

Editorial Notes.

Fred Douglass says the recent Supreme Court decision has set the Republican clock back twenty odd years. The election of 1884 will stop it dead.

There are now twenty-nine Democratic Governors in the United States against nine Republicans. Nearly all the large cities of the Union have Democratic Mayors.

The Supreme Court of the United States has decided the civil rights bill unconstitutional. Had this decision been made by a Democratic court, there would now be a general howl among our loyal brethren.

Judge Hoadly is, according to the Cleveland Leader, a railroad wrecker. In this respect he resembles Samuel J. Tilden.—Republican Paper. Yes, and he appears to be a pretty good wrecker of the Republican party.

The result in Ohio next year will not be doubtful. As the election in the preceding year so is the Presidential election in Ohio so political history declares. For twenty years the Democrat have not carried the ante-Presidential election in that state. From this it is easy to deduce that next year will be an "off year" like this year.

We learn with pleasure, says the New York Sun, that the biography of the late Judge Black will be written, and his papers, essays and speeches be edited by his distinguished son, the present Lieutenant-Governor of Pennsylvania. The work will be of high interest. No man ever put more ideas into his words than Judge Black, or put them into words more fresh and fitting; and no one can be better qualified than his son to prepare his literary remains for the public.

The onslaught on the Northern Pacific and Transcontinental continues, each attack seemingly more fierce than the preceding one. The forces brought to "bear" Thursday at midday forced the latter down to 39 and later at 38. All sorts of sensational rumors are afloat, among them, the report of the intended resignation of Villard from the presidency of the Northern Pacific. The truth seems to be that one person knows about as much as another concerning the possibilities and probabilities of the case. Reports like the stocks themselves are in a speculative mood, ready for any extravagance on either hand.

A Scene in the Senate.

Ex-Sergeant-at-Arms French, in his interesting lecture, "Ten years Among the Senators," relates the following amusing anecdote concerning Senator Davis of West Virginia: "There was Davis of West Virginia. From the humble position of a brakeman upon the railroad he had fought his upward way to two honorable elections to the Senate. An industrious, useful, honorable member; a diligent, conscientious worker on appropriations committees, and, with Windom, earnest in all efforts for improving and cheapening transportation from the interior to the seaboard. It is wonderful how the influence of early education or early habits, cling to us in after-life. Senator Davis, who I have just told you, was in earlier days a brakeman; once gave the Senate an emphatic demonstration of this oft-noted fact. Judge Thurman, being a generous snuff taker, carried an immense red bandanna handkerchief, and when he arose to speak, usually as a preliminary grasped his nose with the red bandanna and gave a blast like a trumpet. It was well toward morning of a wearisome all night session, and Senator Davis was asleep, his head resting upon his desk. But I will say for him that he was not often asleep in the Senate. Senator Edmunds had provoked Judge Thurman to a speech, and, by introduction, the Judge unfurled his red bandanna and blew a blast of more than usual power. Mr. Davis may have been dreaming of his younger days. At any rate he sprang to his feet in a half-dazed condition, and catching sight of the red flag—the old signal of danger—and seeming to imagine that he had heard a shriek of alarm from the open throttle of a locomotive, calling for "Down brakes!" seized his desk, and by the brakeman's firm, quick twist, wrenched it from the floor. I was not present on this occasion, and therefore cannot assert the entire truth of the entire truth of the story from personal knowledge. But it was often repeated about the Senate Chamber and I never heard of any of the details called in question."

While in Portland recently, we learned that there is a project on foot to give J. H. Mitchell the Republican nomination for Congress next year, for his vindication, and for the further purpose of giving him the inside track for the seat in the U. S. Senate now occupied by Hon. J. H. Slater. Although beaten in 1882 by that arch monopolist, J. N. Dolph, it is well known a large majority of the Republicans of Oregon swear by Mitchell, and there would be little doubt of the success of this scheme. The Democrats are pleased over the prospect of a Republican bear-fight and hope that the Stalwarts will succeed in their plans.—Jacksonville Times.
