The blackleg, or mountain fever, has made its appearance among the cattle of Chewaucan. A few have died, and others are seriously afflicted with it. The disease is said to be abating in Warner and Harney valleys, but it is reported to be destroying a great many bovines in parts of western Nevada.
Following is a list of the farmers of Clackamas county, who have brought in the largest number of hogs to Oregon City packers. Orin Cutting, 72 head, weight 11,794 pounds; Wm. Curran, 30 head, 3643 pounds; B. Tucker, 13 head, 3179 pounds; Oliver Robbins, 17 head, 4392; Leatherman, 15 head, 2562 pounds. A large number of others have butchered smaller lots.
A Heppner correspondent under date of Dec. 4th, says: The town of Heppner is in distress. The flaghags at half mast and all appear gloomy and sad. Every business house is closed and the town looks deserted. There are two very severe cases of smallpox that of George Kessinger and a child of George Swaggart. All other cases are doing well. It has been very hard work to get help to wait on the sick.

Oregon Pacific Notes.

We clip the following notes from the Albany Democrat:
A gang of about forty men are now engaged in making a rock cut just this side of the summit, and the blasts at that point are plainly heard here in Albany every day.
Other laboring parties are engaged at different points along the line, excavating for bridge piers and abutments, etc.
The surveying parties which have been working from Corvallis and the Bay, setting grade stakes and completing the final survey, will meet near the summit this week. We understand they will immediately come to Corvallis and begin the survey eastward across the valley, going as far into the mountains as the snow will permit.
Mr. Hogg's brother left the Bay for Corvallis last week, and from there will go immediately to San Francisco.
Four saw mills are now running on full time getting out bridge timbers and ties, and two more mills will be started up soon. One was recently put in operation at the summit which has a capacity of 1000 feet per hour.
Several gangs of men are at work along the line getting out ties. About 200,000 ties are now ready for delivery.
At the Bay work is still going on rapidly upon the large wharf at Ford's Point, and as soon as it is completed railroad material will begin to arrive from San Francisco.
Vessels are continuously arriving at San Francisco with railroad material for this road and vessels are being chartered to transport it from that point to the Bay. Capt. Winant, of the schooner R. B. Hardy, came in with merchandise from Portland a short time ago, and while at the Bay stated that his vessel had been chartered to ply between San Francisco and the Bay in moving the railroad material, and that he would begin operations in a few weeks.
Four large scows have been completed ready for business, and they will be employed in transporting lumber and stone for the improvements going on at Ford's Point.
Alec. Berry, youngest son of A. M. Berry of Jacksonville, accidentally shot himself, with fatal results, while out hunting with a companion on the 4th inst. He was in the act of crossing Bear creek, in a field below the Manzanita bridge, by means of a foot log, when the sad affair occurred. The log was the trunk of a small tree, with some limbs still on it, and the boy was astride of it and going across in that style. His companion, who stood on the bank with both of their guns, handed one of them to his companion, and he unfortunately proceeded to pull it toward him by the muzzle. The butt and top of the gun being the heaviest and the lad not sufficiently strong to handle it, it naturally enough fell on the log with the hammers down, one of which, in drawing the weapon to him caught on a limb, and coming down caused the barrel to go off. The gun was heavily loaded with duck shot and the whole charge struck him just above and to the right of the stomach. Death was almost instantaneous.
The work on the walls and roof of the new insane asylum building, is entirely completed. The cupolas are erected and all of the outside finished, so as to prevent any injury from being done to the building by the storms during the winter. On account of the inclement weather the carpenters and other persons employed, with the exception of the night watchman, have been discharged until spring, when the work will be resumed in earnest and pushed forward to completion. During the interim the heating apparatus and all the plumbing, etc., will be finished.
Simpson Bros., by J. Kruse, are putting up a vessel at North Bend; length 123, width 35, and depth of hold 8 1/2 feet, two masted schooner, and one at Dean & Co's mill, Marshfield, of larger size; by Capt. Reed, for a San Francisco company nearly completed. Another company propose a new vessel at Lobree's mill, making six vessels, mostly this year.
