

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT, GROVER CLEVELAND, of New York.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT, THOMAS A. HENDRICKS, of Indiana.

For Presidential Electors, A. C. JONES, of Jackson, L. B. ISON, of Baker, W. D. FENTON, of Yamhill.

Gov. Hendricks on the Cleveland Scandal.

Gov Hendricks has written the following letter to a citizen of Dubuque, Iowa:

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug 21, 1884. I have your letter of the 19th inst. I cannot consider with favor your suggestion of a change in the national ticket. The action of the convention cannot now be considered. It must stand, and I think it ought to stand. I do not agree with you in respect to the probable result. I think the probabilities are favorable to the success of our ticket. The Cleveland scandal will not have weight with the people and ought not to have weight. It is unworthy the national contest. Three times Governor Cleveland stood the test of a popular canvass, once for the office of mayor of his own city, and each time he has received the indorsement of his own neighbors by a vote largely above his party strength. What ever there may have been existing before that, it is not just for him or the people now to revive it. The public welfare requires that he be judged by his capability and fitness for the discharge of responsible and important public duties and not by an old and exploded scandal. Very Respectfully yours, etc.

T. A. HENDRICKS

Ready for Trial.

The charges made against Blaine by the Indianapolis Sentinel were published by, at least, two papers in 1876, eight years ago. Considering this fact it is difficult to understand why Blaine should desire that suit should be brought immediately. He has restrained his fiery ardor for some years and it looks as if a few weeks of the story would not injure the author of the famous Mulligan letters. From the following dispatch to the Portland News (Rep.) it appears that he will have a speedy opportunity to vindicate himself, which he had feared he could not get, as the Sentinel could delay the trial until after November:

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 25.—The Sentinel is preparing for an early trial of the libel suit brought against it by Mr. Blaine. A host of Democratic lawyers have volunteered their services to the defense, but Senator Voorhees has already been retained. A Louisiana man has written to the Sentinel offering to furnish proof of the published charges.

Conkling's Cold Shoulder.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug 16.—Roscoe Conkling, in a letter refusing an election as honorary member of the Albany plumed knights, says:

W. R. NICHOLS, Secretary: Noting yours, and thanking you for the offer of an honorary membership of the political organization referred to, I must ask you to excuse me. I am quite out of politics, and don't wish in any way to be drawn into the pending canvass. Your obedient servant, ROSCOE CONKLING.

George F. Edmunds was virulently assailed by many Republican journals in the months before the Chicago conventions. He remained silent until an admirer of Blaine accused Senator Edmunds of participation in a railroad scheme exactly alike Blaine's L. R. R. affair. Of course the admirer could see nothing wrong in that, but we incline to think that Mr. Edmunds did, as he immediately, without waiting even one day, published a complete refutation, and in a bitterly satirical way, asked that his name be not mentioned with that of Jas. G. Blaine. Probably he was of the opinion of the Portland Oregonian of April 24, 1884, that "the recollection made by publication of the "Mulligan letters" will not down."

During the late civil war, the three Cleveland boys held a consultation, and two joined the army, while Grover Cleveland was to remain home and care for the mother and sister. Unfortunately Grover was drafted, but at once secured a substitute. When the Legislature was reimbursing those who had paid substitutes, Mr. Cleveland refused to petition the Legislature for his money, or be reimbursed in any manner. Like Mr. Cleveland, Mr. Blaine was drafted and furnished a substitute: While the former refused to be reimbursed, the latter received from the State of Maine the sum which he had paid for a substitute. Blaine has two brothers neither of whom fought in the late war.

Vermont elects State officers next Tuesday. Republican reports say that Blaine is immensely popular there. We shall see. That State gave 26,909 Republican majority four years ago.

An Explanation which Needs an Explanation.

We publish Mr. Blaine's explanation of his connection with the L. R. Railroad. The "vindication," as it is called, has appeared in the Republican papers of this State but yet not one has had the candor to give the Mulligan letters which appeared a month later. Mr. Blaine's speech is to be found on page 2725 of the Congressional Record for 1876:

"In common with hundreds of other people in New England and other parts of the country, I bought some of these bonds—not a very large amount—paying for them at precisely the same rate that others paid. I never heard and do not believe that the Little Rock Company, which I know is controlled by highly honorable men, ever parted with a bond to any person except at the regular market price fixed for their sale."

Mr. Blaine then asserts that he lost $20,000 in this venture, and paid money out of his own pocket to sustain the L. R. Railroad. He then continues:

"My whole connection with this road has been as open as the day. If there had been anything to conceal about it I should never have touched it. Wherever concealment is desirable, avoidance is advisable, and I do not know any better test to apply to the honor and fairness of a business transaction. "In the seven intervening years since the Little Rock and Fort Smith bonds were placed on the market, I know few investments that have not been more affected by the legislation of Congress. But this case does not require to be shielded by any other comparisons or citations. For I repeat that the Little Rock road derived all it had from the State of Arkansas and not from Congress. It was in the discretion of Congress to give or withhold from the State, but it was solely in the discretion of the State to give or withhold from the Little Rock Railroad company. "Third, that instead of receiving bonds of the Little Rock and Fort Smith Road as a gratuity, I never had one except at the regular market price, and that instead of making a large fortune out of company I have incurred a severe pecuniary loss from my investment in its securities, which I still retain. And out of such affairs as this grows the popular gossip of large fortunes amassed in Congress.

The editor of the Chicago Staats Zeitung says that 95 per cent. of the Germans of Illinois will vote the Democratic ticket. That paper and its editor have heretofore been strongly Republican.
