Charles Reade.

THE DECEASED NOVELIST.

Charles Reade, the eminent English novelist, who died in London, April 11th, was born in 1814, at Ipsden House, Oxfordshire, England. His father was an eminent scholar, and his mother a lady of unusual intellectual strength. He was educated at Magdalen College, Oxford. After graduating he read law, gained a Vinerian fellowship at the University of Oxford, in 1842, and was called to the bar the year after. He never practiced law, but adopted a literary life, occupying his earlier years in writing for newspapers and magazines. His first novel was "Peg Woffington," published in 1853. "Christie Johnson," issued the same year, was well received. "It is Never Too Late to Mend," produced in 1856, dealt severely with certain abuses of prison discipline, and created great excitement. Henceforward every work from Mr. Reade's pen was welcomed eagerly. The list of his works, includes in addition to those already mentioned, "The Course of True Love," "Jack of All Trades," "Love Me Little, Love Me Long," "White Lies," "The Cloister and Hearth," which is, perhaps, the ablest of his books, "Hard Cash," "Put Yourself in His Place," "Griffith Gaunt," and "A Terrible Temptation." His pen has proved inexpressibly powerful, dealing incidentally with social wrongs, and severely condemning their perpetrators.

Few writers, if any, have covered a wider range than he in the variety of fiction originating in the view of motives and impulses arising from other passions than that of love.

Charles Reade was a successful dramatist. He published "Gold" in 1843, the first of his plays. "Masks and Faces," "Two Lovers and a Life," and "The King's Rival," followed at intervals. Several of his stories have been dramatized, notably "Griffith Gaunt," by Augustin Daly. American readers will remember Mr. Reade's suit against the New York Times because it had characterized "Griffith Gaunt" as an immoral production. Six cents damages were awarded the irate novelist by the jury sitting on the case. The deceased writer was a man of great force and originality of character. He loved and hated with vehemence. His pen was far from being squeamish, for it wrote truth, and he was unquestionably a great master of the knowledge of human nature.

A PROFITABLE COW. Mr. D. M. Kirby, of this county, has a cow that deserves going on record as the champion butter maker of Washington Territory. She gives milk so rich, that in three hours after milking the cream is ready for the churn. The cream rises as soon as the milk is cold, and in six hours it has the same appearance of cream that has stood twenty-four hours, and upon being placed in a bowl and stirred briskly with a spoon or a butter knife, becomes fine golden butter in one minute's time. She gives no more milk than any other ordinary cow, yet, though half of her milk is given to a three-weeks old calf, enough butter is made from the remainder to supply a family of seven persons. The cream is literally all butter, hardly any milk being left after churning. She is of the common native stock of the country and lays no claim to blue blood—or blue milk for that matter. She is a curiosity and the neighbors for miles around visit Mr. Kirby's folks to see the wonderful qualities of her cow tested. Who can beat her?—Dayton, W. T. Chronicle.

WESTON HAD A $2,000 fire on the 2d. Insurance $500.

Farmers in the vicinity of Alkali are planting corn.

A Goldendale, W. T., hen is mother-in-a litter of kittens.

Cosmopolis, W. T., offers $100 premium for the first lady settler.

A fire at Glendale on the 20th, destroyed both the Palace and California hotels; loss $20,000.

The Corvallis Leader, bright, newsy and journalistic, appears in a new dress this week. Success to it.

Asotin, W. T., wants a preacher; so does Badger, Oregon. No pay promised; land is cheap, work easy.

The larger girls of the school at Hillsboro, have organized a base ball club. They have a neat uniform, and ought to have lots of fun and healthful recreation.

Twenty-five soldiers from the garrison undertook to run the city of Walla Walla a few days ago. It didn't pan out. The soldiers are kept at their quarters now.

There were no ladies on the jury at the District Court, and no one among them seemed willing to serve in that capacity, says the Spokane Falls Chronicle. Well, there are some duties of citizenship the ladies ought to be excused from performing.

The Walla Walla Journal is reliably informed that the agents of the O. R. & N. Co are urging persons who contemplate making shipments east to hold on until the O. R. & N. junction with the Short Line is made, when rates can be obtained over that route cheaper than those of the Northern Pacific.

Under date of April 10, a Walla Walla Journal correspondent says: I arrived here (at Eagle) about ten days ago, over the worst trail I ever saw. Found all kinds of business very dull and on the decline—everybody getting out that can. There are no paying claims on Eagle creek, as far as prospecting, but it is staked off in twenty acre lots for eighteen miles up both forks. One would think by the reports that the country was full of gold, but have been prospecting on all of the streams for fifteen miles each way, except on Pritchard, and cannot get a color of fine gold. There is about ten feet of snow on the mountains and it has been snowing for the past three days. Tell all the boys that this is no place for a poor man until after July, when the fight will be over and they will want men to work on the Pritchard claims. Wages will be very low and living very high. At present prices are: Beef 30 cents, ham 38, bacon 30, flour $30 per barrel, coffee 33, eggs $1.

The reason assigned why Mr. Hermau proposes to make his campaign alone is, that he knows only one speech and proposes to run the bloody-shirt business through the State on his own hook. Binger learned his present speech about twenty years ago, when he was a member of the Republican party, and has given it a kind of Rip Van Winkle sleep since he got out of the Land Office, in consequence of his opposition to Mitchell in 1872. It is rather stale, it will hardly do for the present time. There are new issues, Binger, to be considered.—Standard.

Ever fair-minded Republican paper in the State speak a good word for the work done at The Dalles. Occasionally there is an exception, notably the Eugene Journal, which thinks Mr. Myers is not qualified to represent Oregon in congress. The mental caliber of that journal warranted us in exclaiming: "Bully; success is now certain." All the Democratic papers are enthusiastic over an exceptionally good ticket and an incomparably wise pronouncement of true principles.—Roseburg Independent.

If the Republican party's history is grand and has been for the past twenty-two years, will Mr. Hernan explain what he did with that record from 1872 to 1880. Will he also tell the people where he was, politically, during those eight years of glory? If our memory serves us correctly, he regarded the great and glorious party too corrupt for his association for about that period.—Standard.
