The Grant County News says: The most destructive cloud burst ever known in Grant county occurred last Monday, and extended over a tract of pm. country twelve miles in length. Rocks weighing tons were washed loose on the hills and came down like an avalanche, sweeping away fences, houses and graves; dry gulches were filled and overflowing; the smallest rivulets became roaring torrents. Below the immediate scene of the flood the river raised ten feet, covering meadows and destroying the growing crops. No estimate can now be made of the damage sustained by the various farmers.

The fame of our Willamette valley is only beginning to be established. The railroads have at last made Oregon a part of the country's map. The Willamette valley is being appreciated at something like its true value-is being described by those who have passed through it as one of the prettiest and most fruitful of the North American continent, All of which means that Oregon has not yet passed through her ballyhood of growth .-- Talk.

Colonel Tom Ochiltree says Texas is growing like a green-bay tree, and that it will in a couple of decades have ten million of people and be the largest and wealthiest State in the Union. "Its taxable property," says he, "has increased seventy-five million dollars within the last year, and its population has become as cosmopolite as that of New York. It will never be divided into four States as has been suggested. Its people are too proud to destroy its autonomy."
