Card of Thanks.

I hereby tender my thanks to the kind neighbors and friends who extended their help and sympathy during the illness and death of my mother-in-law. FRANCIS O. ADAMS.

SOLD.—Mr J N Taylor sold one day this week to Mr Bonnett Sr, his east lot on Seventh Street for $225. Mr Bonnett will erect a dwelling on the same in the Spring.

FINE GRASS.—The grass is now between two and three inches high on the stock ranges in this county. Wonder what our friends in the East think of such a statement?

Personal.

Geo Lakin is in town visiting relatives. Mr Geo Humphrey is slowly growing worse. Governor Whiteaker was in town Wednesday. Irv Henderson is visiting relatives in Eugene. The rumor that prevailed several days this week that Mr Matthew Wallace, who is visiting in the East, was missing, is a mistake. Grant Thompson, who has been attending telegraph under Mr L G Adair, left this week to take charge of an office at the front. Mr B G Callison returned from his recent visit to the East Thursday evening. He says the Willamette Valley is a better country than he saw during his travels, and he is fully satisfied to remain in the land of Webfoot. Adieu, gentle Ethel, We bid you adieu, Our Saviour in Heaven Has a mansion for you. We would not detain you, Nor blame the kind hand; That drew you away, To the angelic band.

Correspondence.

EUGENE CITY, December 7, 1883. EDITOR GUARD.—The people of this vicinity have frequently asked why they were not notified of the death and burial of my mother-in-law. I take part in the funeral ceremonies, and an explanation is really due them. My folks telegraphed her death on the 2nd inst at 7:20 evening at Albany and that the burial must come off here at 3:30 A M, on the 3d. But this does not explain where the telegram was during those twenty hours. Respectfully Yours, D. R. LAKIN.

TO HOP RAISERS.—We are desirous of procuring material for an article on the quantity and acreage of hops in Lane county; and would respectfully ask our hop raisers, each and every one, to send us answers to the following questions: 1. How many acres had you in hops in '82? 2. How many acres had you in hops in '83? What was your yield of hops in lbs in 1882-3. Any other information about hops will be thankfully received.

WOOLEN WARE.—We have been shown by Mr J O Beebe & Co, samples of woollen ware manufactured by them at Springfield, Ore. It will compare favorably with any we have ever seen. Our people should patronize home industry. A sample of the ware may be seen at this office.

HOLIDAY BOOKS, ETC.—The Post Office Book Store last Thursday received a large stock of all kinds of books suitable for the holidays, also a large lot of albums, work boxes, etc. Mr Patterson informs us that he intends selling at cheaper rates than ever offered in Eugene before.

LOCATED.—Learning that our former citizen, Dr L M Davis, has located in Walla Walla, his many friends of Eugene cordially recommend him to the good people of that city and surrounding country, as a gentleman and a first-class dentist.

LARGE COLLECTION.—Sheriff Campbell at Cottage Grove precinct last Tuesday collected $3500 for taxes. This was the largest sum collected at any precinct in his rounds this year.

NEARLY COMPLETED.—The shewing and counters are being put in Mr Walton's south room in his new brick building. It will be occupied by Mrs Fitch's ladies' furnishing goods establishment.

QUITE ILL.—Five children of Mr B H James are quite ill with scarlet fever. Mr James is quite sick with a sore throat. Yesterday morning two of the children were much better.

SOLD.—Mr T J Dutton has sold his farm on Camp Creek for $2600. A good bargain.

Cottage Grove Items.

[FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT. Dec 5, 1883.] Yesterday was tax paying day here. Wild strawberries are in bloom on the south hill sides. Born, to the wife of Adam Garrouette, Nov 29, a son. Miss Kate Spray began a subscription school here last Monday. Delightful weather for a week past; not a drop of rain since the 27th of November. Mr Jas McFarland's wife and daughter have both been sick for about two weeks with fever. We understand that the bridge which was washed out is in place again, and will be ready to admit crossing to-day. Miss Mira Cathcart returned home from The Dalles one day last week, where she has been since September. The Good Templars are gaining in number of late. Seventeen members were initiated last night at the Saturday before.

