another Case of Didn't Know It Was Londed

We hear some particulars of the accidental Fork, about thirty miles distant from Eugene. As is usually the case the party who was handling the pistol did not know it was sailed. From Dr Jones who was called to attend the young man we glean the following particulars. It appears that two young men were together at the residence of Andrew Luce, one a son of that gentleman aged 19 years, and another by the name of Thorn, 15 years of age, whose parents reside in the vicinity of Cottage Grove. Young Thorn was handling a 38 calibre pistol, believing it to be unloaded, when by some means it was discharged and the ball struck Luce in the abdomen passing into the intestines cutting several besides severing several blood vessels. After intense suffering he passed away Monday evening just as Dr. Jones arrived. The custom of carrying firearms is entirely too prevalent, and should be checked.

The Narrow Guage Lines.

The farming community along the narrow guage lines have for some time past been greatly exercised at the prespect of the O R & N Company deserting these roads on the 15th of shooting of a young man up the Middle November, pursuant to the agreement the latter made to operate them to that date only. Representations were made to the agent in Dundee of the Scotch bondholders showing the danger which might result to the bondholders if the legislature should in consequence of the non-operation of these roads, take steps to protect the farmers' interests, seeing that there are now stored in the narrow gauge ware houses many thousands of bushels wheat which cannot be sold and carried to Portland before next Spring. The farmers desired and suggested to the Scotch b in lholders that a receiver be appointed whenever the OR & N Co vacated the road. This request, we believe, has been made by the bondholders at Dunded to the directors in Scotland, who have tele graphed to their attorneys hete to apply to the courts for the appointment of a receiver, should the United States Circuit Court fail to grant the mandamus now desired by the Oregonian Railway Company to compel the O. R. & N Company to operate the line. It seems that on the 15th of May last, when the O. R. & N Company notified the Oregonian that they they would not operate its lines any longer, and denied the validity of the lease, the Ore gonian entered into a temporary agreement with the O R & N Coompany to operate the line "for behalf of whom it might concern" for six months, to expire to day. No compromise has been made between the lessors and the lessees as yet, and no prospect of a settlement for some time. Many farmers from Silverton, Dallas, Scio, Brownsvill, Briedwell, Airlie and other points along the various narrow lines have resently come to Portland almost daily to obtain information in case their wheat should be locked up for some months, and if a receiver is to be applied for to operate these roads it narrow gange lines. Whatever is to be the final suffer in the meantime.

Epiron Guann. - In the Oregonian of Nov 10th there is a weak and frantic editorial is which the editor attempts to empty his peut up wrath upon the tried and true friends of a great reform, who had patriotism and moral courage enough to cast their votes on the right side of the greatest question now before the American people. This spiteful effusion, clothed as it is in the garb of maicious falsehood, needs only to be noticed to be condemned by every honest and thoughtful citizen.

The first sentence contains an untruth. It not true that "among the earnest and practical friends of temperance there is universal regret that the prohibition vote has defeated the Republican party." On the contrary, a large and respectable portion of the temperance people rejoice that a candidate, who had the audacity to attempt to lasten the liquor business as a perpetual heritage upon the American people by an act of Congress has been, as he richly deserved, defeated by the Prohibition vote of the nation. They believe that it is especially fit and proper that he should have been defeated by that vote, since he had not the moral courage to stand up and vote with the people of his own State for prohibition, lest he should fail to catch the liquor vote which he and his party leaders so earnestly craved. Again this graceless editor says, "nearly all thuse people," meaning temperance people, "were Republicans." Now he either knew that to be false or has not sense enough to potatoes up and growing with new potatoes that to be false or has not sense enough to discuss this question. Every well informed set on the vines, even now, Nov 12th.

VERITY. man knows that in Missouri, Arkansas, Tennessee, Georgia, Texas and North Carolina, where Democratic rule prevails, a very strong temperance sentiment exists, and many of these States have the best local option laws. will be chearful news to the farmers along the Again he says that nine-tenths of all the temperance voters, who in any way were result of the suit between the OR & N and friendly to or tolerant of the prohibition Oregonian companies the farmers ought not to cause, belonged to the party defeated by the Prohibition vote. And again, "having deliberately put into power the party that contains nine-tenths of the classes who traffic in alcoholic drinks, the prohibitionists may now look to that party for t eaid they seek. In these two false statements it is hard to tell whether the exasperated editor has not betrayed his sincerity more than his imbecili ty; he has certainly left his readers in a quandary up a this point. But how cruel in him and the party for whom he speaks, to cooliy tell the Prohibitionists that because a cranky few of them have voted in a way to "defeat his party," that "has so deeply sympathized with temperance and have so patiently borne local defeats for the cause of temperance;" that, "till the crack of doom prohibitionists will get no more help from the Republican party," and that, too, when according to his initial statement there is universal regret that this cranky few should have acted so hadly. Bosh! What duplicity. What hypericy? For once he speaks like a man when he says, "it is just as well to be plain about this matter." But why wait until after the election to be plain about this matter? Way did not this party tool tell long ago what most temperance men already knew, that prohibitionists "till the crack of doon" need look for no favors from the Republican party. But having let slip this one truth hone forward to the close of this wrathful editorial truth seems to be a minus
