HALL'S Vegetable Scallian HAIR RENEWER

was the first preparation perfectly adapted to cure dandruff of the scalp, and the first successful restorer of faded or gray hair to its natural color, growth, and youthful beauty.
It has had many imitations, but none have so fully met all the requirements essential for the proper treatment of the hair and scalp.
Hall's Hair Renewer is less steadily grown in favor, and speed its fame and usefulness to every quarter of the globe. Its unparalleled success can be attributed to but one cause: the entire abandonment of its preparation.

The proprietors have often been surprised at the receipt of orders from remote countries, where they had never made an effort for its introduction.

The use for a short time of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER wonderfully improves the personal appearance. It cleanses the scalp from all impurities, cures all humors, fever, and dandruff, and thus prevents baldness. It stimulates the weakened glands, and enables them to push forward a new and vigorous growth. The effects of this article are not temporary, like those of alcoholic preparations, but remain a long time, which makes it a matter of economy.

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE FOR THE WHISKERS

Will change the beard to a natural brown, or black, as desired. It produces a permanent color that will not wash away. Consisting of a single preparation, it is applied without trouble.

THE OREGONIAN ON BLAINE.

Extracts from the Leading Republican Paper of Oregon.

Five Pictures of the Republican Candi- date.

It is very evident that our neighbor of the Oregonian has swallowed a great deal of dirt and completely turned upon himself since Blaine's nomination. We propose to present that paper's inconsistency and condemn its present utterances by its own columns. The editor of that paper went to Chicago four years ago as the champion of James G.
Blaine, and we understood refused to go this year because he would not go instructed to vote for the man he regarded unfit for the position. He strenuously opposed his nomination, but supporters the monopolist, the railroad tool, the lobbyist, and the man the Democrats wanted Republicans to nominate because they could easily defeat him. We have hardly ever seen a more complete surrender than we witness in the extracts, and we would like the Oregonian to explain its position now as compared with its former views.

DEMOCRATIC ENTHUSIASM.

In the issue of May 15th, the Oregonian said:

"The enthusiasm of the Democratic papers for Blaine is one of the most striking features of the political situation. Not even Republican papers which support him make a stronger showing for Blaine in their tables of delegates, or are more confident that he is sure to be nominated or more pleased at such a prospect. Inasmuch as the Democrats desire the nomination of the man whom they can most easily beat, the remarkable favor which they show the Blaine candidacy is full of significance."

The Oregonian was then correct. The Democrats did want Blaine nominated, because they knew then and know now that the American people will not elect him, and that he is, the "easiest man for them to beat."

CLEVELAND CAN BEAT HIM.

Again, on the 19th day of May, the Oregonian comes squarely out and confesses that Blaine can be defeated by Governor Cleveland, as he would, and is, receiving a large number of independent votes in New York.

"The Republicans must be prepared to meet a united Democracy in November. As against Mr. Blaine or General Logan or President Arthur, Governor Cleveland could secure a large amount of independent votes in New York where a change of less than 12, 000 four years ago would have elected General Hancock. Instead of there being nothing to do, as Gov. Long says, but to pass on to victory, there is great danger that they will pass on to defeat unless they nominate a man who is stronger than his party."

A DEFENSIVE CAMPAIGN.

They took the man and are on the defensive. The Oregonian on the 21st of April had this to say of the spotted candidate's prospects:

"Since the Republican party can nominate a man who would be unsatisfactory on his record, why take Blaine whose name would be the signal for a defensive campaign? Again, since the Republican party can nominate a man who would receive the united "independent," "stalwart" and "half-breed" vote, particularly in the Empire State, where such solid vote is most needed, why nominate Mr. Blaine who cannot get it?"

Here we have a confession that Blaine cannot get the "Independent," "stalwart" or "half-breed" vote in the Empire State where it is badly needed.

APPROVAL OF THE TIMES.

