold a public meeting here at the Court House the last Tuesday in this month to hear reports from the different precincts, and to farther devise ways and means to commence the work. It is of great importance to Eugene City and Lane county that a passable wagon road should be constructed to the mouth of the Siuslaw, and it is to be hoped that the business men and worn as a coroner's jury to inquire into the others will respond liberally. The entercause of the death of the person now lying prise is now in the hands of reliable men who dead before us, find as follows: That the may be depended upon to expend all subname of said person is Louis Pehrens, that scriptions honezely. The grounds lie about a mile west of town on the Siuslaw road.

Remains Buried.

Mentler was made in the issue of last week of the finding of the remains of the lost boy, Thomas Judkins. His father with a party of men started Saturday to bring the remains of the unfortunate youth here for interment. They found the skeleton as narrated last week, and after further search foun I his kuife, match box and some charred shavings about 100 yards from where he laid down to die. They could not find his gun. He was only about two miles from camp, ment. The suspicion which was created is chases, thus cleared up, and his companion in the hunt fully exon-rated.
