The Completed Link.

The Portland Standard gives the following account of the departure of the first passenger train from that city on the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co's line:

Sunday was a day that will long be remembered by the citizens of Portland as commemorating the arrival of the first through train of passenger cars over the Oregon Railway and Navigation company's line. The train arrived at Bonneville at the usual time and transferred the passengers to The Dalles boat for this city. The train then continued on down, bringing a few railroad officials and passenger coaches, one Pullman and two baggage cars. Engine No 33 pulled the entire outfit. Engine 38 was detailed into pilot service and at about 11 o'clock went up the road several miles to escort the newly arriving train into quarters. She was decorated with flags and evergreens and was quite tastily draped. At twenty minutes past two they arrived and switched down to the incline and transferred the passengers to the newly constructed ticket office. There was no ferry or steamer waiting to meet them, but it was noticeable that several of the company's steamboats were steaming up, and it was not long before a steambot was along side the incline and passengers were quickly and safely landed at the long dock. Shortly after the Reel hoist in sight, bearing passengers and mail. As the time for the arrival of the train was not definitely known, but few people were present when it pulled in. At present the facilities for transferring freight and passengers from Albina to the Ainsworth dock are not complete, but things are being put in shape as rapidly as possible. The large floating dock which has done service at The Dalles, and being brought down over the Cascades, did service at Bonneville for a few months past, was towed up to Albina yesterday and moored at the foot of the incline. The transfer of freight commenced immediately. The first through freight arrived on Saturday, and two more followed the passenger train Sunday.

The engine (33) was decorated with a steel engraving of Henry Villard as a headlight, framed in a wreath of evergreens. Flags of all sizes fluttered through the wind. Fir boughs ornamented every available place. Altogether it presented an appearance which will not soon be forgotten, and adds another to the events in the progress of the northwest.

Henceforth and forever will the trains leave our city daily. No more will we deplore the non arrival of our Eastern Oregon mail. No more will the tourist tell of our beautiful Columbia river scenery. Gone are those days spent with Dan O'Neil and his genial assistants. This is an age of progress, and but few will take the slow but pleasant steamers.

AFEX.

AFTER MANY DAYS.—Says the Prineville News: At last the dreadful suspense is ended, and sleepless nights, and days of mortal agony are things of the past. Gov Moody has made his appointments of Crook county officials, which are as follows: S G Thompson, Judge; Chas Cartwright and Ben Allen, Commissioners; Geo Churchill, Sheriff; Gus Winkler, Treas; S T Richardson, Clerk; H Dillard, Supt of Schools; S J Newsom, Surveyor; Frank Allen, Assessor; R Graham, Coroner. In the case of Mr Graham a joke was perpetrated which put him in nomination for this office, as he emphatically refused to have anything to do with the convention, or nominations, inasmuch as he anticipates stopping in the county a few months only, and the appointment was made through misinformation. Further comments will not be indulged. We sincerely hope that the people will be as well pleased with the appointments as the officers are.

A GOOD SELECTION.—Dr. A L Nicklin has accepted the position of resident physician of the Oregon Insane Asylum at East Portland in place of Dr. Nottage resigned. Dr. Nicklin takes charge at once, and will leave Eugene City in a few days for that purpose. We regret to lose the valuable services of Dr. Nicklin from our city and vicinity. He has been with us for the past eight or ten years and during these years has established a fine reputation as a skillful physician and is regarded by all who know him as a man of high attainments in his profession and withal a fine gentleman. May he meet with unbounded success in his new field of labor.

COMPLETED.—The painting of the Court House is completed and improves the appearance of that edifice considerably. The work was superintended by Mr J B Rhinehart, and is well done.

STAR ROUTE WITNESSES.—Mr Al Powers will soon start on another trip to Washington where he has been commissioned to appear as a witness in the Star Route trial.
