STATE NEWS.

Lafayette is to have a fire company. The Yambill at Sheridan is lower than it has been for thirty years.
The assessment roll of Clackamas is completed, and the taxable property of the county is $400,000 more than it was last year.
It has been decided to build a bridge across the south fork of the John Day river, a much needed and quite costly improvement.
The mail from Harney to Prineville is carried on horseback and there is no provision for taking passengers.
George Myres, of West Chehalis, harvested a field of oats that gave 100 bushels to the acre. The seed used in the field cost $3 75 per bushel.
The house of Benj. Wade, two miles from Wilhoit was burned recently. The owners were absent, and everything they had except the clothes they wore was destroyed.

The tax levy of Clackamas county for the current year is 20 mills, $1 for State and 11 1/2 for county purposes. The salary of Superintendent of schools for that county has been raised from $250 to $300 per year.
The amount of land sown to wheat in Umatilla county this fall greatly exceeds that of any preceding year. Several farmers will seed 2,000 acres or more each, and quite a number will plant 1000 acres each. With a favorable season, Umatilla county will have an immense surplus crop next year.
The Oregon City council at its last meeting completed arrangements for the purchase of 500 feet of hose at $1 13 per foot, and 100 feet of cotton rubber lined hose at 90 cents per foot. The latter is an experiment for city purposes, although it has been used for some time in the woolen mills.

Grant County News: There are, it is said, 200,000 sheep in the mountains between Susanville and Heppner. The Umatilla sheep owners are not at all bashful about bringing their sheep into this county to eat up the range, while they pay taxes in Umatilla county, although their flocks remain there but a few months of the year.
Two women, wife and sister of a man named Stanley, living on Birch Creek, Umatilla county, last week attempted to commit suicide by taking laudanum. The reason assigned was their desire to rid themselves of trouble of which, according to accounts, they had more than their share in life. Prompt and faithful medical attendance restored them to life.

Joe Hedges, of Canemah, has been appointed by the county coroner for Clackamas county. Dr. Kessler, of Oswego, was elected at the last election, but failed to qualify, being willing to allow Dr. Parker, the old coroner, to occupy the office. The code says that the coroner shall hold his office until his successor is elected and qualified, and the impression is that Dr. Parker is the coroner and that no power can remove him. Dr. Parker will not give up his position unless compelled to, being willing to test the question on principle.

BRIEF MENTION.

A man proposes and the girl weighs his pocket book and decides.
Secretary of State R. P. Earhart has re-appointed Mr. Frank E. Hodgkin assistant.
Six young ladies have just completed a journey across North Carolina (420 miles) on foot.
Lieutenant Flipper, dismissed from the United States army, has been appointed a captain in Mexico.
No, you cannot raise chickens from egg plants. You might as well try to raise calves from a cow catcher.
One of the jury in the Star Route cases was seen on Pennsylvania Avenue in a beastly state of intoxication.
In the next two months the Government will disburse $25,000,000 in pensions and payment of bonded debts.
The reception of Mrs. John Brown at Chicago last week netted $211 for her, and the amount will be increased to $1,500 by subscription in that city.

Marching on Washington.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The virtual proclamation made by the National Republican in favor of the admission to the next National Convention of the Republican party of delegates, "who are opposed to the restoration of the Bourbon Democracy," is pursuant to purposes which may give the next Presidential canvass some unlooked-for features. The editor of the Republican is Gen. Mahone's servicable and trusted friend. His is no idle talk. It is another stage in the development of what, for the want of a better phrase, may be called Mahonism.
The able and tireless Virginia leader contemplates a wider field of operation than that shorn State affords. His ambition looks to a higher seat than the United States Senate. No honors but those of the Presidency itself will satisfy him: The country does not yet understand Gen. Mahone. His friends and intimates claim for him a higher capacity for leadership than has generally been accorded to him: They point to his success at every step since he set up for himself in his own State. Go to Virginia, among his followers, and you will witness admiration and devotion which leave no doubt that Mahone's followers are perfectly sincere when they speak of his leadership and capabilities as Napoleonic! Whatever in other places may be thought or said, they will not give an inch from this line. With them, who is the coming man is a settled question. Whatever audacity can achieve they feel sure of; only they describe it otherwise. Hence the proclamation in favor of throwing wide open the doors of the next Republican Convention is no idle talk. Nor does it matter so much whether it is done or not. The plan contemplates the possibility of its being done; but specially the probability that it will not be done.

