THE BAD BOY. llis Pa's Experience with Dynamite.

"I guess your pa's losses in the silver mine have made him crazy, haven't they?" said the grocery man to the bad boy, as he came into the store with his eye-winkers singed off, and powder marks on his face, and began to play on a harmonica, as he sat down on the end of a stick of stove wood and balanced himself.

"O, I guess not. He has hedged. He got in with the deacen of another church and sold some of his stock to him, and pa says if I will keep my condemn mouth shut he will anload the whole of it, if the churches hold out. He goes to a new church every night there is prayer meeting or anything. and makes ma go with him, to give him tone, and after meeting she talks with the sisters about how to piece a silk bed quilt, while pa gets in his work selling silver stock. I don't know but he will order some more stock from the the boy went on playing 'There's a Land that is Fairer than Day." "But what was he skipping up street for the other night, with his hat off, grabbing at his coat-tails as though they were on fire? I thought I never saw a posy man run any faster. And what was the celebration down on your RENSHAW, WM.—Wines, Liquors, and Cigars of the best quality kept constantly on hand. The best billiard table in town. world was coming to an end," and the grocery man kept away from the boy, for fear he would explode.

factory, if he sells all he has got," and

"O, that was only a Fenian scare. Nothin' serious. You see pa is a sort of half Englishman. He claims to be an American citizen, when he wants wicked Fenians, and that they ought time one of the neighbors had a sad to be pulled, and all that, and when I ache, would you!" read the story in the papers about the explosion in the British Parliament pa was hot. He said the damnifsh was ruining the whole world. He didn't dare say it at table or our hired girl would have knocked him silly with a spoonful of meshed potatoes, 'cause she is a nirish girl, and she can lick any Englishman in this town. Pa said there ought to have been somebody there to have taken that boom up and throwed it in the sewer before it exploded. He said if he should ever see a bomb he would grab it right up and throw it away where it wouldn't hurt anybody. Pa has me read the papers to him nights, cause his eyes have got splinters in 'em, and after I had read all there was in the paper I made up a lot more and pretended to read it, about how it was rumored that the Fenians here in Milwaukee were going to place dynamite bombs at every house where an Englishman lived, and at a given signal blow them all up. Pa looked pale around the gills, but he said he wasn't scared. Pa and ma were going to call on a she deacon that night, to dead sure paying silver mine, and me send off. We got my big black injy rubber football, and painted 'Dinymight' in big white letters on it, and tied a piece of tarred rope to it for a fuse, and got a big firecracker, one of those old Fourth of July horse-scarers, and a basket full of broken glass. We with the firecrackers and basket, where and he thought the house was blown to atoms. O, you'd a died to see him go around the corner. You could play croquay on his cont-tail, and his face was as pale as ma's when she goes to a party. But ma didn't scare much. As quick as she stopped against the hitching post she knew it was us boys, and she came down there, and maybe she didn't maul me. I cried and tried to gab in her sympathy by telling her the firecracker went off before it was due. and burned my eye-brown off, but ahe wouldn't let up until I promised to and find pa. I tell you, my ma segli to be engaged by the British gove ment to hunt out the dynamite fiends. She would corral them in two minutes. If pa had as much sand as ma has got it would be warm weather for mee-Well, me and my chum went and heard pa off or I guess he would be running yet. We got him up by the lake shore, and he wanted to know if the house fell down. He said he would leave it to me if he ever said anything against the Fenians, and I told him that he had always claimed that the Fenians were the nicest men in the world, and it seemed to relieve him very much. When he got home and found the house there he was tickled, when ma called him an old bald-headed coward, and said it was only a joke of the boys with a football, he laughed right out, and said he knew it all the time, and he ran to see if ma would be scared. And then he wanted to hug me, but it wasn't my night to hug, and I went down to the theature. Pa don't amount to much when there is trouble, The time ma had them cramps, you remember, when you got your cucumbers office, but when they talk about a draft first last season, pa came near fainting he claims to be a subject of Great away, and ma said every since they Britain, and he says they can't touch had been married when anything ailed him. Pa is a darn smart man, and her, pa has had pains just the same to don't you forget it. There don't any she has, only he grunted more, and of them get ahead of pa, much. Well, thought he was going to die. Gosh, if pa has said a good deal about the I was a man I wouldn't be sick every

"Well, you can't tell. When you have been married twenty or thirty years you will know a good deal more than you do now. You think you know it all now, and you are pretty intelligent for a boy that has been brought up carelessly, but there are things that you will learn after a while that will astonish you. But what ails your pa's teeth? The hired girl was over here to get some cornmeal for gruel, and she said your pa was gumning it since he he lost his teeth."

"O, about the teeth. That was too bad. You see my chum nas got a dog that is old, and his teeth have all come out in front, and this morning I borrowed pa's teeth before he got up to see if we couldn't fix them in the dog's mouth so he could eat better. Pa says it is an evidence of a kind heart for t boy to be good to dumb animals, but it's a darn mean dog that will go back on a friend. We tied the teeth in the dog's mouth with a string that went around his upper faw, and you'd a died to see how funny he looked when he laffed. He looked just like pa when see if she didn't want to invest in a he tries to smile so as to get me to come up to him so he can lick me. The and my chum concluded to give them a dog pawed his mouth a spell to get the teeth out, and then we gave him a bone with some meat on, and he Legan to gnaw the bone and the teeth came off the plate, and he thought it was pieced of the bone, and he swallowed the teeth. My chum noticed it first, and and a basket full of broken glass. We put the football in the front of the step pretty quick to save the plates, and I think we were in luck to save them. they go down into the basement. Pa and ma came out of the front door and down the steps, and pa saw the football
