A MARVELOUS STORY TOLD IN TWO LETTERS.

FROM THE SON: "28 Cedar St., New York, Oct. 25, 1882.
"Gentlemen: My father resides at Glover, Vt. He has been a great sufferer from Scrofula, and the inclosed letter will tell you what a marvelous effect has had in his case. I think his blood must have contained the humor for at least ten years; but it did not show, except in the form of a scrofulous sore on the wrist, until about five years ago. From a few spots which appeared at that time, it gradually spread so as to cover his entire body. I assure you he was terribly afflicted, and an object of pity, when he began using your medicine. Now, there are few men of his age who enjoy as good health as he has. I could easily name fifty persons who would testify to the facts in his case.

Yours truly, W. M. PHILLIPS."

FROM THE FATHER: "It is both a pleasure and a duty for me to state to you the benefit I have derived from the use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Six months ago I was completely covered with a terrible humor and scrofulous sores. The humor caused an incessant and intolerable itching, and the skin cracked so as to cause the blood to flow in many places whenever I moved. My sufferings were great, and my life a burden. I commenced the use of the SARSAPARILLA in April last, and have used it regularly since that time. My condition began to improve at once. The sores have all healed, and I feel perfectly well in every respect—being now able to do a good day's work, although 73 years of age. Many inquire what has wrought such a cure in my case, and I tell them, as I have here tried to tell you, AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. Glover, Vt., Oct. 21, 1882.
Yours gratefully,
HIRAM PHILLIPS."

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA cures Scrofula and all Scrofulous Complaints, Erysipelas, Eczema, Ringworm, Blisters, Sores, Boils, Tumors, and Eruptions of the Skin. It clears the blood of all impurities, aids digestion, stimulates the action of the bowels, and thus restores vitality and strengthens the whole system.

CAPT. OF THE STEAMER FLORIDA.
J. W. Sadler.

GENERAL MANUEL GONZALEZ,
President of Mexico.

Another Atlantic steamship has gone down in mid-ocean and one hundred and thirty persons have sacrificed their lives for the probable carelessness of the officer in immediate charge of the ill-fated vessel at the time of her collision with a sailing bark. Ocean horrors of this kind naturally create the inquiry, "Who was to blame?" The world as naturally infers, where there appears to have been carelessness on the part of the officers and crew, that the captain of a ship as the responsible head, should bear the criticism and censure or a horror-stricken public.

The information thus far gleaned from the rescued of the Florida indicates that Captain Sadler had retired to his state-room for rest, leaving the vessel in command of the first officer to whose negligence if the disaster could have been avoided at all, must be attributed the terrible loss of life that followed close upon the crash of two vessels. That this officer was one of rescued, while Captain Sadler perished with all the passengers but one, is an apparent inference that the latter was not at the moment more prepared or capable of saving his own life than were those who suffered his own fate.

Captain J. W. Sadler's birth place was Yarmouth, England. He was a little over forty-eight years of age. After receiving a good education he became a sailor, and was rapidly promoted until he became the commander of a vessel. His record as a navigator began with the captaincy of a ship sailing between Glasgow and Nova Scotia. Later he commanded a large ship between London and the East Indies. He then became connected with the "State Line" Company as Captain of the State of Virginia and the State of Indiana successively. Last December the Company assigned him to the State of Florida after its being overhauled at his suggestion. When lost the State of Florida was on its return voyage, from New York to Glasgow, the first time under his command. He had been married three times, but died childless. His first wife was killed by an accidental fall from a horse. His second died of consumption. The third Mrs. Sadler survives her husband, and was at the time of his loss, in Glasgow preparing a new home which she had just bought for their future residence. Thus endeth a calamity that reveals in all its terrors the perils of a life on the ocean and the uncertainty of a voyage across the billowy deep.

December Wedded to May.

A very curious marriage occurred at Boykin, South Carolina, recently. Miss Constance Bell, twelve years old, was joined in holy wedlock to Dr. Japer Benton, eighty years old. The two had known each other only two weeks. The old gentleman was sick at Mr. Bell's house, and Constance came home on a visit from boarding school. She nursed Dr. Benson through a short but severe of sickness, and as soon as he got well enough to walk out the two went off together and were married. Dr. Benson is said to be very wealthy, owning two large orange groves in Florida. To the Land of Flowers the strangely matched couple have gone to spend their honeymoon. The remarkable alliance is the talk of the neighborhood. Curiously enough the girl's parents are wholly reconciled to the match.

Dr. Benson's family for several generations back have been noted for longevity. His grandmother lived to the age of 103 and his own father to the age of 102 years. He insists that he is good for twenty more years.

The unsettled condition of Mexican politics, just now, a revolution being threatened on account chiefly of the exactions made by the Government; makes a sketch of the President, to whom his enemies ascribe the difficulty, opportune. Mexico is short of money for the use of the Government; and is reported to be anxious to borrow $20,000,000 at the present time. Two years ago, under similar pressure, Congress passed a law granting the President extraordinary powers. In pursuance of this law, President Gonzalez recently issued a stamp decree, thereby creating the present complication, which is more disastrous to business than the previous financial stringency.

General Gonzalez has been President of Mexico since December 1, 1880. He was born about fifty years ago, at Matamoros, State of Tamaulipas, Mexico. Preferring a military life, he joined the army as a private soldier, and rose rapidly in his profession. He served with distinction against the French in 1863-4, as Colonel of a regiment, and lost an arm while defending the fortress San Marco against the invaders. In 1876 he was created a Major-General, and held office as Secretary of War during the administration of President Diaz, whom he succeeded as the result of a revolution.

Under President Gonzalez's administration Mexico has made rapid advances in material prosperity and civilization. He has a fine presence, is not tall in stature, but well built and of sturdy physique. Estimates of his character vary greatly.

New Jersey's Wild Cattle.

Twenty years ago an English clipper ship was wrecked on the coast of New Jersey. A half dozen head of cattle on board the ship succeeded in breasting the breakers and reaching the land. They thrived and multiplied, notwithstanding the coarse vegetation in that section, and a dozen years ago as many as three hundred were roaming about in a wild state there. Since that time the farmers who desire any meat take their old flintlocks and pop away at the cattle until their wants are supplied. Consequently their numbers are rapidly diminishing. Recently a couple of Philadelphia firms contracted with New Jersey butchers to erect slaughter houses and secure as many cattle as they can, and it is hoped that in a short time the property will be free of the dangerous animals that have held possession for so many years.—Chicago Times.

If you are poor there is one consolation—your heirs will not go into court to prove that you were an imbecile during your childhood, and idiot at the time of your marriage, and a gibbering lunatic for years before you died. For these are people in this world, for whose existence God has some all-sufficient reason that is widely hidden from mankind, who just lives to rush into the court room and the newspapers to prove such things about their rich fathers. They can't always prove them, but they try their best. And yet there are some people who think there is no world better or more perfect than this.

Robert Rodney, United States navy, wants a law to limit individual fortunes in this country to $10,000,000. This would be the ruin of the editorial business.

"I would die for you," she exclaimed, pillow her head upon his shoulder. "Oh, no, you needn't, darling," was his quick response, "I like red hair."
