

LATE NEWS SUMMARY.

Foreign and Domestic.

A rag-picker at Pittsburgh traded his son for a yellow dog. After July 1st letter postage will be two cents per ounce. The wheat crop in Minnesota has been greatly damaged by the cold weather. J. Bassett, a banker at Brenham, Texas, killed himself with a target gun. The capital of West Virginia has been removed from Wheeling to Charleston. More than 500 deaths from measles have occurred in New York city since Jan. 1. Near Indianapolis, Neb., May 26th, a waiter spout burst, drowning nine Bohemians. Brooklyn bridge is in danger of becoming a popular resort for suicides. Another insurrection has broken out in Cuba and much excitement prevails. The seventeen-year locusts have appeared in large numbers all through North Georgia. General Grant and family are getting ready to go to Saratoga to spend the summer. Six men were injured by the explosion of a land tank at the California tripe works, San Francisco. General Grant's physicians say it is only a question of a few months when the hero will have to succumb. Great excitement exists in Alabama over the recent gold discoveries, and much capital is being invested. At Jersey City, N. J., May 27th, a three-story tenement house fell, killing four children. Nine other persons were seriously hurt. An avalanche from the mountains near Lake Van, in Armenia, overwhelmed a native caravan and caused the death of thirty-eight persons. Disagreements between the English and American versions of the Bible have been developed, and it is thought an American edition will be issued. Mrs. John L. Sullivan failed to secure a divorce from the champion slugger, as the allegations made in her application were not proven in court. It is said that 4,000 sewing machines per week are being shipped to Russia by one American machine company to fill urgent orders for military clothing. Montana cattlemen say that never before in the history of the herds of the Northwest has there been such promising results as at the present time. The suicide of Mrs. Oppenheimer, of Fremont, Ohio, was quickly followed by that of her father, Rabbi Gustorf, who threw himself into a cistern. The Iowa Indians, numbering 150 persons, located on the Nemaha Agency in Kansas, have made preparations to emigrate to Indian Territory in a body. The Singer sewing machine factory at New York was destroyed by fire, May 27th, causing a loss of $900,000. Over 500 skilled workmen were thrown out of employment. Editor M. C. Harris, who was expelled from Hot Springs in 1884 by a citizens committee, has been awarded $1250 damages by the Federal Court at Little Rock. John Harper and Etta Farmer, a young couple engaged to be married, and James Welsh, were drowned in the bay at Toronto, Canada, May 26th, during a thunderstorm. At Henderson, Ky., May 28th, during a thunderstorm a bolt of lightning struck a bridge on which eight men were working. Two were fatally injured, the others slightly. At Wheeling, W. Va., seven boys ate pork root and all were taken violently ill. James Joyce died and William Garvin still lies in convulsions. The others will recover. The official records show that Louis David Riel took out final naturalization papers at Helena, Montana, March 10, 1888, renouncing allegiance to the British Government. At Joliet, Ill., an Austrian, terribly mangled and in a dying condition, was found in a freight car. His lips and nose were cut off, and his tongue was hanging by thin shreds. Near Silver City, N. M., May 29th, a family named Phillips, numbering seven persons, were butchered by Apaches. Since the Indians crossed into New Mexico fifty-nine Americans have been killed by them. Some idea of how the poor are housed in Philadelphia may be gleaned from the story which a poor widow told before a Magistrate's Court in that city. Her home was in a cellar, and she had to sit up all night to keep the rats from her children. All the iron mills at Youngstown, O., and in Mahoning Valley, have shut down on account of the refusal of manufacturers to sign the scale presented by the amalgamated association. About 10,000 men are thrown out of work by this movement. A number of dead men have been found on the trail of the raiding Apaches. Jas. Moreland's body was found six miles north of Grant, Arizona, with several gunshot wounds, and an iron ramrod driven through his head. Other whites are missing. Miss Nellie Canfield, niece of the wife of President Lincoln, attempted to commit suicide recently in a seminary for young ladies at Belleville, near Newark. Miss Canfield shot herself in the left breast near the heart. A physician has pronounced the wound fatal. At Milford, Mass., May 30th, constables refused Post 21 of the G. A. R. entrance to the Catholic cemetery in obedience to Father Cuddihy's orders. Members of the post, however, climbed over the fence and decorated graves, after which they retired. The decorations were subsequently destroyed. A young man named George Artell went to Binghamton, N. Y., and became intoxicated. While in a saloon he became angered at a negro waiter, and pulling a revolver, began firing. The saloon was crowded. Artell fired five shots, killing two men outright and wounding a third fatally, and two more seriously. Work has begun on the Chicagocetna Marine Railway, to connect the Bay of Fundy with the Straits of Northumberland. The distance is thirty-five miles, and will resemble Ead's Ship Railway. The cost is $3,000,000. The Dominion Government has subsidized the scheme to the extent of $150,000 a year for fifteen years. The explosion of a can of benzine set fire to the large furniture warehouse of Henry Vehmeyer, at Philadelphia. The walls were blown out and Mary Cathcart, passing at the time, had her skull fractured and her right arm torn off. Henry Vehmeyer, Jr., who was using benzine to kill moths, had his head badly burned, but will recover. The loss by the fire is $100,000. At Waco, Texas, May 27th, a heavy rain storm prevailed. Waco creek ran out of its banks, inundating hundreds of residents. T. Demeghoff, with his wife and three children, remained in the house after it was washed away, and the whole family were drowned. Howard Lewis (colored), wife and three children, shared the same fate. To these, five others are to be added near the city. Near Madison, Florida, May 25th, a bloody fight occurred between the West brothers and Longford brothers. The fight arose in consequence of a publication during the last campaign of some letters, which were of a very personal character. In the melee William Longford was killed outright, George Longford was so severely hurt that he is not expected to live, and Taff Longford was wounded in the head. Eugene West was shot, and Abe and Johnson West were cut, but not seriously.

