COTTAGE GROVE, June 4, 1883. EDITOR GUARD;-In looking over your valuable paper, I noticed that some of your correspondents complain that the picnic held at Cottage Grove May 26th was a failure. In reply, I would say that fauch, however, was not the case; but, contrary, the people of this place and vicinity considered the picnic an enjoyable affair, and .. was not disappointed, as your correspondents endeavored to make the world baliava. No doubt, some parties came here with an expectation of hearing a grand oration and the Declaration of Independence read, and have quails on tonst, and everything else which they desire to est or drink, without expense. 14 les level
