

A Speculation.

The showmen and others are again studying how they can turn Guiteau to business accounts. A Baltimore man has just offered Marshal Henry $200 for the rope with which Guiteau is to be hanged; and on the very day of the jury's verdict, an Indianapolis tailor telegraphed an offer of a gratis suit of clothes for Guiteau, to be worn upon the day of his execution, if the Marshal would send the measure. Whether this tailor intended to claim the clothes again, after the gallows had done its work, and to stuff them out with straw, putting a head on them, and wax hands, to represent the dead man, and then use the lay figure in his store to try goods on, or in his shop window as an attraction for customers, does not appear in the account. Between the present time and July there will be an increase of these advertising operations, and probably the rope started at $200 will be bid for at greatly increased prices. In all this there is a somewhat heartless disregard for the feelings of that sister who has stuck to her graceless brother with a woman's unwavering fidelity. Still, since by many people even the lingering sickness and death of the murdered President was turned to account for purposes of advertising themselves and their business, nothing less, of course, could be looked for in the case of his murderer.

Fatal Accident.

About 9 o'clock on Wednesday morning, says the Daily Standard, Frank Compton, a carpenter employed on the railroad bridge in course of construction across the Sandy river at Kibbin's Ferry, met with an accident from the effects of which he died in a short time. It seems that Compton, with another man was engaged in guying a heavy stick of timber, when the rope upon which they were hauling broke. Compton's companion succeeded in clinging to the timber of the bridge and saved himself, but he was thrown to the ground a distance of about thirty feet. The contractor came to the city at once to procure a doctor, but his services were not required, as Compton died in an hour and a half after the fall. The body was brought to the city last evening. He is the man who was so badly injured at the time a portion of the bridge across the Santiam was blown down. He was about 28 years of age and leaves a wife and child who reside at Dallas, and a father living at Lebanon, Linn county.

The Utah Contest.

The House committee on judiciary gave a hearing on the 8th inst., to Cannon of Utah, who is contesting the seat which was given to Campbell upon the certificate of the Governor of Utah. Cannon contended that the discrimination against him had been merely and solely on account of the religious tenets of the Mormon church, and that such discrimination is directly opposed to the spirit and letter of the Constitution.

In making change last week, says the Portland Standard, Charley Hellenbrand came into possession of a ten dollar greenback on which was written in a small hand, "The last of $5,000, Young man, beware of strong drink and fast women." This expression though short is full of meaning. Probably when this last bill was spent the poor unfortunate had seen the folly of his recklessness but it was too late.

Ague Cure

Is a purely vegetable bitter and powerful tonic, and is warranted a speedy and certain cure for Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Intermittent or Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, and all malarial disorders. In malarial districts, the rapid pulse, coated tongue, thirst, lassitude, loss of appetite, pain in the back and loins, and coldness of the spine and extremities, are only premonitions of severer symptoms, which terminate in the ague paroxysm, succeeded by high fever and profuse perspiration.

It is a startling fact, that quinine, arsenic and other poisonous minerals, form the basis of most of the "Fever and Ague Preparations," "Specifics," "Syrups," and "Tonics," in the market. The preparations made from these mineral poisons, although they are palatable, and may break the chill, do not cure, but leave the malarial and their own drug poison in the system, producing quinsin, dizziness, ringing in the ears, headache, vertigo, and other disorders more formidable than the disease they were intended to cure. AYER'S AGUE CURE thoroughly eradicates these noxious poisons from the system, and always cures the severest cases. It contains no quinine, mineral, or any thing that could injure the most delicate patient; and its crowning excellence, above its certainty to cure, is that it leaves the system as free from disease as before the attack.

For Liver Complaints, AYER'S AGUE CURE, by direct action on the liver and biliary apparatus, drives out the poisons which produce these complaints, and stimulates the system to a vigorous, healthy condition.

We warrant it when taken according to directions.
