PECK'S SUN.

The Bad Boy Gets the Old Man into Trouble.

"When pa and I got to Chicago," said the bad boy, "we walked around town all day and went to the stores, and at night pa was awful tired, and he put me to bed in the tavern and he went out to walk around and get rested. I was not tired, and I walked all around the hotel. I thought pa had gone to the theatre, and that made me mad, and I thought I would play him for all I was worth. Our room was 210 and the next room 212, and there was an old maid with a Scotch terrier occupied 212. I saw her twice, and she called me names, 'cause she thought I wanted to steal her dog. That made me mad at her, and so took my jack-knife and drew the tacks out of the tin thing that the numbers were painted on, and put the old maid's number on our door and our number on her door, and then I went to bed. I tried to keep awake, so as to help pa if he had any difficulty, but guess I got asleep, but woke up when the dog barked. If the dog had not woke me up the woman's scream would, and if that hadn't pa would. You see, pa come in from the theatre about twelve and he had been drinking. He says everybody drink when they go to Chicago, even the minister. Pa looked at the numbers on the doors all along the hall till he found 210, and walked right in and pulled off his coat and threw it on the lounge where the dog was. The old maid was asleep, but the dog barked, and pa said, 'That cussed boy has bought a dog!' and he kicked the dog, and then the old maid woke up and said, 'what is the matter, pet?' He laughed and said: 'Nothin's the matter with me, pet,' and then you ought to have heard the yelling. The old maid covered her head and kicked and yelled, and the dog snarled and bit pa on the pants, and pa had his coats and vest off and his suspenders unbuttoned, and he got scared and took his coat and vest and went out in the hall, and I opened our door and told pa he was in the wrong room, and he said he knewed it, and he came in our room and I locked the door, and the bell-boy, and the porter and the clerk came up to see what ailed the old maid, and she said a burglar got in her room, and they found pa's hat on the lounge, and they took it and told her to be quiet and they would find the burglar. Pa was so scared that he sweat like everything and the bed was awful warm, and he pretended to go to sleep, but he was only wondering how he could get his hat back. In the morning I told him it would be hard to explain to ma how he happened to get into the wrong room, and he said it wasn't necessary to say anything to ma about it. Then he gave me $5 to go out and buy him a new hat, and he said I might keep the change if I would not mention it when I got home, and I got him one for ten shillings, and we took the eight o'clock train in the morning and came home, and I s'pose the Chicago detectives are trying to fit pa's hat on to a burglar. Pa seemed awfully relieved when we got across the State line into Wisconsin. But you'd a died to see him come out of that old lady's room with his coat and vest on his arm, and his suspenders hanging down, lookin' scared. He dassent liek me any more or I'll tell ma where pa left his hat."

A story is told of a German who, while shaving, accidentally cut off his nose. In his excitement he dropped the razor and decapitated one of his toes. Hastily picking up the dismembered portions of his disfigured anatomy, he clapped them to the bleeding wounds and bound them on tightly. After the flesh had grown fast and healed up he removed the bandages and was filled with horror when he found a well developed toe where his nose ought to have been, and is obliged to take off his boot to blow his nose.

News, Tacoma: Among unverified rumors is one concerning the establishment of locomotive works by Eastern capitalists on the water front, near Hanson & Co's mill. Thirty-five thousand dollars is the sum mentioned to have been offered for a sixty-acre tract.

OREGON AND WASHINGTON.

The Elkton mills have run out of wheat.
An artesian well is being bored at Roseburg.
The small-pox patients at Weston have all recovered.
Ground has been broken for the new planing mill at Pomeroy.
The Masons of Walla Walla expect to build a temple this year.
Pendleton citizens generally favor the enforcement of Sunday laws.
The Silverton postoffice did a $17,726.39 business for the last year.
Farmers in the vicinity of Ballston propose to erect a flouring mill at that place soon.
The telegraph line from Port Angeles to Neah Bay was expected to be finished last week.
Employees of the N. P. R. R. are petitioning for the removal of the hospital from Spokane Falls to Sprague.
The Tacoma News insists upon an investigation of the alleged suicide of J. W. Clark, which occurred in that city Feb. 19.
Dement Bros. & Co. have secured the contract for supplying Fort Walla Walla commissary with 12,789 barrels of flour at $5 per barrel.
A plat of Lincoln Pontius' addition to Seattle was filed in the Auditor's office yesterday. It comprises forty acres of land east of the Pontius claim.
During February the Roseburg land office sold 7029 acres for cash. Entries embraced 18 homesteads, 9 final homesteads, 34 pre-emption filings and 5 timber culture entries.
The Union at Walla Walla says that the circumstantial evidence against Dr. F. Miller, charged with setting fire to his saloon in Waitsburg, last Tuesday, is very strong. He is in the Walla Walla jail.
Union, Walla: If one-half the additions to Portland are ever converted into real streets and blocks and lots and covered with buildings, inhabited by living human beings, the people will number more than are now existing in the city of London.
On the afternoon of February 25th Andrew Anderson was killed by the premature discharge of a rifle in the hands of Wm. Phillips, in a shooting gallery at Marshfield, Coos county. The coroner's jury returned a charge of carelessness against Phillips, and he has been held to await the action of the grand jury.
On the morning of February 22d, at Marshfield, Charles Strand was shot and killed by Peter Pooos. Both men were quarrelling over a game of cards, when Strand raised a club to strike Pooos, who drew his revolver and fired, the ball entering Strand's breast, causing death in a short time. Pooos was discharged, as the shooting was held to be in self-defense.
Statesman, Salem: The Salem flouring mill company are doing all that is possible for them to do to help the farmers in this valley to secure seed to replant their fall wheat that has been winter-killed. The company has ordered seed wheat shipped up the valley from their mills in Oregon City, a large amount being shipped to Linn county.
Post, Seattle: The experience of the Central Pacific people in coal mining has not so far been attended with the most gratifying success. Including the $750,000 paid for the mine, the $400,000 for the lost steamship Tacoma, and the expenses of getting out such coal as they have so far mined, the cost to them can not have been less than $20 a ton so far, and probably was nearer $30.
About seven millions of acres of Puget Sound basin is easily convertible to the best agricultural and grazing lands. The river bottoms, the beaver dam meadows, and other alluvial deposits furnish a soil of inexhaustible fertility. The islands of the sound are also highly productive, and indeed the entire surface of the country, when denuded of its timber, if that day could arrive, is especially well adapted to grazing and grain raising.