The Squaw of Fact and Fancy. (Canon City Mercury.)

The young lady who wore the costume of Pocahontas at the fireman's masquerade last Thursday evening, and in pink hose and red slippers took the prize as the most realistically costumed lady present, may have been entitled to it in the minds of the judges, but popular opinion seems to think otherwise. At any rate she was not dressed like any Indian maiden we were ever intimate with. To those who are not familiar with the early days of this country the Indian maiden appears beautiful in her wild simplicity, wearing the fringed garments of her tribe, as she stands outlined against the glorious sky dressed in a coronet of eagle's feathers and a red health corset trimmed with bead work. Shall we then, with ruthless hand, shatter this beautiful picture which was represented so faithfully by the young lady the other evening! Shall we portray the real Indian maiden, as we have seen her in a her poetic nature, clothed in a pair of soft trousers, a horse blanket, with a neck lace of the false teeth of the palafax, and her coarse, unkempt hair hanging over her smoky features and clinging to her warty bony neck? No, no. Far be it from us to destroy the lovely vision of copper-color grace and beauty, which the soft folds of the effete east has erected in the rose-hued chambers of fancy. Let her dwell there as the plump-limbed princess of a brave people. Let her adorn the dormer window of his memory, proud, beautiful, grand, gaudy, and peculiar, as she was arrayed at last Thursday's masquerade. We will spare this ideal Indian maiden with a back comb and gold garters. Let her live in the memory of those who saw her the other evening, just as she was then, while the true Indian maiden eats the fringed locust of the plains and wears the plug hat of progress.

A Cannibal Christmas. (The Judge.)

What a merry, merry Christmas some of our missionaries on the coast of Africa must have had. A Bit of Truth Spoken in Jest. (New York Sun.) "How are you finding business, doctor?" was asked of a physician. "Capital," he replied. "I have all I can attend to." "I didn't understand that there was very much sickness about." "No, there isn't. But we physicians do not depend upon sickness for an income. Oh, my, no; most of our money is made from people who have nothing the matter with them."

Economy is Wealth. (French Fun.)

Master—Well, Susan, did you mail my letter, as I told you? Faithful servant—Yes, sir; but I had it weighed first, and as it was double weight I put on another stamp. Master—Good girl; only I hope you didn't put it on so as to obliterate the address. Faithful servant—Oh, no, indeed, sir; I just stuck it on top of the other stamp so as to save room.

He Was Just Like Other Men. (Chicago News.)

They were coming out of a dime museum. "I don't believe that wild man of Borneo is a wild man at all," she whispered. "Why not?" he asked. "He's civilized just like other men." "What makes you think so?" "Didn't you see the manager pay him a lot of money?" "Yes; a $30 bill and a lot of small bills." "Well, didn't you notice how careful the wild man was to fold the $30 outside?"

Col. Wales. (Merchant Traveler.)

The Prince of Wales beats a Kentuckian all to pieces. He is a colonel in sixteen regiments, and never was in a battle in his life.

A Woman Worth Her Weight in Gold. (Troy Times.)

