

Guard Supplement.

Notie and Judas Valley Items.

The present prospects for good crops are very flattering.

Mr. Locke, of Corvallis, has been visiting his relatives in Judas Valley.

Mr. Hays and his secretary, Esq. McCoy, have commenced work on the Stulaw road.

Dr. Kennely talks of leaving us soon for Eastern Oregon, having sold his place here to Mr. Dice.

The recent frequent showers did a great deal of good, as the ground was very dry and needed rain badly.

Grain and grass is much improved in Judas Valley by the late rains, and the farmers wear smiles all over their faces.

The school in Judas Valley is flourishing finely under the management of Miss Midgely. She seems to be doing her best, and so is Johnny J.

Mr. S. Jenkins has gone to Corvallis, I am told, to superintend the opening and marking of his goods, his first assistant having charge of the ranch until he returns.

Rev. J. C. Richardson, formerly of Judas Valley, is building a new residence in Eugene, and is very anxious to have it finished before his father arrives from California.

The literary society proves a success, both edifying and entertaining. Professor J. Jenkins, who is a graduate of the Portland Mercantile College, promises to lecture on physiology and astronomy, and also give instructions in book-keeping.
