One of the arguments in favor of a future life is based on these inequalities of the present life, which man's moral sense asserts ought to be remedied somewhere. The following sketch confined to the country. from the New York Commercial Advertiser presents one of these suggestive inequalities:

"Who is the well-dressed man with sealskin overcoat, hat and gloves! He carries a gold-headed cane, and is followed by a scarlet blanket. Do you know him?"

"Oh, yes; that is Slugger, the pugilist. Fine man. Hard hitter. Very popular. Always surrounded by crowd of admiring friends, as you see him now. He is very well off; was given a benefit the other night, which netted him five hundred dollars."

"Indeed! he is a very fortunate fellow. Ranks high in his profession,

"Who is that white headed, wearylooking old man, close behind the pugilist and his friends? Poor man! he seems thinly elad for this wintry weather. Do you know him?"

"Oh, yes, that is old Faithful, a country clergyman. Very learned man, penitentiary by forgetting the same. they say. Been a preacher of the gospel all his life, but poor as a rat. He had a benefit, too, the other night."

"Oh, indeed! Did it net him much?" "I don't think it did. You see, it was a sort of a surprise party. His ed for the present. parishioners called upon him in a body. ate up everything there was in the house and left him presents to the amount of sixty cents."

A Juvenile Poisoner.

A letter was received last eyening by Sheriff George C. Sears of this city from J. T. Storrs, Sheriff of Wasco county. The letter announces the departure from The Dalles of a girl named Loctic Price, who appears to have a mania for poisoning people. She is about 10 years of age, and was taken from the Orphans' home in this city by Mrs. E. Shields about nine months ago and given a home with that lady at The Dalles. Some time ago Lottie commenced to poison dogs about that town and soon thinned out the canine population. On the 12th of the present month the girl administered a dose of strychnine to Mrs. Shields, but fortunately that lady discovered the deadly intent of the girl in time to save herself from death. The lady declined to institute legal proceedings, and the young poisoner was permitted to return to Portland, where she is supposed to have arrived yesterday. The letter was sent to warn the mation of the Home, Mrs. Woods, to be on her guard, as the girl might poison all the inmates of that institution. It is feared that if she has obtained a home in some family here that she will proceed to administer a dose of strychnine to her benefactors. Look out for her.—Portbenefactors. Look out for her. -- Portnamed Johnson. One evening last summer Johnson was making his way through the bushes, pushing a wheelbarrow, and being tired, sat down on the side of the wheelbarrow and lighted his pipe for a quiet smoke. At this juncture Sniley fired at him from the roadside, inflicting wounds from which he died. Smiley claimed that he mistook Johnson and his wheelbarrow, in the darkness for a bear. The jury, it appears, did not take it as a proper excuse. The case was given to the jury at 5 o'clack Thursday night, and after three hours' deliberation, came in with a verdict of guilty of manslaughter. The prisoner will receive his sentence on Tuesday next. The penalty is from one to fifteen years in the penitentiary. A deer story comes next. The same court has one more case of accidental shooting, being that of a young man named West shooting young Bledsoe, mistaking him for a deer.

The circumstances of Mrs. McCoy's death, says the Albany Democrat, are exceedingly sorrowful. She had been in fair health up to about the time of her death. On Saturday, Feb. 3d, she had come to Albany, and in coming or going from hers, had caught a severe cold, but nothing serious was apprebended from it. On last Saturday merning about three o'clock she had awakened her husband and took some medicine, after which they went to sleep again, but the sleep Mrs. McCoy took was the long one which knows no waking. When Mr. McCoy awoke at aix o'clock his wife was lying beside stock of gold and civer watches, gold chains, jewelry, silver ware and clocks over brought to Eugene. Come and see.
