ZECK'S SON.

The Bad Boy Endorses his Father's Inventive Genius.

Well, sir, pa has struck a fortune, if he can make the thing work. He has got an idea about coal stoves that will bring him in several million dollars, if he gets a royalty of five dollars on every coal stove in the world. His idea is to have a coal stove on castors with the pipe made to telescope out and in, and rubber hose for one joint, so you can pull the stove all around the room and warm any particular place.

Well, sir, to hear pa tell about it, you would think it would revolutionize the country, and maybe it will when he gets it perfected, but he came near burning the house up, and scared us all half to death this morning, and burned his shirt off, and he is all covered with cotton with sweet oil on, and he smells like salad dressing. You see pa had a pipe made and some castors put on our coal stove, and he tied a rope to the hearth of the stove, and had me put in some kindling wood and coal last night, so he could draw the stove up to the bed and light the fire without getting up. Ma told him he would put his foot in it, and he told her to dry up and let him run the stove business. He said it took a man with brains to run a patent right, and ma she pulled the clothes over her head and let pa do the fire act. She has been building the fire for twenty years, and she thought she would let pa see how good it was. Well, pa pulled the stove to the bed, I touched off the kindling wood. I guess maybe I got a bundle of kindling wood that the hired girl had put kerosene on, cause it blazed up awful and smoked, and the blaze bursted out the doors and windows of the stove, and pa yelled fire and I jumped out of bed and rushed in, and he was the scariest man you ever see, and you'd a dide to see how he kicked when I threw a pail of water on his legs and put his shirt out. Ma did not get burned, but she was pretty wet, and she told pa she would pay the five dollar royalty on that stove and take the castors off and let it remain stationary. Pa says he will make it work if he burns the house down. I think it was real mean in pa to get mad at me because I threw cold water on him instead of warm to put his shirt out. If I had waited till I could heat water to the right temperature I would have been an orphan and pa would have been a burnt offering. But some men always kick at everything. Pa has given up business entirely and says he shall devote the remainder of his life curing himself of the different troubles that I get him into. He has retained a doctor by the year, and he buys liniment by the gallon.

Same as Busted.

Some months ago a Boston clothier started his son for Nashville with stock to open a retail store, and the other day a friend who knew of the circumstances met the father and enquired:

"Well, how does Jake get along?"

"Shake is home again," was the reply.

"Why, I thought he was in Nashville."

"So he has."

"And I heard he was doing a rushing business."

"Well, poonesha rushed a leddle on der start, but finally it dropped off until it doan' pay expenses."

"And so Jake busted!"

"Well, it amounts to der same thing, I suppose. Der fire didn't get half a start before der engines vhas on hand! Poor Shake! It vhas a crushing blow when dey found a candle in a box of shavings! He vhas so young, so see!"
