

State Vote.

The Standard gives a table showing the vote of the State which it claims is taken from official returns as follows: Congressman, George, 20,259; Fenton, 17,078; Rep. maj., 3,181. Governor, Moody, 19,244; Smith, 18,137; Rep. maj., 1,107. Secretary of State, Earhart, 19,690; Weatherford, 17,410; Rep. maj., 2,280. Treasurer, Hirsch, 18,569; Abraham, 16,430; Rep. maj., 2,139. Supreme Judge, Lord, 18,958; Shattuck, 17,830; Rep. maj., 1,120.

An Idle Pretence.

One of the banners displayed at the Philadelphia convention of Independent Republicans bore the legend: "The cause for which Garfield died must not be lost." The delegates and spectators could hardly fail to have been puzzled had they been required to formulate precisely what that meant. Everybody understands that the late President died by the hand of a crank. That he died from any particular cause is very far from being generally understood. The idea intended to be conveyed by the imaginative historian who conceived the above legend is that General Garfield was a martyr to his zeal for civil service reform. But Guiteau's "inspiration" grew out of the factional excitement produced by the President's removal of Collector Meritt in the middle of his term, to make way for Robertson, who desired official reward for political services. As Meritt was admittedly a faithful, capable and energetic officer, for whose retention the mercantile community had interceded, and as Mr. Robertson was a politician nominated solely to satisfy Blaine and the Half-breeds, the inscription would have been more intelligible had it read: "The cause for disregarding which Garfield died, must not be lost." It is evidently the game of the Half-breeds to falsify history for the next campaign. They are reckoning upon the people having short memories.—Examiner.

Guiteau's last chance is gone, except the vain hope on his part the President will interpose and prolong his life for a time. Justice Bradley, of the U. S. Supreme Court, has denied the application for a writ of habeas corpus, and there is nothing more for Guiteau's lawyers to do. All the questions that the courts could settle have been disposed of, and as there is no probability whatever that President Arthur will interfere, the wretch will have to die on the 30th of this month, a year lacking two days from the time he fired the fatal shot at the honored head of the nation. Had the same thing been done in any of the countries of Europe, the assassin would have atoned for his crime long ago. But really the word atone is a misnomer as applied to the execution of Guiteau for murdering Garfield. Ten thousand lives like his would be no compensation for a hair of his victim's head, and yet there are men and women, gushing fools, who are trying to save the wretch's neck.

George Fawcett completed in April last his forty-seventh year of service in the English Post Office as a rural messenger. From 1835 to 1842 he rode between Sedburgh and adjacent stations, carrying mails in this way a total distance of 67,160 miles. From 1842 to 1882 he has walked daily between Sedburgh and Dent, thus traversing 176,200 miles. His entire travel as postman foots up 243,360 miles, nearly ten times the distance round the earth, and 2,360 miles further than from the earth to the moon.

On the last day of May eight steamers landed at Castle Garden 5,955 immigrants, the largest number ever received in one day. Among them were sixty silk weavers from Marseilles, and over a hundred millers from Hamburg. The total arrivals for May, 90,019, outnumbered those of the entire year of 1876 or of 1878.

The number of electors in Great Britain and Ireland is only 3,134,721, distributed as follows: England 2,591,402; Ireland 228,278; and Scotland 315,121. Birmingham is the largest constituency, having 64,051 electors; Liverpool is next, with 62,039; and Manchester third with 53,042.

A cargo of frozen meat from New Zealand arrived in London on May 26th, making the passage in ninety-eight days. It consisted of 5,000 sheep and was found in excellent condition.

More Mahoneism.

The Mahone reputation scheme, as worked in Virginia, meets, in its peculiar purity, the views of President Arthur's administration to such an extent that an attempt is to be made to Mahoneize Texas. A Dallas special to the Republican of June 3d, states that circulars have already been received from administration circles at Washington looking to a Mahone movement in that State. These circulars, which favor Wash Jones for Governor, are sent to Republicans, Greenbackers and Independents, with a request that a list be forwarded of the counties that can be carried against the Democrats, those that are doubtful, and the amount of money needed in a vigorous, red-hot campaign. This Mahone element is an unknown quantity in Texas, but it is not likely they will be able to accomplish very much against the Democratic majority in that State. Still, there is great potency in the influence and money of the administration, and it will not be surprising if the two combined show some startling results.

Senator Van Wyck offered a resolution in the Senate, the other day, to the effect that the Republican campaign circulars asking contributions of Government employees for political purposes is in violation of a statute, and calling for an inquiry into the matter. The resolution was promptly objected to and defeated, which is queer, seeing that the law of the land is being openly violated. That law, by the way, was passed when the Democrats were in control. The Republicans filibustered against it and are now treating it as a dead letter. Without the offices to assess and the corporations to levy upon, the Republicans would cut a sorry sight in campaign times.

The latest disgraceful Readjuster development in Virginia is the fact that a New York banknote engraving company contributed five thousand dollars to the campaign fund of the Mahoneites, on condition that it should have the contract to print the new bonds. A lower bid having been received, the Auditor endeavored to prevent the bidder getting the contract by charging him with offering a bribe. This is a specimen of the ugly developments taking place in connection with the sweet scented gang of so-called reformers who now control the destinies of old Virginia, and yell so lustily for a "free ballot and a fair count."

The Ohio Republicans are becoming very much alarmed, and some of their papers admit that the Democrats are almost certain of victory. The chief trouble comes from the Arthur Administration. The Ohio man in politics is no longer a power in the land. Up in the Buckeye State they do not like the way the New Yorker is playing out all the Hayes and Garfield men.

The King of Siam has recently built a palace at a cost of $1,000,000. The furniture is being put into it, and the statistics of the articles are given in the form of weight, the total weight being 400 tons and the total cost is not far from $500,000, which is not especially dear for elegant furniture, being less than sixty-five cents a pound.

While almost exactly two-thirds of the United States House of Representatives are lawyers, in the English House of Commons only one-sixth of the members belong to the legal profession.

Holloway Pills—What is Life Insurance?
Apoplexy, &c.—Many people insure their lives to benefit their families by death—how paradoxical is this. To prolong life by preserving the health would be a far more rational manner of assuring it. Apoplexy is swift and insidious in its attacks, striking its victim without a moment's warning! Happily a preventive has been discovered—Holloway Pills—the only safe and certain antidote for this disease, they cool the blood and equalize its circulation through the system. To preserve the stomach in a sound condition and the blood pure is the true secret of health—Holloway's Pills will do this most effectually, and thousands owe their actual existence to them at the present day.
IMPORTANT NOTICE.—None are genuine unless the signature of J. HAYDOCK surrounds each box of Pills and Ointment. Boxes at 25 cents, 50 cents and $1 each.

King of the Blood

It is not a "new pill"—it is a blood purifier and tonic. Impurity of blood poisons the system, deranges the circulation, and thus induces many diseases, known by different names to distinguish them according to effects, but being really branches of diseases of the great generic character, Impurity of Blood. Such are Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Obstruction, Nervous Disorders, Headache, Backache, General Weakness, Heart Disease, Dropsy, Kidney Disease, Piles, Eruptions, Catarrhs, Scrophulous Skin Disorders, Rheumatism, Gout, Stricture, &c. &c. It purifies the blood, prevents and cures these by attacking the cause, impurity of the blood. Cures and expels acids in calling it "the most genuine and efficient preparation for the purpose." Sold by Druggists. $1 per bottle. See testimonials, directions, &c. in pamphlet, "Treatise on Impurity of the Blood," wrapped around each bottle.
