Job work a specialty at the GUARD office. The Common Council meets next Monday evening. Thursday was the stormiest day of the winter. New styles ladies visiting cards at the GUARD office. Bettman will pay more for chickens in Cash than any one in town. Goldsmith keeps the best line of groceries, and sells them cheap. F. B. Dann will pay the highest market cash price for wheat. The only place where you can always sell your chickens is at Bettman's. The GUARD would prove an acceptable present to some friend in the East. Cash paid for CHICKENS, HIDES, TALLOW and BEES-WAX at A. Goldsmith's. D. Hyman will pay the highest market price in cash for hides, furs, tallow and bees-wax. Several persons from Eugene went down to Junction Monday, to view the ruins of the late fire. Ben Dorris is engaged in the ratting business. He has caught as many as five rats in one trap during a night. The wives of the members of the A. O. U. W. Lodge, of this city, gave a surprise party to the lodge last evening. Mr. S. H. Friendly will pay the highest cash market price for wheat. Give him a call before selling your grain elsewhere. Halls Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer is the most reliable article in use for restoring gray hair to its original color and promoting its growth. Mr. A. V. Peters has removed the partition from his store throwing it all in one room, which gives a better opportunity for displaying his goods. Jas. McFarland, arrested last week by J. B. Underwood Deputy U. S. Marshal, in obedience to a telegram from Portland, was taken below Monday by Al Cook. At the meeting of the Eugene Hook & Ladder Company Monday evening, John Brown was elected to membership; Chas. Horn was granted exemption papers. A countryman and a man in the employ of Mr. Townsend had a scrimmage last Saturday, the countryman coming out second best. A horse trade was the cause of dispute. A Eugene City girl left one of her dresses stuffed with a pillow behind the lace curtain at her window, and fourteen fellows who passed had just as much fun waving their handkerchiefs at it as they would had it been the girl herself. The GUARD office has just received a new stock of letter and bill heads. There is no use of writing your letters and bills on plain paper when you can get a neat business like head printed for but little more than the paper costs. Call and examine our samples. The Blue Ribbon Club met at the Christian Church Wednesday evening and held an interesting session. The recitation by Master Durkee was especially good. The Club elected officers for the year as follows: T. C. Judkins, President; Mrs. A. W. Stowell, Vice President. Impure blood is shown by skin disorders, pimples, swellings, ulcers, etc., also by Liver and Kidney complaints, constipation, piles, indigestion, biliousness, despondency, lassitude, general weakness, and many other symptoms. Purify with King of the Blood. See advertisement. It is an odd circumstance, but nevertheless a true one, that such a wretch as Guinness should make Garfield a hero and a martyr, Chester A. Arthur a President, grant a power behind the throne, Blaine a private citizen, Garfield's family rich, and Scoville a famous lawyer.—Vidette. FIRE AT JUNCTION CITY.

Four Business Houses Burnt. Loss About $15,000; Insurance $11,000.

Junction City seems particularly unfortunate in the way of fires. Another disastrous conflagration, the third within three years, occurred Monday morning about 3:30 o'clock. The fire started near the kitchen of Berry's Hotel, but how is not known. The Chinese cook was up before the commencement of the fire preparing breakfast for the employes of the railroad company that work on the freight train, and some attribute it to his carelessness. In a short time after the discovery, the fine hotel building was enveloped in flames, which communicated with the buildings on the north occupied by J. B. Williams as a saloon, J. W. Heath as a saddle and harness shop, and Al Craig as a saloon, all of which were reduced to ashes. By the strenuous exertions of the citizens the adjoining buildings of Salomon, Mulholland and Baber, were saved. Fortunately there was no wind else the greater portion of the business part of the town would have been destroyed. The hotel building was a three story structure, well finished, and was owned by J. H. Berry, whose loss is placed at $10,000; insurance, $6,000. J. B. Williams, saloon, loss on building, fixtures and stock, $4,000; insurance, $3,500. Al Craig, saloon, stock and fixtures, $300; fully insured. J. W. Heath, loss on saddlery stock, $200; no insurance. McKillep & Millers, one building, loss, $1,000; insurance, $800. R. M. Mulholland, damage to drugs by removal, $300; fully insured. L. Salomon, damage to stock by removal, $300; fully insured. The fire burnt so slow as to allow all except Mr. Berry to remove a considerable part of their goods, else the loss would have been much greater. The insurance adjusters were on hand promptly, and finished their work yesterday morning. It is probable that the burnt district will soon be rebuilt, as it lies in the center of the business part of town.

Sad Accident.

On Saturday last a sad accident occurred in Willamette Forks precinct which resulted in the death of Mrs. Angeline Vaughn, wife of Floyd Vaughn. Mr. Vaughn and wife had been to Harrisburg, and while returning, near the residence of Squire Ward, a dog ran at the heads of the team causing it to turn, which threw Mrs. Vaughn from her seat. In falling her head struck the wheel fracturing the skull and bruising her face, and when Mr. Vaughn had quieted the horses so that he could go to her assistance, life had departed. The deceased was aged 47 years, 10 months and 15 days. Her maiden name was Angeline Baber. She leaves her husband and five children to mourn her sudden and mournful death. Rev. I. D. Driver, by her special request, preached the funeral sermon Saturday, after which her remains were interred in the Odd Fellows cemetery near Coburg.