Franklin Items.

FRANKLIN, Dec. 2, 1883. Duck shooting is in order; the ponds near fern ridge are famous for bald pates, and the game bag never comes home empty. Geo Hill, one of the old Judge's boys, who went north six or seven years ago, is at home on a visit this Winter. He thinks Palouse ahead of Webfoot. Dugs ran a large buck through the suburbs of this city to-day. No doubt he will prove a great temptation to the boys on their way home from their duck hunt. Ari Cantrell, a maiden gentleman of some sixty winters and Emma Ward, a blushing young woman of twenty-five, were married to-day, the J P of Richardson precinct officiating. We were informed to-day that the fat man of Lake creek, who harvested in this vicinity, got over the summit before the Fall rains set in, which is a fortunate thing; it would be impossible to get him over after the roads get slippery.

SELDOM.

Death of Mrs. E. A. Goodell.

It will be with a feeling of deep regret to the many friends of Mrs Goodell, to learn that she has departed this life. She fell peacefully asleep in the arms of her Saviour, in Eugene, Dec 4, 1883, at the residence of her daughter-in-law, Mrs F O Adams, in the eighty-sixth year of her age. Her last illness was very painful and she often expressed a desire to depart and be at rest. She had been a woman of uncommon intelligence, an active worker in the temperance cause and other Christian duties; now that she rests from earthly labors her works do follow her. "Saved to erect on hills of glory, Loved ones she has missed so long; Saved to tell the tinner's story, Saved to sing redemption's song." "Welcome to the pearly portal, Evermore a welcomed guest; Welcome to the life immortal, In the mansion of the blest." "Home, sweet home, her home forever; All the pilgrim journey past; Welcomed home to wander never, Saved thro' Jesus—Home at last."

Quite an amount of interest was manifested by the Firemen. The vote resulted in the election of Mr Wm Preston for Chief, and Mr Jos Taylor for Assistant Chief, by the following vote: Wm Preston, 28, W T Campbell, 32; Preston's majority, 6. Mr Taylor received 69 votes. After the election a banquet was given at the engine house by the newly elected Chief, which was highly enjoyed by all present.

STATE UNIVERSITY.

A column devoted to the interests of the Lauman and Eustaxian Literary Societies, and the State University.

JENNIE McCORMACK, EDITOR.

Brief Items.

Mary Dorris spent Thursday of last week at her home. Estella Whiteaker passed Thanksgiving Day in Eugene. Last Tuesday Rev Walter Marvin visited the University. O'Callif, a normal graduate of '83, is teaching school on the McKenzie. A large number of new books were received last week for the University. At the last meeting of the Eustaxians, Katie Parker signed the constitution. All bachelor students who are here were kindly invited by Prof Lambert to an excellent Thanksgiving dinner. Fanny McDaniels, having completed the studies for this term, left to-day for her home in Douglas county. Sidney A Pruitt, who attended the University two years ago, left last Wednesday morning for Central America. S A Hall, who has been attending school this term, has been obliged to stop on account of bad health.

On Thursday and Friday of last week the students were excused from school duties, on account of Thanksgiving. John McCormack left here Monday morning for San Francisco, where he goes to attend Heald's Business College. Charlotte Roberts, who, but for ill health would have finished with the class of '83, is expected to be in Eugene soon.

A Committee of Laureans has been instructed by the Laurean Society to buy nineteen volumes of the late Prof Burke's books. Mary McCormack, a graduate and Valedictorian of the class of '82, has returned home from teaching school. From the best authority we learn that she has met with unbounded success as a teacher. Jennie Spencer and Minnie Porter, members of last year's graduating class, visited the University last Monday. Minnie has been visiting her sisters, Lillie and Laura, who are attending school.

Next week the Laureans will debate the question, "Resolved, That a foreigner should reside twenty-one years in a country before he should be allowed to vote." Resolved in affirmative, Albert Mulligan; leader on the negative, Green Cornelius. Geo Hoyt, of the class of '82, and E Vaughn, who attended the University four years ago, and now proprietor of the Sunday Mercury, spent Thanksgiving in Eugene, the guests of Mrs Hanchett. They returned to Portland last Saturday.

