AYER'S Cherry Pectoral.

No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as those affecting the throat and lungs, none so trifled with by the majority of sufferers. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting perhaps from a trifling or unconscious exposure, is often but the beginning of a fatal sickness. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has well proven its efficacy in a forty years' fight with throat and lung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay.

A Terrible Cough Cured.
"In 1857 I took a severe cold, which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctor gave me up. I tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continued use of the PECTORAL a permanent cure was effected. I am now 62 years old, hale and hearty, and an satisfied your CHERRY PECTORAL saved me."
—HORACE FAIRBROTHER,
Rockingham, Vt., July 15, 1882.

Group.—A Mother's Tribute.
"While in the country last winter my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. One of the family suggested the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, a bottle of which was always kept in the house. This was tried in small and frequent doses, and to our delight in less than half an hour the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the CHERRY PECTORAL had saved my darling's life. Can you wonder at our gratitude? Sincerely yours,
—MRS. EMMA GEDNEY,
130 West 128th St., New York, May 16, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL in my family for several years, and do not hesitate to pronounce it the most effective remedy for coughs and colds we have ever tried."
—A. J. CHANE,
Lake Crystal, Minn., March 13, 1882.

"I suffered for eight years from Bronchitis, and after trying many remedies with no success, I was cured by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL."
—JOSEPH WALDEN,
Byhalia, Miss., April 5, 1882.

"I cannot say enough in praise of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, believing as I do that but for its use I should long since have died from lung troubles."
—E. BRADDOCK,
Palestine, Texas, April 22, 1882.

No case of an affection of the throat or lungs exists which cannot be greatly relieved by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and it will always cure when the disease is not already beyond the control of medicine.

HON. WILLIAM D. KELLEY,
THE OLDEST MEMBER OF CONGRESS, IN AGE AND SERVICE.

A BRIEF SKETCH OF HIS CAREER.

In our last week's issue we gave a portrait of the youngest member of Congress, and as a sequel, we give this week an excellent likeness of the oldest member of the House, the Hon. Wm. D. Kelley, of Philadelphia.

Mr. Kelley was born at Philadelphia, April 12th, 1814, and is therefore nearly seventy years of age. He received a very thorough English education and began life as a proof-reader in a printing office in his native city. After a few years service in this capacity he became an apprentice in a jewelry establishment. Having learned the trade he removed to Boston where he worked five years as a journeyman jeweller; he then returned to Philadelphia and began the study of law and in the course of time entered the profession, also devoting himself to various literary pursuits.

Mr. Kelley was twice elected Prosecuting Attorney of the city and county of Philadelphia, and served for ten years as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of that city; was a delegate to the National Republican Convention at Chicago in 1860, and one of Lincoln's heartiest supporters. He became the Republican candidate for the Thirty-seventh Congress and was elected, and has been returned consecutively every term since his first election, by an average majority of ten thousand over his Democratic opponent.

Mr. Kelley has been and is still a conspicuous figure in our National Legislature, his utterances commanding a prestige consistent with his long service and varied experience in public life. His greatest ambition is to continue during life in his present position as Representative from Philadelphia, and his constituency will no doubt accord him the honor.

Cliff House Memories.

The Cliff House is for rent. The glories of the old hostelry are on the wane. How many a good bottle of wine has been exploded under that historic roof, and how often has the frou frou of rich dresses been heard in those old parlors, and how many a headache, ay, and a heartache, too, has been carried away from that inn by the sea. It was fun to roll out there on moonlight nights with some one who would drive now and then, just to keep her hands warm, and sometimes, we fear, with the sly intention of keeping her partner's hand disengaged. It was sport, but of an expensive kind; but looking back on those old days some philosopher might be inclined to confess that after all, the fun was well worth the money.—S. F. Ex.

Woman Suffrage in Utah is the most serious feature of the Mormon question that Congress has to deal with. Blaine's bill disfranchising the Mormon men for having a plurality of wives, but it does not apply to the women who have but a fraction of a husband. The Mormon women stand by the church party and vote for it "o a man," and by their power polygamy triumphs in the territory.

Chicago Herald: "A Cincinnati firm had for years kept in a drawer all the counterfeit money received in the course of business, and the other night a burglar got in and took every cent. It is supposed the burglar will write an indignant communication to the press upon the subject as soon as he calms sufficiently to handle a pen."

General Colton's Widow.

The suit of the widow of General Colton, one of the originators of the Central Pacific railroad project, has attracted much attention in California, not alone because of the heavy pecuniary interest involved, but as well on account of the singular attitude assumed by the railroad triumvirate. General Colton, during his lifetime, was acting to all appearances in strict harmony with Stanford, Crocker and Huntington. He was generally reputed to be possessed of immense wealth, but when he died his former partners endeavored to make appear that he was very much indebted to them. Mrs. Colton's advisers counselled to dispute the claims. Upon this the triumvirate publicly charged that large sums of money were made away with during his connection with them. This charge very much angered Mrs. Colton's friends, who knew that the money had been expended by Colton in secretly reimbursing members of the legislature, and in other underhand subsidy work. An examination of Colton's papers gave an unmistakable clew to the expenditure of nearly $600,000 by Huntington during the Winter when the Thurman sinking fund bill was finally passed by Congress. This vast amount is simply charged on the books of the Western Development Company without any explanation whatever. It is said that Mrs. Colton's attorneys have documentary evidence to prove that this money was used to bribe Senators and Congressmen. They profess to be able to show that the company authorized Huntington to make expenditures with accounting, and that General Colton was similarly empowered.

According to the statistician of the National Butter, Cheese and Egg Association, whose annual meeting was held at Cincinnati recently, the value of those products marketed in the United States during 1883 is more than $10 for every man, woman and child in the population, not including the $100,000,000 worth of milk and cream sold in a natural state. The eggs received in New York annually are worth nearly as much as the butter and three times as much as the poultry. We export eggs, but we import large quantities from Denmark, Germany and France, and the egg is an altogether larger institution than most intelligent people are aware.

A great deal is said about the number and influence of the "Confederate Brigadiers" in Congress, but we notice that two of them, Mahone and Riddleberger, control the Republican majority in the U. S. Senate. It is also a noteworthy fact that at the instance of Generals Rosecrans and Slocum, both prominent Union officers, it was unanimously resolved in a caucus of the Democratic Congressmen to retain the fourteen crippled and disabled Union soldiers borne on the soldiers' roll under the door-keeper of the House of Representatives. The Republican papers of the bloody-shirt type have not called attention to this fact as yet.

Two car-loads of immigrants daily come over the Northern Pacific railroad, and the greater portion of them are settling in Eastern Oregon and Washington Territory. It is thought the advent of Spring will greatly increase the tide of immigration.

The Walla Walla Statesman says: Late letters from the mines report that all work is suspended and that there is eight feet of snow in camp and more falling. Every day adds to the population of the camp, as the trail is still open.

"I am going to plant my foot down," said the lady of the house in wrathful tones. "What yer going to raise, corn?" interrogated the man of the house from behind his paper.

St. Helens, the county seat of Columbia county, has a population of 300 people, good schools, lodges, churches and other public buildings.

The Queen of the Pacific made the run from San Francisco to Victoria in the extraordinary fast time of fifty-two hours and forty-two minutes.