On May 31st, just eight days before the National Republican Convention met, the Oregonian approved of the notice served on the Republican party by the New York Times, but unfortunately for the former, it was not "independent" enough to stand its ground and fight the man who "personally and politically, in office or out," represents principles and practices which the Times abhors, and which, at that time, the Oregonian evidently did not approve. It said:

"The refusal of the New York Times to support as a candidate for the Presidency a man who personally and politically in office or out represents principles and practices which the Times abhors and has counselled its party to shun is worthy of a great and honorable newspaper."

THE MONOPOLY CANDIDATE.

But on June 2d, the Oregonian gets nearer to Blaine's real character, and shows who were his supporters and backers, and mentions the names of the men who know Blaine and who have use for his kind, and says these men would not support him were he not in league with them. Here is the Oregonian's own words, only six days before his nomination:

"The railroad men and other capitalists like those we referred to are intensely shrewd and astute men. They have superior means of intelligence and are careful not to make mistakes. They know Mr. Blaine. Mr. Huntington as his famous letters show has spent much time in Washington as a lobbyist, and he knows whether Mr. Blaine is a good man for him or not, and Mr. Spreckles also knows him. These men have no interest in common with the common people. They select a President on precisely the same principles and for the same reasons that they appoint agents in their business, and the fact that they have confidence that he will promote their interests. They would not support him if he were not a railroad man and in league with the corporations."

WHY BLAINE?

Here we have some more. This article was printed in the issue of the 30th of May, and comes down to the plain facts, giving names and the reason why Blaine was wanted by the ring, and shows why they had selected this man, and gives away a little secret history how the Plumed Knight was put in the office of Secretary of State, which was the same as that which secured his election as Speaker, because he could be "useful in various channels," and never proved a "dead-head in any enterprise." Here is what the Oregonian said:

"We have wondered if it ever occured to the farmers and mechanics and merchants on this coast that they do not naturally want the same man for President that Charles Crocker and Claus Spreckles want. These men do not select a candidate on the general principle of patriotism. It is a business matter with them. They want a President to aid them in retaining the advantages they have over the masses and to increase these advantages. They have selected James G. Blaine as their man. He was their candidate four years ago and was supported by the railroad element. Though he failed of being President, he was placed at the head of the cabinet as the representative of these corporate interests. Gen.
Garfield's inaugural address was studiously silent upon the great corporation question, and the New York Graphic suggested at the time a reason for this silence. It said: "Mr. Blaine and Mr. Ried of the Tribune were closeted with the President the greater part of the time yesterday. Can it be that this had anything to do with their being no mention in the inaugural address of the impending issue between the corporations and the people?" Mr. Blaine has been the friend and ally of the railroads and other great corporations, and as he said in his notorious (Mulligan) letters, he has tried to serve them well.
The reasons why Huntington, Crocker and Spreckles want Mr. Blaine is very apparent. The masses of the people surely cannot want him for the same reason, and the question is which of these opposing parties is mistaken in their man.

We have given a few interesting extracts from the Oregonian, and shall continue to furnish more. It will be instructive, while it may not be interesting reading to the Oregonian, which has all at once become the champion of this same man Blaine.—Standard.

Laboring Men for Cleveland.

New York, Aug. 26.—A delegation of workmen called on the National Democratic Committee to-day and presented an answer to the statements made in Butler's letter of acceptance.
They desire to correct Butler's statement that the Democratic Convention at Chicago refused to insert in the platform a single demand of the workmen in a plank in the interest of labor.
The statement that Cleveland failed to carry out his pledges made in 1882 is also denied. They declare that the opposite is the case, and that every measure demanded by workmen has been granted, and by Cleveland's actions more has been done in the way of practical legislation than by all labor unions or all political parties from the declaration of independence to this day.—Portland News, (Rep.)

The New York Tribune, the only Republican paper of prominence in New York City now supporting Blaine and Logan, said in 1876: There is a great difference between the two men, for Butler is a blackguard by nature, while Blaine is only a bully through calculation.
