Obltuary.

In our last issue we gave an account of the killing of Samuel J. Lewis in Lake county rhile a mob was trying to lynch Laws. M ears, and was regarded by all who knew him, as a generous hearted upright young man. His parents live on the Mohawk. The State Line Herald has the following concerning the victim

"Samuel J. Lewis, who was mercilessly she down at his post of duty, bravely defending his charge, at Linkville, on the 13th of March, 1882, was about 26 years of age. He has been a resident of this place about three years, com ing from Eugene City, this State. A goodly portion of this time he has been engaged in usiness here in company with T. J. Hickman and for the past two years has been constable of Lakeview precinct, always doing his duty promptly, bravely and thoroughly. He was always kind, companionable and industrious, genial, good-natured and generous—not a single act of his every-day life interposing to or jar that confidence and esteem in which he was universally held. Cut down in the spring of his promising manhood, without a moment's warning, without a chance for his life, with no alternative but to stand and be shot to death by violent mob of blood-thirsty human curs, he has been carried away from earth's frownin uncertainties, its sorrows and its strife to world, let us hope, where merit and worth are truly rewarded, and where grief, and bickering, and discord are happily blended in one joyful chant of blessed contentment. Deceased leaves a brother and other relatives here and at Lake City, California, and parents in Lane county this State, together with hosts of friends wher ever he was known, to lament his untimely aking off. May his ashes rest in peace!"

Elevators.

An exchange has the following concerning the elevators which it is proposed shall be in troduced in Oregon:

The elevators to be erected in Oregon an Washington Territory will consist of various kinds. In the country they will be houses have ing one story about 20 feet high, provided with receivers into which the farmer will put his grain in bulk. This will be taken by elevating machines consisting of endless belts with metal buckets similar to those used in flour mills and discharged into cleaning machines for separating the refuse parts. From the cles machines it will be lifted by elevating machine to the top of the building, weighed and ther deposited in storage bins and held for shipment. The storage bins are about 12 feet square and 50 feet deep, with conical bottoms. When the farmer deposits his grain there will be given to him a warehouse receipt, upon which he ca obtain an advance in cash from any bank or broker, equal to about 75 per cent. of the mar ket value of his grain. The warehouse compa my is responsible for that weight of grain and is bound to keep it in good order. Whenever the owner of the grain wishes to send it to the ard for sale or shipm at it is discharge from the storage bins, elevated, weighed and spouted into box cars, and carried to the sea ard. The transportation company is bound to deliver the exact weight of grain shipped.

Reward Offered.

The reward offered by the Lane County sportsmens Club of $25 for the arrest and conviction of any person violating the game laws of Oregon in this county still holds good and that amount will be promptly paid on the punishment of any such offender. It should be understood that the law for the protection of small game, such as groune-pheasants, quails and ducks comes in force to-day and expires August 1st. Anyone pursuing, capturing or killing, during that time, game birds, is guilty of misdemeanor and liable to fine. A derelict law permits a person during even the close season to shoot game for his own table, but in no ways allows the giving away or selling of same or the shooting of more game than the shooter can consume. It seems that all true lovers of the sport, having in view the increase rather than the extermination of our beautiful game birds would, in place of persecuting grouse, pheasants and quails during the short time allotted them for propogating their depleted numbers, would either for hu manities sake hang up their guns or turn their attention to the hordes of gerse which do much damage at this season of the year to crops, and which afford good sport. many will continue to violate the laws, insufficient as they are, and it will afford the Club much pleasure to pay the above reward. The same amount is also offered for violators of the deer law forbidding the destroying of deer till September 1st, or their killing at any time solely for the purpose of

The Wheat Question.

EDITOR GUARD:-In Mr Huston's reply to my wheat letter there are only one or questions that deserve further notice, and the most particular one is where I said that slarm of fire about 10:30 P. M., Tuesday. It the red wheats were not merchantable. He wants to know the reason why they are not merchantable for shipping and storing; again he says, "why is not the splendid red wheats of Oregon, weighing sixty-five pounds to the measured bushel, fit for storing or shipping here or anywhere else or main question he wants answered; he says to know why. For further proof I wrote to one amongst the largest shipping firms in Oregon to get their answer in this matter, and this is the letter:

MR BELSHAW, Dear Sir:-As you wish me to give the relative merits of the differ ent varities of wheats and why red wheats are not merchantable, I will say it is because they will not make as white a quality of flour as our white wheats. Our white wheat is sold at a premium in all foreign markets for the purpose of mixing and giving color to flour made from red wheats. As you wish me to state the relative values of white and red wheats in other markets, I will say that from personal knowledge, I will speak of the Odessa, a red variety which is grown more extensively in this county than any other, and has more friends than any other variety of red wheat; the amount produced soon made it evident that we must find some other market then our local millers, so in the fall of 1880 I sent three samples of this variety to as many firms in Liverpool, and requested that they quote us its selling value in that market, and the reply from all three was the same, "from three to four shillings on the quarter below our best white wheat. And now our local millers will only buy a limited amount of it for mixing. Again, millers and warehousemen are all discouraging the raising of red wheats in this county For shipment to fareign markets it never can compete with our best varieties of white wheats. Any one that will take the trouble to examine the San Francisco produce exchange reports of values will see that all amber colors or red wheat are quoted from five to ten cents on the central below the club, which is not equal to our white velvet or the old white fall wheat introduced here by the Hudson Bay Company. Respectfully Yours.

W. J. HERREN. Here is a letter from a large shipper of heat to England and proves conclusively why the red wheats are not merchantable here, and in Liverpool or London, simply because they cannot make as fine a quality of flour out of them as from our best whiteraised in Oregon; hence have to be sold at a less price which makes them not merchantable. I have still further proofs at hand of their merits as to flour. Mr Stewart Eakin has just returned from the Eastern States bringing back some of their patent flour made from their red wheats; he gave me a sample, we both went down to the Eugene mill as I wanted to compare it with flour made from our white wheats; when we arrived at the mill they were grinding some white velvet of my own raising, which I had previously sold to a person; we compared the two flours, and it was very easy to see that the patent flour from the States made from red wheats could not compare in color and fineness. Any one wishing to see the quest that the improvements be distributed two flours can do so by calling at my house for I have them labelled, and I they can be seen at the mill as Mr. Eaking left some there. Here again are Liverpool quotations, in the Willamotte Farmer of March 17th: California white club, per cental, highest, 10s 10d; lowest, 10s 7d; American red, highest, 9s 8d; lowest, 9s 2d. In conclusion I will say that I have nothing to say in regard to Mr. Huston's land being better adapted as he believes to produging red wheats, as I am not acquainted with the quality of its soil. But I do say that whe ever raises any more than will supply ou local market will raise it at a loss for ship ping. I will say that further, I have five different qualities of seil on my farm and I have white varieties that will mature and fill mere perfect than any reds I have ever yet tried, and I have something near fifty of each.

Respectfully Yours,

Guenne Resunan.
