Land for the People.

The official announcement contained in recent dispatches of the opening of millions of acres of land to settlement previously kept out of the market for indemnity purposes will be gratifying to the whole country. The failure of the corporations to comply with the conditions of their respective grants has been irrefutably shown. The spoliation of the popular inheritance was proven to be without example in civilized history. All this was urged by newspapers which demanded that justice should be done to the people. Until the Democratic Administration came into power, however, very little attention was given to this question of restitution. The new Land Commissioner, however, came into office deeply impressed with the necessity of giving the subject the most careful consideration. His investigations revealed the justice of the demand and his action has been prompt and decisive. As announced in recent dispatches, the effect of his decision will be to restore to entry, under the homestead and other laws, many millions of acres of public lands which have been kept out of the market for years because of the claims set up to them by railroad corporations. In the single Territory of Montana over 20,000,000 acres of the public domain previously sequestered by the Northern Pacific Railroad is opened. In Washington Territory, Oregon and Dakota are many, many millions more. An avenue is thus opened for the thousands of homeless people scattered over the country and hopeless of employment to find a means of exercising their industry, thrift and enterprise. It should drain the great cities of their idle young men, who in the fertile valleys of the Missouri and the Yellowstone will be able to build for themselves comfortable homes and surround their possessions with all the appliances of civilized life.—Examiner.

Evidently Believes in "Shool."

He looked earnestly at the two glass hand grenades that hung on the walls of the corridor at Drury Lane.

"How thoughtful," he said, "of the management to provide bottles of water in case of faintness among the ladies."

"Then's fire extinguishers," interrupted the attendant. "When a fire breaks out you throw a bottle on it and they puts it out."

"Any kind of a fire?"

"Yes; big or little."

"Then I'll have half a dozen put into my coffin."—Paris Morning News.

Half Bred Grouse.

The Salem Statesman says: "A hunter brought into this office yesterday a head of a bird which was half Mongolian pheasant and half grouse. This may seem queer to a good many people, but there is no doubt but that the new pheasant lately introduced into this country and the native grouse inter-bred. There will probably be a new kind of wild fowl found in this country if this is a fact. The specimen shown had the head of a pheasant, and wing and tail feathers like the grouse."

The quarterly statement of the earnings and expenditures of the penitentiary shows that institution to be in a pretty prosperous financial condition. The amount of expenditures for the quarter ending June 30, 1885, was $6,659 82; earnings and collections, $6,537 85, leaving a balance of expenditures over the receipts of $121 97. Work amounting to $566 68, for which cash was not paid, should be figured in the receipts. This leaves a balance of $428 71 of receipts above expenditures.

In North Carolina, where the Legislature recently appropriated $30,000 for the benefit of disabled soldiers who had served in the Confederate army, on the supposition that there would be about 1,000 applicants, each of whom would receive $30, over 3,000 applicants have already presented claims, and it is thought that the whole number will reach 4,000. If this expectation is realized each disabled veteran will receive a gift of $7 50.

Extra Session.

We have it from excellent authority that the Republican leaders of Portland have sent to each Republican member of the Legislature a list of four names to be voted for as Senator, provided the Governor calls an extra session. The object is to see if an agreement can be made by which a Republican Senator can be elected. In other words, if no agreement can be reached then no extra session will be called. All that is desired is the Senatorship. A pledge as follows is asked from each Legislator: "Take your choice of these four names, but pledge yourself to finally agree on one of them." No more high handed proceeding was ever tried by any set of men. The State is to be robbed of $30,000; the Governor is to prostitute his high office for party advantage; the people's representatives are to be dictated to by a ring—and all for what? For a Senatorship that has been forfeited. The people have some rights in this matter, and we inform Gov. Moody and his coterie of political advisers that they will not be trifled with. The whole question of the extra session is simply for political advantage. There, it is simply an attempt to rob the people of their dearest right—the franchise of the ballot. Gov. Moody should stand by and with the people. Let him answer this question: If the Legislature was Democratic would he think of calling an extra session? No! Then act according to every dictate of honesty and justice.—Roseburg Review.

An Interview With Higgins.

Louisville Courier Journal.

Mr. Higgins, of the Treasury Department, in all his talk, stands by his principles, which are, that to the victors belong the spoils. One of the clerks dropped from the rolls in the Sixth Auditor's office came into the room of Appointment Clerk Higgins one afternoon to learn the cause of his dismissal.

"Don't you know how long you have been in the department?" was asked.

"Yes," was the reply.

"Well, how long?"

"About eighteen years."

