STATE NEWS.

Hon. David Newsome is again confined to his room in Salem with a severe fit of illness. Some farmers who haul hay into Portland for sale, have been detected in pouring water on the hay to make it weigh heavy. One fellow was caught in the act recently, and had to deduct 300 pounds. One of Booth's & Co's nets was dug up on Sand Island where it went ashore and was almost literally buried in the sands. It took seven men actively working to get it one tide. The boat was tumbled up high and dry on the island, considerably stove, but will be repaired. J. C. Drain has taken a contract to furnish the O. & C. R. R. 63,000 railroad ties. Whether this indicates an intention to commence work or to repair the road now being operated is a question not yet solved. Sixty-three thousand ties is a sufficient number to build thirty-seven miles of railroad. The Coos Bay News states that immigrants in large numbers are coming to Coos county from Finland. The latter country is now under the dominion of Russia, and the government requires involuntary service from the Finns. To escape this new oppression the inhabitants are deserting their summer homes and seeking refuge in Oregon and other free lands. The game of chess which has been in progress for a month or more, between parties in Harrisburg and State Treasurer Hirsch and F. I. Stitts the Governor's private secretary at Salem, has been ended in favor of the Secretary and Treasurer. The parties in Harrisburg having "thrown up the sponge." The game was carried on through the mails by postal cards, and was closely contested. It is now conceded by farmers from every portion of Jackson county that the grain crop will be exceedingly light. The summer fallow will make a good crop and some of the grain sown on sticky land will be tolerably fair, but late sown grain, in most localities will not yield a half crop, and oats will be particularly light. It is thought that rain now would be too late to be beneficial except to corn and fruit. Every description of fruit will yield very heavily owing to the absence of late frosts and, as usual, fruit will be a drug in the market. Last Wednesday at 12 o'clock the fishing boat containing Jack Lynch and a fellow called "Shorty" was coming in on the Columbia over the breakers when the boat upset. Lynch made a grasp at the rowlock hull, by which he held on for dear life. "Shorty" caught hold of Lynch by the coat tail, and in this terrible position they held on until picked up by one of the Kinney boats and were taken into Astoria where they arrived at 1 o'clock. It will be some time before Lynch will be able to use the finger on which his life and that of his companion depended, for so long a time. The keeper of the Point Adams light, on Monday saw several boats outside the bar. He reports that one boat came ashore near that lighthouse right side up, but filled coming through the breakers, with the men, and their nets and fish safe.

The Czar of Russia rules over an undetermined empire, and occasionally some portion of the explosive element cropping out to the surface, is observed. This is the real significance of the incident of the other day, when a mine of gunpowder was found under a stone bridge at a steamer landing in St. Petersburg. The arrest of a couple of naval lieutenants at Cronstadt for abstracting dynamite from the imperial stores only shows how slight a hold the Czar has on his own picked officers. DROWNED.—About twenty minutes after 7 o'clock, Wednesday evening, June 1st, George, the only son of T. A. Pope, of Oregon City, fell over the bluff directly opposite the family residence into the river and was drowned. Grappling hooks were immediately put in use, and after about twenty minutes Dr. J. W. Watts brought the child to the surface. Proper applications were used for restoration but without avail.

The O. R. & N. Co. At the present time, we learn from good authority, that the pay roll of the O. R. & N. Co. shows an average employment of 5,000 men every month. Of this number 1,500 are Chinamen, the balance being clerks, managers of various departments, mechanics, engineers, captains and laborers. The sum total of these monthly payments is about $200,000. When to the above figures we add the capital invested in steamboats, car shops, machinery, rolling stock and material used in construction and repairs we can readily imagine the magnitude of the investment. At this date there are 19 locomotives in use on the railroads of this company, while 30 river steamers ply on the waters of the Columbia and Willamette. Their ocean steamers for service between Portland and San Francisco embrace the Oregon, Columbia Elder and City of Chester, with an aggregate of 8,100 tons. The car shops and machine erected and at work at the Dalles, together with the land on which they are built and the surrounding improvements are valued at $100,000 or more.

Jewish Persecution. Cablegrams tell of no diminution in the persecution of the Jews. On the contrary, the anti-Jewish feeling, and open hostility against the race, seem to be increasing in several localities, particularly throughout the Ukraine, where the Israelites are very numerous. Their very virtues—frugality industry and economy—are made grounds of complaint against them. Moreover, the singular accusation is brought against the Hebrews that they are averse to litigation. That might make them disliked by lawyers, but the antipathy spreads among all classes. For the most part the Jews, instead of going to law, refer their disputes to be arbitrated on by prominent members of their race. What kind of Governments must they be which cannot alike protect Christian and Jew. "The Kingdom of heaven case," somewhat notorious in Walla Walla, has reached final settlement. A R. Cilley was allowed $125, A. J. Courtney $420, and Thomas W. Evans $2700 aggregating $3225, with costs additional. In delivering the verdict, Judge Wingard said that any one in this enlightened age claiming to be God Almighty was fraud per se, and should be made to refund all moneys extorted from innocent believers. It might be added that "innocent believers" in such a fraud should be declared minors in law and have competent guardians appointed at once.

The Narrow Gauge Road.

Vigorous efforts are being made by William Reid and the Scotch Co. to annul the contract by which the narrow gauge road road was leased for 99 years to the O. R. & N. Co., and it is confidently asserted that they will be successful. Eleven hundred men, in the employ of the O. R. N. Co. Limited, are expecting orders every day to resume work for their late employers, and they are sure, from representations made them by the company's agent, that such will be the case. The contract was made in a peculiar way. Mr. Montgomery, who was a large contractor for the company and a large stockholder in the road, went to Scotland to confer with the directors and negotiate the transfer. He succeeded in procuring from them a power of attorney, unknown to Mr. Reid, and departed thence for New York. Mr. Hughes, the company's lawyer, next left for Dundee, and he was followed by Mr. Reid, who departed hence about four weeks since. He was detained in New York on one pretext or another, by the O. R. & N. Co., who tried to make him sell, but he wouldn't trade. He remained in the city several days and shortly after the ship, on which he was a passenger sailed for Europe, Montgomery made the transfer. Hence the attempt to break the contract. There will be considerable litigation before the matter is finally adjudged.—Portland Mercury.