White vs Red Wheat.

EDITOR GUARD:—I see in your issue of Dec 7th, an article on the merits and demerits of raising red varieties of wheat in Oregon, and more particularly recommending the introduction of that variety known as the Scotch Fife, grown extensively in Minnesota, saying that the farmers of Oregon will probably find it superior to all other varieties. Other red wheats, the Odessa, Lost Nation, Siberian and Rio Grande are mentioned. I am aware that the former letter invited a general discussion of the matter by those interested, and as the merchants, millers, and wheat buyers, those most interested, have failed to reply, I feel it my duty as an agriculturist to say something on this subject. I profess to be a wheat producer and have been for ever forty years. I am also prepared to produce and compete with any State or Nation for the production of the best wheats, thirty kinds if wanted, for I have them, all white varieties, I have also forty or more varieties of the red, but I do not grow them extensively as they are not merchantable for storing or shipping, so that must end the matter at once so far as red wheats are concerned. I have all the varieties the gentleman of Minnesota mentions and recommends, and I find them inferior to the white, and none will bear shipping from Oregon. The Odessa is the best yielder and will make the best flour in the mills of Oregon. The Lost Nation and Rio Grande are among the poorest of red wheats. The Scotch Fife as I received it from Dakota, was badly shrunken, and I believe would not weigh over fifty-five pounds per bushel. Some of the grains appeared as though they had not vitality enough to sprout, and I wonder how any mill could make merchantable flour of such third grade wheat. One year's growth in Oregon however, made quite a difference; it has rather a slim head, medium length, two grains in a mash and those rather far apart. I regard it a poor yielder and would not advise any farmer in Oregon to raise it. The Odessa stands, in my estimation, about number two of red wheats in Oregon. I have one that is better. The Odessa is about first of the red varieties for flouring purposes, that has yet been tried. It was brought to the State several years ago by Mr. Kinney of the Salem mills; he thought it a good wheat and was anxious to get it introduced and for several years gave a premium of five cents per bushel for it. It was extensively raised in Marion, Linn and Polk counties for a time, but now they want no more of it. Two years ago I went to the Salem Mills and told them I understood they were paying five cents a bushel more for the red Odessa than any other; they replied they had been, but wanted no of it. I asked them what wheat they preferred for flouring purposes; they replied, the White Velvet and White Oregon. Again last fall I had a conversation with the first miller and asked what he was doing with the Odessa; he said he did not want to buy it or any other red wheat, but preferred the white. I was also informed that they did not want it at the Oregon City or Albany mills. Mr. Edris of the Eugene Mills informed me that he had two car loads of red wheat rejected at Portland as not merchantable. Mr. Risdon informed me that he had to lose considerable to get rid of red wheat that he sent to Portland. A little over a year ago Mr. Edris hired a miller that was just from the Minnesota mills and he spoke very highly of the flour they were making of the hard red wheats. Mr. Edris told him if he thought he could make a better article of flour out of those varieties than of the white he might experiment in the Eugene Mills; but he soon gave it up as a failure. He then sent for a sample of their best flour, the quality and color of which was much inferior to the Eugene flour. The same miller now wants no more red wheat but believes the soft whites are the best for flouring purposes. Again; before S. B. Eakin, our late Sheriff, went on a visit to the States, he procured over thirty white varieties of me, that I raised last year, to exhibit them in the States wherever he went. I gave him the heads with the threshed; he went to the large Exposition held in Chicago, and said it took the premium over all others; he exhibited it again in Michigan, one of the best noted States East for fine quality of wheat; he writes to me the farmers and millers were surprised; that they could not produce any such article of wheat, and says they all gave it up as the best wheat in their State. He also exhibited it in several counties in Illinois, all with the same result; he also says he is bringing back with him the best samples of Minnesota wheat, and says I will laugh when I see them. Again; we see the "white" varieties at the Centennial successful over all others. The Salem flour made out of white wheats at the same place received the medal for the best flour. At the Paris exhibition our white wheats received the gold medal. Permit me to give the report of the Commissioners of that Exposition, as I have it here in volume 5: "Great credit is due the Oregon State Commission for the full and most excellent samples of that State. The White Velvet and Chile Club, Ninety Day, White Mammoth and Golden Amber wheats were unsurpassed by any other varieties on exhibition." Hence Oregon fairly won the reputation of being one of the foremost wheat producing States of the Union. Now these were all white varieties but one and that was amber in color. This report proves conclusively that the judges estimated the white wheat to be of greater value than the reds furnished by France, England and other nations. I now wish to refer to the latter part of the letter which says there are thousands of bushels of red wheat ground in Lane county every year, and what becomes of the poor flour made from it, saying some of our millers grind poor or bad flour, or if they do, they do not sell or advertise it. I have been informed by a member of them that as a general rule, they prefer mixing it with the white varieties rather than risk it alone. In conclusion I will say I have never yet found a red variety that will yield equal to some white) neither have I found any one that will mature any better on any kind of land than I have whites. I have tried both on land that was covered with water six weeks. I have white varieties that are as hard as flint, and weigh as heavy as any reds, and will yield more per acre. I rather think the mistake is made in this way: they cannot raise these fine white varieties in Minnesota on account of their cold winters freezing them out, hence they are compelled to raise hard flinty red wheats, and make the best out of them. I admit they will make fully as strong flour, but whenever it is brought in competition with flour made from our best white wheats of the Willamette Valley it lacks the fine color. This question of which is the best wheats for the Oregon farmers to raise, red or white varieties, is a very important one, and no one having said anything on the matter, or answered the letter, I deemed it my duty as a farmer and one that believes that white wheats are the safest and best for farmers of Oregon to raise, to answer the same. I now leave the subject for the agriculturists, warehouse men, and millers of Oregon to give their decision, and hope that a majority of them will give us their opinions on this subject. I deem it their duty, and in their behalf I respectfully submit at present, this question, Respectfully yours, GEORGE BELSHAW.