We regret to learn that Prof Lambert has resigned his position as teacher of English Literature in the University. This branch of study is an important one, and it will be difficult to select a person to fill the position occupied by Prof Lambert in so able a manner. The resignation will take effect on Jan 1, 1884. Prof Lambert intends entering the ministry. The question for debate next week is, "Resolved, That Chinese labor should be prohibited in the United States." The affirmative will be led by Beale Day, assisted by Ida Hendricks, Emma Dorris and Mattie Dickinson; the negative by Anna Wright, assisted by Susie Moore, Ossie Walton and Katie Buice.

Last week nominations were made in the Laurean Society for officers to serve for the ensuing term. As a matter of course the past week has not been without the excitement generally connected with such times, and various ten-cent pieces and other small change have been seen to change ownership, but this of course is only done with the best intentions, and is perhaps destined for the "Peasant Fund."

The Editor's Walk.

[The following we clip from the Springfield Hawkeye, edited by "Judge" Kelly.] The Editor weary has locked his door, And started out for a stroll; He is glad to be in his sanctum no more "Mid troubles that weary his soul. He turned his steps to the town of Eugene, And watched in the mill race the fishes; And soon he came to the little white house, Where "Bob" was washing the dishes. He slowly passed with lingering steps, And paused for he wished to hear The directions read for making bread By a mustached cavalier. On, on he went for he could not stop Till he came to a certain house; Where a sophomore was busily using a mop And a senior was cooking a grouse. With lightened heart he continued his walk Till his reverry was interrupted, By the anguished groans of the Editor ex, Who the task of milking attempted. He hastily walked from this sad scene And concluded to go up Ninth street, Where Fiddler "Tod" was playing his bow And keeping time with his feet. With heart made joyous by this glad sight, The Methodist church he neared; In the neighboring house there were sounds of discord. And two well known forms appeared. The first was dressed with elaborate care, He goes he intended to visit; The other was wasted as pale as a ghost, And he shrieked "McNeville why is it That you are thus blessed while I am so sad? O! Happy(ness) why have you fed?" Turning the corner the school house he viewed, On the play ground was quite a commotion; Two urinals were fighting with anger imbued Unaware of their dangerous position. For the Principal angry had come quite near, Said he to the urinals "To-morrow, We'll meet in my room and never fear But that it will be to your sorrow. With heart-strings bleeding for these poor boys He turned in another direction; And sees a tall senior, who just now is The center of all attraction. With harp grasped firmly he sweetly plays, And the Editor's eyes do glisten; The Anselm larp of by-gone days Is rivaled he thinks as he listens. While regaling his soul on these sweet strains His spirits were suddenly lowered, By a Darning's voice which said to him "Bring back those books you borrowed." This unwelcome meeting was scarcely over When again to his vexation, The voice of Potter loudly said: "I say your dues to the Corporation."

With wounded feelings he turned away, In his heart was deprecation; "To Eugene town I'll go no more," Springfield is my destination.

SCHOOL TAX.—At the meeting held at the Court House last Wednesday afternoon a school tax of two mills was levied by an almost unanimous vote. This, with the State and county funds, will maintain a free school for nine months. Eugene is justly proud of her schools, and her people are always ready to furnish means to keep them running in the best of order.

SUCCESSFUL.—We clip the following from last week's West Side, published at Independence: "The three weeks protracted meeting, conducted by Rev Morrison of Eugene, closed last Wednesday evening. Forty-one names were added to the church roll. A large part of them were children. Only a few hardened sinners could resist the appeals of the eloquent preacher to come within the ark of safety."

STONE COAL.—Mr Chris Holland, of this city, and his partners are opening a coal mine about five miles east of Brownsville, which gives fair prospects of being a rich discovery. The coal is of first-class quality and is of easy access to the narrow gauge railroad. A specimen of the coal may be seen at this office.