A Newburg woman has recovered $4000 for a broken rib, and anatomists estimate that at this rate her bones are worth $816,000.

A GALAXY OF NOTABLES. Portraits of Prominent Americans and Distinguished Foreign Visitors.

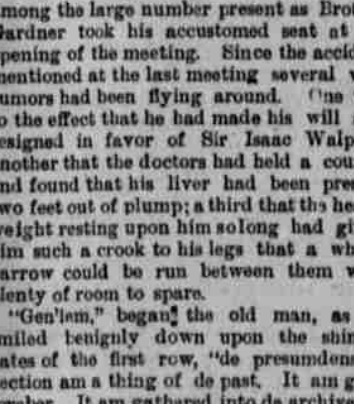

Michael R. De Young. The late shooting of M. H. De Young, of The San Francisco Chronicle, by Claus Spreckles, son of the great sugar monopolist, brings to publicity again the career of the De Young brothers, who almost penniless and without experience built up the best paying single newspaper property on the Pacific coast. Through the wildly sensational and extremely personal style of journalism which they adopted was repulsive, yet their energy and enterprise in gathering news in advance of their competitors gained for The Chronicle a circulation greater than any paper west of the Mississippi. There were three of the De Young boys, who in left America with a class of young ladies for Vienna to study, in charge of an agent, their tuition being paid in advance. On their arrival in Vienna, the teacher selected for Miss Wixom had failed. With characteristic western pluck Miss Wixom set about obtaining the education sought for without interfering her father of their misfortunes. Her talent soon won for her friends, among whom was Mrs. Mackay in Paris, who interested themselves in obtaining for her the best musical training Europe afforded. She made her debut at Her Majesty's theatre, London, in 1880, and has since filled engagements creditably in Paris, and other foreign capitals.

The Lime Kiln Club Philosopher. (Detroit Free Press.)

There was great general satisfaction among the large number present at Brother Gardner's talk his accustomed seat at the opening of the meeting. Since the accident mentioned at the last meeting several wild rumors had been flying around. One was to the effect that he had made his will and resigned in favor of Sir Isaac Walpole; another that the doctors had held a council and found that his liver had been pressed two feet out of plump; a third that his heavy weight resting upon him so long had given him such a crook in his legs that a wheelbarrow could be run between them with plenty of room to spare. "Gentlemen," began the old man, as he smiled benignly down upon the shining plates of the first row, "de pseudonshul' lecture am a thing of de past. It am gone foreber. It am gathered into de archives of de forgotten, dar to be kivered wid de cobwebs of decay. It am well. Dar am some things we don't want too much of. "Let us now turn ober a new leaf. If political bigotry has for de past three months prevented us from I corryin' coffee of a Democratic nature, it need no longer stand in de way. If de bias of our feelings has made us hesitate to lend our flat-tirons to a Republican, we mus' now offer him our wheelbarrow as well. "De long night am ober, an' daylight has broken. Let us forgive an' forget. De kentry am all heal'y, an' such of us as have survived de struggle mus' purge our hearts of rancor an' mud' de house agin cold weather."

The Famous English Jockey. (Fred Archer.)

Among the arrivals expected from Europe is this remarkably successful jockey, who has won on an average two out of five of the numerous races he had entered in the last few years. Many race-goers hold that Archer wins so often because he is so often on the favorite, but frequently the favorite loses, and that is because Archer rides. His success is no doubt due to his bravery, coolness and well-trained judgment.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

It is said that the late wife of James Russell Lowell was the critic whom he most dreaded in a literary work. —Congr. ssm-in-lect J. D. Richardson, of Tennessee, will be the tallest member of the next House. He stands nearly seven feet high in his stockings. —Judge R. H. Emerson, United States judge of the First District of Utah, has resigned, having completed three full terms of four years each on the Utah bench. —David Woodruff, of New Haven, Conn., who went to California thirty years ago by working his passage on a steamer, returned to his old home the other day a bank President and worth $2,000,000. —Harford Post.

A rather shabby-looking man applied to the chief of the Galveston police for a position. "Have you ever had any experience as a detective?" "Oh, yes," was the confident reply. "I once arrested a man who did some killing." "So you arrested a man who committed a homicide?" "Yes, he was a sort of a murderer. He was not a homicide precisely. He was a suicide; killed himself, you know." —Texas Siftings.

On the first of January of last year a new law went into effect in England reducing the cost of a patent about one-half. The number of patents applied for in 1881 was 3,751, in 1882, 6,241, in 1883, 5,993, and 1884, 17,110.
