Senator Slater's Views.

Senator James H. Slater, in a letter to the Portland Sunday Welcome, replying to the queries "Can a Senator appointed by Gov. Moody take a seat in the Senate?" and "can a Senator of Oregon be legally elected under the existing circumstances at an extra session?" gives his opinion with the following: "Whatever may be the views of Governor Moody, or the lawyers he consults, the admitting of Mr. Blair from New Hampshire at the present extra session of the Senate settles the question, that if Governor Moody appoints a Senator he will be allowed to take his seat by the Senate. The principles and the facts "are on favors," as lawyers say. I do not agree that it is rightly settled, but it is settled in that way and was so settled six years ago by the admitting of Mr. Bell; and that, too, when the Senate was Democratic. As to whether the Legislature adjourned sine die I am not positively informed, but take it, that in point of fact, it did. Of course the Governor has the power under the Constitution to convene the Legislature in extra session, and as no Senator was elected at the regular session, it would be competent at such extra session to elect one, provided there was a constitutional quorum in each house in attendance to transact business.

We have a "vigorous foreign policy now. A rebel government at Panama seized a steamer belonging to American citizens, and imprisoned numerous of our citizens. A U. S. man of war was in the harbor, and following the traditional Republican policy, lay idle and allowed the outrages to be consummated. This being reported to Washington, Secretary Whitney and Bayard held a consultation, the result of which was that two more war ships were ordered to the scene. Secretary Whitney sent a telegram to the recalcitrant commander as follows: "You were ordered to Aspinwall to protect American interests and the lives and property of American citizens. All that is implied in these words is expected to be done by you to the extent of the force under your command. If the Colon has been seized restore her to her officers, if it is in your power."

An interesting question as to whether an absent husband is to be presumed dead or alive has just been passed upon by Surrogate Rollins. The petitioner in the case claimed to be the widow of John Nesbit, to whom she was married in 1883. She had previously been married to a man named Decker, whom she saw for the last time in 1875, and who was last heard of in 1878. At the time of her marriage to Nesbit she did not know whether Decker was dead or alive. As nothing had been heard of him for five years she took it for granted that he was not living. Was the second marriage valid. The Surrogate holds that it was.—N. Y. Herald.

The Washington correspondent of the Springfield Republican says that President Cleveland, learning that ex-President Arthur contemplated a trip to Europe, offered him several diplomatic missions to European courts, which Mr. Arthur declined as he preferred to go abroad as a private citizen. The relation between the two men are of the most cordial character, as has been shown by numerous courtesies extended to each other since the meeting of the two gentlemen in Washington a month ago.

The English Government has flunked and backed down completely. The wonderful terms offered by the Russians to England are that Russia shall hold the territory that England claims belongs to Afghanistan and even extend the Russian conquest over lands she does not. England must fight, sooner or later, and the imbecile policy of the present ministry is without parallel and will probably result in their downfall. Russia has thrown the glove full in England's face, and England must accept or sink to the level of a third rate power.

Secretary of the Navy Whitney has notified Mr. John Roach, of the Chester, Pa., ship yards that the new steamship Dolphin is not what the contract calls for. A subscription to campaign funds would use to cover a multitude of defects, but the halcyon days of jobbing in this line are past. Mr. Roach will have to earn his money hereafter.

Minister McLane's appointment gives general satisfaction in France where he is well known.

Francis Wharton, Professor of International law in the University of Boston, has resigned to accept a position in the State Department as adviser to Secretary Bayard. Prof. Wharton has published several volumes on this subject that have been translated into most European languages, and are considered authority among diplomats. He has always been a Democrat.

The total decrease in the wheat product of the United States this year, caused by decrease in acreage and winter killed crops will, it is estimated, be over one hundred million bushels. Oregon farmers who persevered in the face of low prices and rainy harvest last year and sowed the usual acreage may get a chance this fall to reap the reward of their energy and industry.

The editor of the Providence Journal has been visiting New Orleans and has found several things there that astonish him. In a recent letter he asks this question: "Would you see in Boston itself, gentlemen, young and old, giving up their seats in the cars to negro women as a matter of course, passing up their fares, as you invariably do here."

A distinguished honor is that paid to Postmaster Pearson of New York city in his renomination by the President. Mr. Pearson was a good officer but a poor politician, which won him the ill-will of the Republican politicians and the esteem of the better portion of both parties. We believe the move will strengthen the Democracy.

The news that Gen. Grant is near his death will be received with regret and sorrow by the entire public. His countrymen owe him a heavy debt of gratitude for his eminent services twenty years ago in aiding to settle the vexed questions that divided the North and the South. The era of the war is passing away and with it the great actors in its eventful scenes.

Daniel McConville, Jr., the new auditor of the treasury for the postoffice department, is by birth an Irishman, having been born in the Emerald Isle in 1846. He has, however, lived at Steubenville, Ohio, since he was a few years old. He was at the time of his appointment, private secretary to Gov. Hoadly.

Our exports of canned salmon last year amounted to $2,323,025 of which $1,177,340 went to England alone and $401,679 to British possessions in Australia. The total exports to Great Britain and her dependencies was $2,192,837, or over 94 per cent. of the whole.

The New York Herald thinks that wheat will bear a high price next fall and advises farmers to sow as great an acreage as possible. It says that the wheat crop will be 100,000,000 bushels less than that of 1884.

Horace Greely once quoted in a leading editorial, "Tis true, 'tis pity; pity 'tis 'tis true," and it appeared as "'tis one, 'tis fifty, 'tis five." It is no wonder that he died in the madhouse.

Obituary.

In memory of Frankie Smith, whose gentle spirit was freed on the morning of March 20th at her home near Harmony, Benton county, after years of ill health, aged 23 years, 2 months and 22 days.

Frankie was a woman of more than average ability, and generous to a fault. A true friend, devoted daughter and sister; no higher eulogy can be pronounced upon any woman. Amiable, she won all; intelligent, she charmed all; fervent, she loved all; and dead, she saddened all. The dread messenger came too at a time when apparently life was all radiant with hope.

But it speaks for us all like a bird on the wing, No matter how fondly to this life we cling; 'Tis the wink of an eye, 'tis the draught of a breath, From the blossom of health to the paleness of death.

'Tis hard indeed to reconcile ourselves to the thought that on earth we meet dear Frank no more; but may we not hope that the same sweet voice and gentle confiding heart that was so dear to us all, is waiting in the golden summer of another life. "Not dead but gone before," where kindred and friends will gather again in a sweet reunion to part nevermore, and forever chant Sweet Rest in Heaven.

Lay our cherished friend among the daisies With the fringes on her eyes Softer than their silver petals, Closed for blissful severies, Fold her lily hands in whiteness, On the heart unsmiling pressed; For that heart of angel brightness, Tired so early, lies at rest.

Tired so early, she has gathered All her glances in sweet repose, She has suffered all in silence, To mother turned her pleading face, When the morning winds were sighing Came the angels of the dawn, Then her suffering face shone brighter And a whispering sob said "gone."

Lay her low among the daisies, Angels knew her more than we, They have led her home from wandering Tired with earthly revelry, And above her daisied pillow, Let her simple tale be told; He that wakes the flowers shall wake her, White as snow with heart of gold.

M. E. K. Harrisberg, March 31, 1885.

Edward Jansen, a brother-in-law of Carl Schurz has been appointed counsel-general to Vienna. He is described as well qualified and fit in every way for the position.

Secretaries Whitney and Manning have begun investigating the books of their respective departments.
