STATE NEWS.

Union is to have a bank.
Marion county has only four papers.
A 43 pound salmon has been caught at Coos Bay.

Salem has 627 school children registered in her public schools.
Eight thousand bushels of wheat are received at Salem daily.

Thirty brood mares were sold in La Grande one day last week for $20,000.
Virtue's bank in Baker City, bought $27,000 worth of gold-dust during August.

Laborers are in great demand in Baker City. The wages range from $2 upwards.

Clackamas county has a man named E. Hatch who has celebrated his 90th birthday.

A Baker County man lost a pocket book containing $500, and it was returned to him.

The deaf and dumb school opened at Salem recently with a larger attendance than ever before.

The American ship Astoria has arrived in Astoria, 161 days from New York, with railroad iron.

Lewis Ross of Salem lately had the bone torn out of his left fore finger. Amputation was necessary.

Seventeen dollars a ton is paid for hay by logging camps on the Sound, and it is scarce at that price.

The Hillsboro Tribune makes an estimate that $20,000 worth of property has been destroyed by fire.

The Blue Mountain University opens on Monday October 20th, with Mr. Irvin, late of Illinois, as professor.

Rev. James Miller, who lives near Yoncalla, Douglas county, since 1852, died on the 2d inst., aged 64 years.

The citizens of Baker City can set on their perches and smile upon the snow hills not many miles distant.

Mr. F. G. Harding, who lives in Yamhill county, had a barn containing implements, grain and hay destroyed by fire.

Albany had a saloon row last week. The proprietor of the saloon refused to permit a man named Petty to play cards for money, when he struck the aforesaid proprietor, and was arrested and paid $10 fine.

Two ladies of Looking Glass precinct, Douglas county, circulated a remonstrance against a certain petition to obtain license at the present term of court to sell liquor, and beat it two to one.

W. B. Todhunter, who lives in the southern part of Grant county, is building a large stone barn. Some idea of its size can be formed from the fact that it takes 80,000 shingles to cover the roof, and 32,000 feet of lumber for cross beams, rafters, etc.

S. G. Erench, a wealthy bachelor whose death lately occurred in the East while on a visit, has given the most valuable farm in the Cove to a school for young ladies. The buildings for the school will be erected soon. This school farm contains 34,000 prunes and plum trees and the proceeds from the sale of fruit is enormous, some $10,000 a year.

Rock Creek valley west of LaGrande will furnish homes it is said for 5,000 people. It is a great place for summer grazing. At least 25,000 sheep are at present on this range. It is well irrigated by mountain streams, making it the coolest kind of place in the summer. Grass is in abundance. It is very thinly settled, but those who have homes in it speak very highly of its natural advantages.

The Third Annual Fair of the Grant County Agricultural Society is adjourned without day. The directors of the society held a meeting at Mt. Vernon last Thursday and concluded that it would be best not to have any fair this year, but expressed the hope that everything will be favorable for a good one next season. The reasons for abandoning the fair at this late day are various, but the principal one is the unexpected absence from the county of several horses that were expected to enter for the races.

Singular Phenomena.

Under this heading the Salem Talk publishes a rather marvelous story, which we will re-publish for the benefit of our readers. Here it is:

"A party of threshers on North prairie, about nine miles below the city, were thrown into a state of excitement last Saturday afternoon by a singular antic indulged in by the 'Beautiful Willamette,' which stream runs but a short distance from where they were working. At this point of the river is a ripple showing shallow water from bank to bank, and at this stage of water can easily be forded by a man on horseback. The river upon this particular afternoon, up to about two o'clock, seemed to be pursuing the 'even tenor of its way' toward the sea, when all of a sudden, without any unusual disturbance, the river stopped running just above the ripples, the water disappeared into the earth and leaving below the point of disappearance on the bar the entire bed of the river bare for a distance of about 500 feet. Below the bare ground the river still flowed on as tranquilly as ever. To say that that the beholders were 'set back' by the circumstance is to put it mildly. The workmen stopped their labors to discuss the matter and some of them walked to the place where the water had stopped its onward 'march to the sea.' The examination seemed to show that the bed of the river above the rapids had broken through and that there was a subterranean passage under the rapids passing the water to the river below. This remarkable phenomena lasted for about three hours, when the river again resumed its natural condition and the water again bubbled over the pebbly bottom of the rapids as before."

A Consumptive's Fight for Life.

A. H. Barnes of Reno, Nevada, fights off consumption by wearing a silver tube which passes between the ribs to the lungs. In 1849 Mr. Barnes, then living in Sycamore, DeKalb county, Illinois, was declared an incurable consumptive. The lung was tapped and he recovered. In 1863 he was again taken down by the disease, when he once more resorted to the tube and has worn it ever since. There is a daily discharge of matter. Mr. Barnes is a man of very regular and temperate habits, does not use tobacco in any form nor stimulants of any kind, hardly ever uses any medicines, excepting sometimes a little iron for the blood; is always well when the hole in his side is open, sometimes feeling a heaviness there, but has got use to that. This case is certainly worthy the attention of medical men. It seem to give a man a new lease of life even when apparently as good as dead.

Practical Joke.

A wicked story is told by the Philadelphia Record about a joke which was played upon Mr. J. A. Hubbell and the Republican committee. Thinking that the political assessment circular afforded means of amusement, he forwarded to Washington the names of the twelve cats kept in the Philadelphia office, with a complaint that while other employes had been assessed they had escaped. So when a few days later letters came, a sample one which was addressed to "Miss Sallie Binn, Post-office, Philadelphia, Penn.," the joke was almost complete. The consummation came when the senior clerk in the office had a black and white tabby placed on the stamping table, and read to her the circular of the Congressional Committee, intimating that 2 percent. was about a fair contribution from Miss Sallie's salary.

The Barkentine C. C. Funk, recently built at Marshfield, left that place for San Francisco lumber laden a few days since. She was built at a cost of $35,000 and will carry 750,000 feet of lumber. The assessor and tax collector caught the Funk for $242 taxes. Capt. Glaser paid the money last Saturday under protest, the owners of the property claiming that she was taxable in San Francisco.

At Elkton, on Saturday, last week, Mrs. A. W. Cox met with an accident which caused a very painful though not dangerous wound. She fell from the porch of the store of Beckley Bros., striking a 4-inch scantling, which almost completely severed her nose from her face. A physician was called who dressed and sewed up the wound, and left the sufferer in as comfortable condition as possible.