STATE UNIVERSITY.

A column devoted to the interests of the Laurean and Eutaxian Literary Societies, and the State University.

Brevities.

Laurean election next Friday. Some of the books for the new library have arrived. The Physics class under Prof Collier has finished pneumatics. Ninety per cent of the students in the California State Normal School, at San Jose, are ladies. The advanced German class has finished Faust this week and will be ready for examination next. Herbert Johnson has been absent from school for some days on account of an injury occasioned by jumping. Many of the students have joined the I. O. G. T. lodge. The lodge is an excellent place to spend Saturday evenings. There are now seventy-seven members. The question for debate next Friday evening is "Resolved That the salary of the Governor of Oregon should be increased." Leader on the affirmative, Miss Ruby Spiller; negative, Miss Mary McCrack. Rip Van Winkle has come to light at last. He made his appearance in the Political Economy class a few days since. He is about five feet five inches high, weighs about one hundred and eighty pounds and is of very pleasing aspect. That member of the Physics class, who held a lighted match in his hand a few days ago and asked the Professor if he could extinguish it with the jet of a force pump, thinks that piece of apparatus a failure as it shoots about two feet to the left of the mark. A moral lecture appeared in the University column in a late number of the Journal. The purport of this lecture was, that several grave Senators and a thoughtless Junior or two, had gone raft riding on Sunday. The reason for this lecture makes itself apparent when we find that the Laurean editor was the one who got the soaking. We would advise all students who have not studied German to commence at once. It is one of the most interesting studies in the whole course. Some of the first class not being content with one recitation a day, have been seen hanging round the University at all hours even 'til after Faculty meeting, in order to get another word with Prof Straub. The open session of the Laureans was well attended. The question for debate was Resolved, "That Women should be allowed the right of Suffrage in the United States." Leader on the affirmative, Mr. Courtney, assisted by Messrs Neville, Hill and Richards. Leader on the negative, Mr. George Hoyt, with Messrs Mount, Taylor and Fonten. All were most pleased with the spirited manner in which this debate was conducted. We think it among the best that we have ever attended. Mr. Condon, President of the Laureans, has indeed, much cause for congratulation, that the Society has been so prosperous under his reign. After the debate the Society was addressed by Judge Walton, Hon. B. F. Dorris, Prof Condon and Dr. Sharples. The Seniors who are now studying Elocution under Prof Spiller, show that they are improving this excellent opportunity in a manner that does credit both to themselves and their instructor. On Friday the class was taken to the chapel; after reading the "Ode to the Passions" they spent about half an hour in running the gauntlet. This is one of the most difficult exercises in Elocution and requires much drill. The students are all required to commit to memory a declamation. When one goes out to speak all the remaining members of the class do all they can to make him laugh, or in any way break down. Laughter, wit, humor, sarcasm, jumping jacks, anything is fair here provided the speaker is not touched. All acquitted themselves excellently. Mr. George Hoyt and Miss Maggie Sergeant it is said carried off the laurels. Ode to the Bunchgrass Youth. A short time ago In a land you know, In a land where Bunchgrassers dwell, There lived a youth The soul of truth He was, but alas! he fell. And this is how,— I'll tell you now,— From the narrow path he turned:

Into the way

So broad and gay, Till his stative hand he spurned. To the Webfoot vale Over hill and dale In eager haste he rushed, But disasters dire Against him conspire, Till his spirits were well nigh crushed. He studied Greek and Latin names, But forgot the names of Bunchgrass towns; Learned, he sank into a soft repose; And while he slept A feeling crept Around about his toes. When he awoke Thus he spoke As quickly he arose; "Oh! tell me why I feel so spry Around about my toes?" No answer came, But all the same, He felt he could not keep quiet; The books about He searched throughout With the most outrageous riot. Then an idea bright Struck him so light, And he gazed upon each toe; When there for the truth, Did find this youth, That his webs had begun to grow. And now young men take warning all, This is the fate that is sure to befall. Any young man from the Bunchgrass state This is sure to be his fate. Though of Senatorial rank he may be, It makes no difference as you see; He will find sometime his certainly so, That his webs have begun to grow. E. C. LARSEN.