"A little over eighteen years, isn't it?" asked Mr. Higgins.

"Yes, sir, I think it is."

"Well, haven't you been treated pretty well?"

"I suppose I have."

"Then, what have you got to say?"

"Nothing, except good by."

So they shook hands and parted.

At the last session of the Legislature the sum of $2,000 was appropriated for a memorial stone from this State to be placed in the Washington monument, in a niche left for that purpose, and the contract for executing this work was let to Frank Woods, of Albany. He has been engaged upon the stone for some time, and expects to have it completed by August 1st. Although several States have expended much more than Oregon for a memorial stone, it is stated that none yet sent from any State will surpass this one when completed. It is to consist of three kinds of Oregon stone. The stone itself is a brown sandstone bearing on its face a landscape containing the coat of arms of the State surrounded by fruits and flowers, the whole enclosed with a raised moulding. The stars surrounding the State shield are to be of a greenish syenite set into the sandstone, and the snow capped mountains are to be represented by white marble, also set in the brown sandstone.

Secretary Manning has reduced the force in the Treasury Department 400 and thus made a saving of $500,000 per year. He expects to dismiss at least 600 more and make the annual saving over $1,000,000. This is reform.

Sol. Abraham has succeeded in having the county buildings located on the railroad addition to Grant's Pass, he giving the county $500 and a one-half interest in all his realty in Josephine county.—Roseburg Review.

An Ohio man who had drunk twelve barrels of cider since last fall is dead. Whether he died from drinking too much, or whether he perished because the cider gave out, is not stated.

The First Lady.

Miss Cleveland has settled the mooted question of who is the first lady in the land. She settled it herself in a way that meets public applause. The other day when there was some house-cleaning to be done in the Executive mansion she tied a towel around her head, put on an old calico dress, and with broom and dust-pan in hand, went from room to room and made things lively for a while. The servants, who had never witnessed such a scene in the old mansion, stood aghast, but that didn't deter her from going through with the work. Of course there is going to be a terrible outcry on the part of polite society. But that will not dethrone Miss Cleveland from the proud position which the American people with a loud voice will accord to her. The masses of the people will stand by her and uphold her as the first lady of the land. Such homely common sense as she displays is right up to American ideas. The woman who knows how to take care of her home is the only queen that Americans crown.—Courier-Journal.

He Does Not Want to Go.

A Washington special says: Treasury officials are still trying to find the address of Governor Kinkead of Alaska, to notify him that he has been succeeded by Swineford of Michigan. Kinkead has been dodging about between Alaska, San Francisco and Nevada, avoiding telegrams. The last heard of him he had sailed for northern Alaska. It is probable that he will not be informed of his recall until the new Governor finds him and relieves him officially. The Treasury Department is also trying to relieve one of the Seal island agents, supposed to be at Alaska. It turns out that he has not been there for a year or more, but awaits his removal in San Francisco. He thinks he will be allowed to draw pay until he receives an order of removal, but it has been decided otherwise, by placing the name of his successor on the pay roll, to date from June 15th.

A Good Administration.

The San Francisco Post, a leading Republican paper, says: "The fact is that President Cleveland has, on the whole, given the country a very satisfactory administration so far. The people are convinced that he is a man of honest purpose, bent upon doing his best. He has made mistakes, of course, and his policy of restoring the South to a full share of the honors and emoluments of the Government may be disagreeable to old-line Republicans. But nobody ever expected that old Republicans would take much comfort out of a Democratic administration. Mr. Cleveland has not been in office long enough to furnish the opposition with material for a platform. And, judging from the character of the man, it is probable the Republicans will find it expedient to trust to something besides his blunders to supply them with ammunition."

"Where rolls the mighty Oregon" was quoted but once while the editors were in Oregon, and then the work was done by an Oregon man. One of our Iowa boys quoted "Breathes there a man with soul so dead," &c., and ten minutes after our train pulled out the very spot where the speaker stood was struck by lightning.—Atlanta, Iowa, Telegraph.

The appointment of Mr. R. H. Todd, of Spokane Falls, as deputy internal revenue collector for eastern Washington Territory, by Governor Whiteaker, is a most excellent selection. Mr. Todd resided for many years in McMinnville, is a thorough business man, and has the esteem and confidence of those who know him.

Gov. Hoadly will doubtless be renominated for Governor of Ohio and try the race over again with Foraker. He has made a splendid record as Governor, and we trust will be elected again. He is one of the leaders of the Democracy.

President Cleveland has made an average of twenty-seven appointments per day, including Sundays, since he has been in office.