The purpose whereof this is an indication might or might not be aided by throwing the doors of the Convention open to all comers proclaiming themselves enemies of Bourbonism. It is deemed a point of policy to make the proposition, but it is in no manner essential to the ends in view that the doors be so opened.

The march of event, according to the view and the plan whereof the proclamation referred to is but a speech by the way, will, in the belief of the engineers, be onward and triumphant all the same!

Make way for Mahone, the anti-Bourbon leader, whose followers declare their intention to march on to Washington.

Eloping with a Colored Man's Wife.

NORWICH, Aug. 30.—Horace Cushing, a handsome young foundryman of Cambridgeport, came to work in the Norwich Iron Foundry about four months ago. He boarded with Chas. Congdon, a spruce colored waiter, who is employed in the Seaside Pavilion, at Osprey Beach. Congdon was much away from home, and in his absence the foundryman made love to his wife. Congdon suspected nothing. Four weeks ago Cushing returned to Cambridgeport, owing his host $60 for board. He wrote frequent letters to Mrs. Congdon, filled with expressions of love. Last Saturday morning Mrs. Congdon asked her husband to carry her valise to the depot, as she intended a trip to a country town—Franklin, near Norwich, where she has relatives. When Congdon returned from Osprey Beach Saturday night he found that his wife had taken $6, his watch, and most of the clothing in the house and fled to Providence. He learned later that Cushing met her at Providence, where they passed Sunday, going to Cambridgeport together on Monday morning.

The Newburgh Poker Game.

CHICAGO, Sep. 4.—Dr. M. M. Hedges of Newburgh, N. Y., who with the aid of Mr. Scott won $450,000 from Francis P. Weed at draw poker and faro, arrived here yesterday on a visit to Mr. Scott, who is still ill.
Dr. Hedges converses very freely about the matter. "The condition of the suit suits me," he said. "They don't seem in a hurry, and would not accomplish anything if they were. We have a solid defence in the civil suits. The law makes gambling losses recoverable only within three months of the play. That shuts Weed out. The Commissioner of the Poor might bring suit under an old law to recover the money, but that would be like any other action for debt, and he would have to find the money before he could recover it. At all events no such suit has been brought yet. There are still the indictments for conspiracy and gambling, but I am not growing thin worrying about them."
"Then you don't propose to give up any of your winnings?"
"Not much," Dr. Hedges replied, firmly and contemptuously. "No, sir; that money was fairly won. Weed was not such a sucker as he is supposed to be. He played a pretty solid hand of draw. Why, he taught me the game! The first poker hand I ever sat behind he dealt."
"Would he ever bet his hand sometimes?"
"Well, yes; he bet against wild sometimes. That's the way the pot ran so high that particular night. If he had been sensible he would have held up to see some cash in sight."
"How about the faro game. Was it square?"
"Oh, it was all square enough. He was clear overboard at poker, and we wanted some arrangement for the security of what he owed us on that game before we played any more at any game. He made a settlement that was satisfactory, and demanded satisfaction, choosing faro. We had not the proper tools for the game. The cards were dealt out of hand, without a layout or a cue box. He bet wildly, got clean rattled, and went to pieces. There was not much money of any account bet on either side. Still, what cash we got we are going to hold on to."

Paid a Bill.

Detroit Free Press.
A Detroit lawyer took in a new boy the other day, and as he had suffered to some extent from the deceptions of the former one, he decided to try the new lad's honesty at once. He therefore placed $15 in bills under a paper weight on his desk and walked out without a word. Upon his return, half an hour later, the bills were gone and seventy-five cents in silver had taken their place.
"Boy! when I stepped out to get a draft or London I left $15 under this weight!"
"Yes, sir."
"And now I find only seventy-five cents!"
"Yes, sir, but you see you hadn't been gone five minutes when a man came in with a bill against you of $14.25, and I paid it, I guess the change is correct."
"You—paid a bill!"
"Yes, sir; there it is, all receipted. The man said it had slipped your mind for the last four years, and so—"
He didn't get no further before he was rushed for the stairs, and he isn't in the law business any more.
